No. 48.

FROM THE SUPPORTER.

A LETTER OF JOHN ADAMS.

[Said to be a Copy.]

Quincy, May, 1800.

DEAR SIR,

THE first thing I have to communicate to you must be an explanation of the date of my letter. The Legislature of Massachusetts last winter, upon a petition of the North Parish in Braintree, separated it from the rest of the town, erected it into a new one, and gave it the name of Quincy. By this measure you see they have deprived me of my title of "Duke of Braintree," and write me in future as an inhabitant of Quincy. So much for this Braintree.

Something that interests me much more is your obliging letter of the 14th of this month.

I should have been happy to have seen Mr. Pinckney, before his departure; but more from individual curiosity, than from any opinion our peace, if we know not how to govern them. They will moreover corrupt our elections, and tear us to pieces. Sufficient to the day, however, is its evil; and in that day and hour it always has been, and I doubt not, always will be given us to provide against its dangers.

Yours, &c.

JOHN ADAMS.

BUONAPARTE'S RETURN.

Paris, July 2.

Yesterday morning at two o'clock the Chief Consul arrived at Paris.

The Chief Consul had been expected for several days; preparations had been made to receive him. The approach was to be announced by the sound of cannon; an illumination was to take place. The Councillors of State, with the Second and Third Consuls, and the seven Ministers, were, all in grand costume, to proceed in their carriages to meet him as far as Villé-defines, is about to give peace to Europe, and to restore France to the universe."

In the evening there was a concert at the Thuilleries, and all Paris was brilliantly illuminated.

NEW EFFORTS IN FRANCE.

The Minister at War, to the Projects and Generals.

Paris, July 7.

CITIZENS,

The Chief Consul, in the name of Peace, requested your utmost solicitude with regard to the departure of the conscripts who have not obeyed the voice of honour.

When, before the opening of the campaign, the Chief Consul proposed peace to several powers, those powers, then elated by some advantages they had gained, withheld doubtless to make a last effort, in order to profit by their momentary success, or, at least, to try attitude to make it; and the hands that still wield the sword, will drop it, in order to sign a treaty of friendship.

I salute you.

CARNOT.

A JOURNEYMAN PRINTER

Will find Employment at the Register Office.

THE undersigned, a Committee of the Trustees of the Warren Academy, are authorized to contract for the building of a House, forty feet by thirty feet, two stories high. A Plan of the Building with a Description of the Materials, and of the Manner in which the Work is to be executed, may be seen by applying to the Committee at Warren.

Those who may wish to undertake, will, after examining the Plan, deliver their Proposals in Writing. Bond, with approved Security, will be required. The Payments will be, one-third at the executing of the Contract, another when the House shall be covered up, and the last when delivered. The Committee will give their Bond for the two last Payments. Proposals will be received until the first Day of October next.
