Bale of Cotton, Scrap of Paper

'Cotton Student's' Plan to Bring Futures ot Parity With Spot

following from a "cotton student:" Owing to the prices quoted on the say, in order to buy cotton and ship it to New York and tender it against March contracts sold January 24, it would be necessary to buy at less than 16 1-4 cents, basis middling. The owners of spot cotton in the South improper grades at improper differ- low its real value, and at the end be able to buy as much as 25,000

(From The Savannah Morning News.) ences. Every man who buys a conment grades at market differences.

the South are confronted with a situation where their middling cotton, based on futures, is worth today approximately 16 1-4 cents—that is to say, in order to have other to have stronger to hav houses are operated: If A owes B a dollar, and B owes C a dollar, and C starts in A's pocket can circulate ceedingly profitable investment. Jan-through B and C and back to A, and uary contracts in New York closed on owners of spot cotton in the South believe their middling cotton to be worth in the neighborhood of 20 s, and the sellers of "paper" cotton. New York believe it to be worth nearly four cents a pound less. If the spot holders in the South are right, how can they demonstrate to the parties dealing in future contracts to the parties dealing in future contracts in New York that this is the case?

In order to correct an evil it is necessary to understand the situation:

Demand the Cotton.

The purpose of this article, there
Th Demand the Cotton.

The purpose of this article, therefore, is to explain how New York future contracts can be depressed so far able to take up and pay for cotton, get the cotton at 17 cents they would absorb the entire contract stock in New York, and if they could get the cotton at 17 cents they would below the parity of spot cotton in the south, and to suggest a remedy.

There are in New York today approximately 55,000 bales of certificate cotton, of which very little more matter for the holder of the certification matter would attract cotton. than 5,000 bales grade below Americated stock to tender the actual cot-can middling. In other words, the enton to those who are "long" of the ruling quotations there. Cotton purtire trading in the New York Cotton current month, and force them either chased in New York on a basis of 17 Exchange is based upon a certificated to accept the cotton or sell out their cents there for American middling is stock, nine-tenths of which grades notice of an intention to deliver cot- the cheapest investment which pre-American middling and above. Not ton is issued by the holder of the sents itself in this country at this time. only does this mean that the grade certificated stock, and those who have is American middling, as certified by bought contracts immediately try to situation: the proper United States Government sell them out, thus causing a com-

MID-WINTER EXCURSION

WASHINGTON, D. C.

-VIA-

Southern Railway

Wednesday, Feb. 14th, 1917

from North Carolina points to Washington, D. C., Wednesday, February 14th, 1917. Special train consisting of Standard Pullman Sleeping cars and high class day coaches to leave Charlotte at 8:45 P. M., arriving Washington 8:00 A. M.

The following round trip fares will apply from stations named below:

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY will operate low round trip fare excursion contracts will run away from $90 a pound. If it is desired to correct the bale cotton when it is offered to them abnormal discount now prevailing in at $80 a bale, but if their resources New York, and to bring New York are such that they cannot finance futures in line with spots, the way to over $10 a bale, the relative cheapness do it is to buy futures and demand of the cotton offered them is of no delivery of the actual cotton, and value to them. The owner of the certain of the cotton offered them is of no delivery of the actual cotton, and there is no other way to do it.

Supply and Demand.

To show that the situation in New York. The Morning News has received the tract in New York and demands the policy as long as the buyers of the actual cotton, will receive Govern-contracts are afraid, or unable, to accept the spot cotton when tendered. The holders of the certificated The instant that the buyer accepts the New York Cotton Exchange for con-tracts to deliver cotton during future stock in New York are in a position notice"), the whole situation changes, "Whenever se

The present situation in New York owes A a dollar, then a dollar which presents a rare opportunity for an exthe same dollar can pay three sets of January 23 at 16.75-79 cents. Assum-Here, then is the remedy for a false

Let those cotton men who read this authorities, but it means that the difpetition of selling in a narrow marferences between grades are fixed under the terms of the Smith-Lever bill.

It is impossible, therefore, for sellers stock by judiciously circulating noof contracts in New York to deliver tices, can depress the market far betimproper grades at improver differ.

Let those cotton men who tend the contract market for betimproper grades at improver differ.

Let those cotton men who tend the what price they can buy the current month in New York, stating that they intend to demand delivery of the cotton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will
the market far beton. It is not likely that they will the market far beton. It is not likely that they will be able to have a second to the market far beton. It is not likely that they will be able to have a second the market far beton. It is not likely that they will be able to have a second the market far beton. It is not likely that they will be able to have a second the market far beton. It is not likely that they will be able to have a second the market far beton. It is not likely that they are the market far beton. It is not likely that they are the market far beton. It is not likely that they are the market far beton. It is not likely that they are the market far beton. It is not likely that they are the market far wind up by still owning the certificated stock.

A Rare Opportunity.

It seems curious that buyers of contracts will run away from $90 a pound. If it is desired to correct the contracts will run away from $90 a pound. If it is desired to correct the contracts will run away from $90 a pound. If it is desired to correct the contracts will run away from $90 a pound. If it is desired to correct the contracts will run away from $90 a pound. If it is desired to correct the contracts will run away from $90 a pound. If it is desired to correct the contracts will run away from $90 a pound. If it is desired to correct the contracts will run away from $90 a pound. If it is desired to correct the contracts will run away from $90 a pound.

Supply and Demand.

To show that the situation in New York is entirely abnormal and unreasonable, we quote the following extracts from The Journal of Commerce

"Whenever selling orders appeared opportunity. But there is no disguising the fact that nine men out of every ten are bears on cotton. Most people see no good in it. Sentiment, from being very bullish a while back, has swung to the opposite extreme. Nobody can see any good in cotton. It is going to 15 cents for May. There is plenty of cotton. There will be more than plenty if the exports are sharply cut down by raiders and allied economy. Meantime there is that big acreage, perhaps a big crop looming ahead. And so on. This is the time when it is considered the thing to sell cotton on bulges."

As to the supply and demand, in its relation to the dry goods trade, the circular of January 16, 1917, of the First National Bank of Boston said

"Cotton manufacturers are unable to foresee any early reduction in the costs of production. The most recent cotton figures show an excess of cotton exports over 1915-1916 of 844,166 bales, a lessened world's visible supply of 437,663 bales, and a lessened visible supply of American cotton of 216,663 bales compared with the January 6 period of a year ago. The last ginning figures of the Government (January 9) showed a total of 11,045,-225 bales, the Government crop estimate for the season being 11,511,000 bales. The heavier character of the cotton goods output, together with an addition to cotton mill spindles in the South alone last year of 614,682 (orders booked for 280,000 more), warrant the assumption that the consumptive requirement for domestic mills will be substantially greater than a year ago, when it was 7,240,009 bales. These figures lead to the inference that raw material can continue high for some time, and at present, there is little or no indication of an early decline in other costs."

"Freeze to Your Spots."

With regard to the submarine menace, it is well to point out that the exports are already nearly a million bales larger than last year, and that exports have got to fall off a million bales during the remainder of this season in order to bring exports down to the same figures as those prevailing last season. Is it reasonable to suppose that the German submarines during the remainder of this year can reduce America's exports a million bales if Europe really wants our cotton? It is admitted on all sides that if every bale of the American supply of July 31 last, plus the American crop of 1916, is available for consumpit will still leave a dangerously small surplus on July 31 next. It is quite possible that a considerable portion of the American supply will not be offered for sale at all unless prices advance, because many holders believe that cotton will reach 25 cents 30 cents when peace is declared. With the menace of the boll weevil, the shortage of labor, the inferiority of the fertilizer, the uncertainty of the weather, the certainty of a small sur-plus, the possibility of peace and the excellence of the dry goods demand, it seems a trifle dangerous to sell short in New York, a market which is now at least 100 points below the parity of If holders are willing to disregard futures and cover up their samples during the present dull period they will reap a rich harvest when the bad crop accounts begin to come in. as they most certainly will at some time before the new crop is harvested. Bears are going to predict a con-tinuation of the war, an 18,000,000bale crop, a 14,000,000-bale demand, until they have dislodged the unsold spot cotton and gotten possession of it at 15 and 16 cents; then they will announce that the war will end; that there will be an 18,000,000-bale de-mand, with a 150,000,000-bale crop, and they will proceed to ask 30 cents for the cotton they have secured at As the editor of The Cotton and Cotton Oil News has said Freeze to your spots and let shorts sell their heads off." To which should be added: "Buy a few hundred bales of New York futures and demand delivery.

FUNERAL OF FORMER CHARLOTTE RESIDENT who died Friday morning at 2 o'clock in Albemarle, will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from Brevard Street Methodist Church. The services will be conducted by Rev. L. A. Falls, of Mooresville, former paster Church, assisted by the present pastor, Rev. J. L. Cardell. bearers will be: George Teeter, C. W. Romsey Ned Hall John Vogter, Nat White and J. L. Redwine.

Mrs. Carter, before her marriage, was Miss Alice Hargett, of this city. She had been ill practically for the last two years and her death had been expected for some time. During the course of her residence in Charlotte, she had been a consistent and active member of Brevard Street

RANGE EXPLOSION HURTS NEGRO CHAUFFEUR BADLY

Special to The Observer. Gaffney, S. C., Feb. 3.—John Wood, colored chauffeur for Dr. S. B. Sherard, is lying at the Gaffney Hospital seriously injured, caused by the explosion of the range in Doctor Sherard's kitchen today. The whole front of the range was blown out, striking him on the head and chest. Sherard was in the kitchen at the time and narrowly escaped injury. While it is probable that the negro will recover partially he will be per-manently injured.

DR. ORR RETURNS FROM SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL

Dr. W. W. Orr, pastor of East Avenute Tabernacle, A. R. P., has returned from Grove City, Pa., where he conducted a series of evangelistic services which lasted for three weeks. During this time, there were 124 pro-fessions of faith and between 700 and 800 people consecrated their lives to the worship and service of God.

LOCAL PYTHIAN ASKED TO DELIVER ADDRESSES

Past Grand Chancellor J. G. Baird, has received two invitations within the past few days to address Pythian meetings during the month of Feb-The first is a meeting of the side lodge, K. of P or February 17 and the second, is the annual banquet of White Oak lodge, at Rock Hill.

LECTURES SCHEDULED

Six Members of University Faculty to Speak in Charlotte During Course of Winter and Spring.

interest to a large number of Charlotte's citizens is that there will be a series of University Extension lectures, to be promoted under the joint auspices of the Mecklenburg Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina, and the Young Men's Chris-tion Association. These lectures will take place at Hanna Hall of the Y.

The speakers will include the leading professors of the State university. Following is a list of speakers and the dates of their appearance:

February 16-Prof. Andrew Henry Patterson, of the chair of physics and astronomy, will speak on the subject, "The Story of the Stars." This lecture will be illustrated by a stereopticon. March 2-Prof. Eugene Cunningham Branson, professor of rural economics and sociology. Subject be announced later. March 11-President Edward Kidder Graham. Subject to be an-nounced. March 23—Dr. William Between United States and Latin Am-Henderson, professor of pure mathe-matics. Subject to be announced rive February 10.

later. April 27—Dr. Edwin Greeniaw. TO CELEBRATE PASTOR'S professor of English. Subject, "Literature and the World Crists." May 5—ccurse of extension lectures will be received with unusual interest by those who are desiring to continue to be in touch with the thought of the University and the trend of the times. An announcement that will be of The course will be promoted by an inner circle of university and association men, who will pay the expenses, thus giving an opportunity to all others to attend the lectures without charge.
SECOND ANNIVERS. Dr. Horace Williams, professor of philosophy. Subject to be announced later.

The local committee having charge of the promotion of these lectures, ap-pointed by the Mecklenburg Alumni Association, is as follows: W. T. Shore, chairman; Dr. O. B. Ross, C. W. Tillett, Jr., and D. L. Probert.

WILL GIVE RECEPTION TO NEW DURHAM PASTOR

Special to The Observer.

Durham, Feb. 3 .- Baptists of Durham are planning a reception in hon-or of the arrival of Dr. B. D. Gaw, of Washington, D. C., who has accept-ed a call to the pastorate of the First Whatley Pierson, Jr., instructor in Baptist Church in this city. A com-history. Subject, "Trade Relations mittee composed of each Baptist min-United States and Latin Am-April 13—Dr. Archibald church are planning a reception. Dector Gaw has written that he will ar-rive February 10.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY

April 8 has been selected for the day," and various prizes will be offered to the children of the city in several different phases of the occasion's observance. To encourage public interest, and especially the children, in the preservation of bird life. the day was inaugurated last year and its first observance in this city was a

The committee, having in its charge the preparations for the day, has an-nounced that three prizes will be offered for the first, second and third best bird houses constructed by Charlotte children. The first prize will be $5; the second, a year's subscription to The American Boy, and the third, a one dollar bill. Direc-tions for the making of bird houses may be obtained by prospective entrants at the Carnegie Library.

In addition to the boy's contest, there has been arranged a "snapshot" event for girls. The girl submitting the best photographic pic-ture of bird life, will be presented with a tennis racquet.

The committee in charge consists of Mrs. William H. Jasspon, from the Woman's Club; Miss Anna Pierce, children's librarian at the library, and C. E. Lacey, head of the manual

For either brain or muscle Baker's Cocoa is refreshing. Cocoa contains more nourishment than beef."

Walter Baker & Co. Ltd.

Mr. Ground Hog Came Out

Looked Around --- Spat ---And Went Back In Again

WILL BE BAD----SIX WEEKS MORE

MORAL:

Take your CAR from your Garage --look around --- and put it back in our shop for painting---or something

You can't have any fun by driving it now, but you will get a lot of satisfaction from the improved appearance later on.

> SHALL WE SEND A MAN TO MAKE THE ESTIMATE?

Charlotte Wagon & Auto Co.

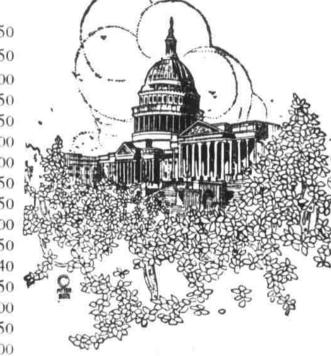

26 East Sixth Street.

Phone 2683

From-

Thursday, February 15th.

Charlotte $, 7.50 Concord 7.50 Lexington 6.50 High Point 6.50 Greensboro Gastonia Hickory 7.50 Statesville 7.00 North Wilkesboro 7.40 Mount Airy 7.50 Albemarle 7.00 Winston-Salem 6.50 Siler City 7.00

Fares from all intermediate points same basis.

Tickets good going only on special train. Good returning on all regular trains except train No. 37. Passengers on branch line points will use regular train to junction point, connecting with special train.

Tickets good for three days in Washington.

See Congress in session and the other attractions at the Nation's Capital.

Pullman reservations should be made in advance.

· For full and complete information, Pullman reservators, etc., consult nearest Southern Railway agent, or write

S. E. Burgess, D. P. A.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.