FATE OF CHARLOTTE'S CAMP WILL NOT BE KNOWN UNTIL THURSDAY

Despite Enormous Prices Demanded for Some of the Land, Options Have Been Obtained on Sufficient Acreage and It Has Been Placed at the Disposal of the Government—Army Officers Inspect the Site and Will Report to General Wood in Atlanta Thursday Morning, When it Will Be Known Whether Camp Is to Be Retained.

Whether or not Charlotte is to keep the national guard training camp ordered established here and which is already being prepared, will not be known until Thursday when official announcement will be made by Major General Wood, commander of the department of the southeast.

By herculean efforts, representatives of the chamber of commerce and all the business interests of the city yesterday raised the money necessary to pay the price demanded to lease the additional land required by reason of the enlargement of Camp Greene, and it was tendered to representatives of General Wood during the afternoon.

In the meanwhile, Lieutenant Colonel Ladue and Major Kilbourn, the latter General Wood's chief of staff, spent yesterday here inspecting the property, and they are now preparing their report, which will be submitted to General Wood Thursday morning, and then Charlotte will get her answer.

The inspection proved such a large task that it was not possible for both officers to go over all the land offered, so the job was divided. General Ladue devoted the day to passing on the land offered for the camp site, while Major Kilbourn, escorted by Chairman Z. V. Taylor and W. B. Sullivan, of the local committee, in an automobile, rode one hundred and ten miles during the day, searching for a remount station and for artillery and small arms target ranges. A satisfactory remount station was found, and an artillery range that can be used, but which is probably not entirely satisfactory.

Conference Last Night.
Last night, from eight o'clock until after midnight, the officers were in conference at the Manufacturers' club with members of the committee. Tonight, Major Kilbourn will go to Atlanta, where he is to meet General Wood tomorrow morning, and it will then be learned whether the committee whether Charlotte is to become the training ground for nearly fifty thousand soldiers, or whether some other city is to be favored. In any event, Charlotte has made a game fight, and it is as not now believed will be the case, the camp should be lost, it may be known that it has been through no fault of the committee, which, in some instances, has had to pay exorbitant and even outrageous prices to get leases on land that simply had to be had for the camp, if a suitable site was to be obtained.

The committee in charge of securing options on the land worked all day yesterday, as did also the committee from the chamber of commerce raising funds to pay for the lands obtained. All the land desired by the government officers was secured, though at what is considered outrageous prices in some instances. It was tendered to the government and so far as the land question entered into it, the matter was settled.

Both officers were apparently satisfied with the character of the land, they being carried over the entire site yesterday and viewing at first hand the nature of the soil. The heavy rains of last week left no bad effects, and the officers expressed satisfaction that they found but little mud.

Money is Raised.

Given until Tuesday to get what the government demanded in the way of land, and being short many thousands of dollars, the citizens gathered yesterday morning at ten o'clock at the chamber of commerce with the purpose of raising the money in a short time. Hundreds of citizens left their offices and desks and went to the chamber of commerce. Within a few minutes committees had been formed

OBSERVATIONS

By the Junior Observer.

The Shipping Board Row.

I have been hoping for some days that President Wilson would finally "settle" the shipping board row by accepting the resignation of General Goethals and asking Chairman Denman for his resignation, and on Tuesday when I learned that he had done just that very thing, I felt like "sending him a wire."

I have no way of knowing anything about the merits of the controversy between Chairman Denman and General Goethals, and would not undertake to place the blame. It is entirely possible that both these gentlemen were acting from the purest motives, each convinced, so thoroughly that he could not change, that his particular method of procedure was the only way, and in that case there was nothing for either to do but to "stay put" and insist that his plan be followed.

For the sake of argument and charity, let's assume that this was the fact. While the controversy raged, the interests of the nation were being injured. If it were not possible to adjust the matter between these men, let them both go and put other men in their places.

I feel like congratulating the President upon his method of adjustment, and believe it's best for the nation that both men should leave the employ of the government.

Admiral Capps and Mr. Hurley, who have been named to take their places, are men of high type. I understand, and I apprehend no more suicidal delays in putting the administration plans into operation.

The welfare of the nation completely overshadows the differences of individuals.

Watch Your Step.

The attorney general of the United States has ruled that the bringing of intoxicating liquor into dry territory by any means is a violation of the "bone dry" act.

It has been generally understood that this act prohibits the shipping of liquors from one state into another when the latter state forbids the sale of liquor within that state. It has been understood to prevent the shipping of whiskey or beer into dry territory, and that where the individual carries his whiskey in a package, or in his baggage, or otherwise, so long as he does not carry more than the internal revenue act allows to be in the possession of one man in dry territory, he can "get by."

But recently, according to information from high authority, the attorney general handed down an opinion that the transporting of whiskey in any way, shape or manner into "dry" territory would be a violation of the act.

This means that when a man goes to territory where liquors are sold he will not be allowed to return to North Carolina, or any of the other "dry" states carrying "booze" of any sort or kind, except what he may have imbibed. And if he has taken aboard more than his share of tonnage it means that he may be sent to the rock pile for being drunk and disorderly or just plain drunk, as the case may be.

It appears to the Junior Observer that the days of boozing in North Carolina are at an end.

SCHURM-MOOSE.

Newton, July 24.—A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodorus B. Moose last evening when their daughter, Miss Nellie, became the bride of Earl M. Schurm, of Aberdeen. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. J. Abner Snow, pastor of the First Baptist church, in the presence of only a few invited relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Schurm left today for a visit to the relatives of the groom in Lincoln county.

MAMMOTH BEET RAISED BY OLD NEGRO GARDENER

That Charlotte is accustomed to doing things on a big scale is again proven in the case of the mammoth beet which was grown this season in the private garden of Benjamin F. Withers, at 712 East Fifth street. Verly Neal, colored, gardener for Mr. Withers, raised the beet which he was displaying on the streets of Charlotte Tuesday with great pride. He called at The Observer office early Tuesday morning with his prize beet in his arms. It measured thirty inches in length and weighed six and a half pounds, and was tender as the younger and smaller variety.

During the course of the morning, several hundred persons had opportunity to view the beet which W. M. Mitchell bought from Neal as a curiosity. He had it displayed on the front of his automobile. Mr. Mitchell was extending a general invitation to his friends to a "beet stew." The vegetable would easily serve fifteen or twenty people.

MISS HAYWOOD DIES.

Raleigh, July 24.—Miss Sallie Blount Haywood, probably Raleigh's oldest inhabitant, died today at the advanced age of ninety-five years. Her birthday would have been on Friday of this week, making her ninety-fifth year. She was a daughter of Stephen Haywood, one of Raleigh's first settlers. She is connected with many of the best families in this section and a most estimable woman. The funeral will be held Thursday from Christ church.
