Governor Bickett will address the congress on Wednesday evening and there will be a full program of lectures, moving pictures of the hog industry, etc., together with an exhibition of Berkshires contributed by every large breeder east of the Rocky mountains, about 15 of whom will attend the congress personally in order to meet and compare notes with their southern colleagues. The congress will be wound up by a great sale of over 70 Berkshires at the best pedigree stock. The races and the entertainment program of the fair itself will be even better than last year, to judge from the lengthy schedule of events which has just been issued.

Special to The Observer.
Statesville, Nov. 18.—Deputy Collector R. P. Allison, of Statesville, in company with Deputy Collector W. A. Hartness, of Lexington, conducted a number of successful raids in Wilkes county last week for illicit distilleries, their week's work resulting in the destruction of three outfalls and the pouring out of many thousand gallons of beer. The first two seizures took place Thursday morning, when the officers tore up two copper stills of 50 and 85-gallon capacity, respectively, and poured out over 11,000 gallons of beer. The first two seizures in the Windy Gap section of Wilkes. The third seizure was made Friday near Delaplane, and resulted in the destruction of a third copper outfit and the emptying into an adjacent stream of about 700 gallons of beer. In each case the officers, while not finding anyone present at the still sites, were nevertheless able to secure enough evidence to warrant the issuance of papers for the operations of the plant. News coming from Statesville from from the southern part of Wilkes county which adjoins Iredell, is to the effect that blockading on a scale heretofore unthought of, is being engaged in, in this vicinity. Federal officers, however, are making a determined effort to stamp out the practice.

IREDELL EXPECTED TO GO BEYOND ITS GOAL
Special to The Observer.
Statesville, Nov. 18.—Dorman Thompson, county chairman of the United war work campaign in Iredell county, advises that while the county has not yet gone "over the top" in the securing of the county's allotment, it is his opinion that before the expiration of the time set, that Iredell will have considerably exceeded the goal set, which is $10,800. In every campaign for the raising of funds for the conduct of the war, Iredell has always responded liberally, and in each instance has oversubscribed her allotment, therefore it is safe to predict that before the time expires the amount called for will be given, and "some over."
