SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 21, 1921.

THE LID ON THE STRIKE.

Governor Morrison established a condition at Concord which insures return to employment, not only there, but in any other part of the State, of people who may so desire and under guarantee of no interference by force or intimidation.

THE GUARDED JAIL.

Another mob has been taught that it is best to bear due respect for the law. There was the usual provocation to mob demonstration in the Knoxville case.

MAXWELL IN THE OPEN.

Corporation Commissioner Maxwell—and there is not a better fellow in the State—is disposed to enter mild objection to the Observer's "figure of speech."

HAPPENING IN MASSACHUSETTS.

The excitement at Barnstable, in Massachusetts, is still being continued. The white mob did not succeed in getting the negroes out and lynching them.

THE CONTRADICTION OF WALLACE.

The sum total of the results of the visit to Concord by Mr. Wallace, the "personal representative" of Mr. Gompers, was a speech in which he told the strikers that the mill men of Concord were responsible for the sending of troops there.

SUGGESTED NEW SERVICE.

The possibilities of the Norfolk Southern to develop into an important passenger carrier is now being suggested and it is possible that a new Pullman service may be established out of Charlotte over that line.

THE NEW APPEAL.

The Society for Visual Education, with headquarters in Chicago, has started out on a campaign for reform in dress, and it is using the propaganda of corset-makers as part of its ammunition.

THE OPEN FORUM.

Bravo to the Woman Who Cried Out! To the Editor of the Observer: The public has been regaled ad nauseam with cases of attempted seduction in recent newspaper reports.

NEW BOOKS.

FLAME AND SHADOW.—By Sara Teasdale. MacMillan Company. Outstanding among America's women poets is Sara Teasdale, who through her latest volume, Flame and Shadow, has elicited unqualified praise alike from paid reviewers and lovers of verse.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Items of Interest to People of Charlotte and Carolina, From The Observer of This Date, 1911 and 1901. TEN YEARS AGO TWENTY YEARS AGO

CAROLINA POEMS.

THE PASSING OF SUMMER. I. Plaintive the pipes amid the trees Where erstwhile futes of magic called, And o'er the hills with melody enshrined, And hush and hush the waning moon.
