POETRY.

THE DRUNKARD'S DAUGHTER.

BY G. W. BURGAY.

Out in the street with naked feet, I saw the drunkard's little daughter; Her tattered shawl was thin and small; She knew little for no one taught her. Her skin was fair, her auburn hair Was blown about her forehead. Her sad, white face bore sorrow's trace, And woe that was not borrowed. Heart broken child, she seldom smiled; Hope promised her no bright morrow, Until it lighted on her night, Then up came darker clouds of sorrow. She softly said: "We have no bread, No wood to keep the fire burning." The child was ill; the winds so chill, Her thin cold blood to ice was turning. But men well fed and warmly clad, And ladies robed in richest fashion, Passed on the side where no one cried To them for pity or compassion. Fled that long night and then the light Of rosy day in beauty shining Set down and spire and roof on fire, And shone on one beyond repining. Asleep—alone—as cold as stone, Where no dear parent ever sought her; In winding sheet of snow and sleet, Was found the drunkard's lifeless daughter.

Why Women Lose their Beauty.

Shut up in houses nine-tenths of their time, with either no exercise, or that which is of a limited, irksome sameness, they are as a consequence, unnaturally pale, soft and tender; their blood is poorly organized and watery, their muscles small and flabby; and the force and functions of their bodies, as a whole, run low in the scales of life. A spurious fullness is often seen in the outline during girlhood, which usually melts like snow under an April sun whenever the endurance is put to the test, as in performing the functions of a mother. The change in appearance from the maiden of one year to the mother of the next is often so striking and enduring that it is difficult to believe that we are looking on the same person. The round, fleshy shape is prematurely displaced by a pinched angularity, and an untimely and unseemly appearance of age. Travelers from other countries who have had an extensive means for observation upon the great beauty of American woman, and the early age at which it is lost. Some have ascribed this to the climate; but no intelligent observers agree that it is a hot-house, overrating mode of life. English ladies of rank, by the way, are celebrated for keeping their beauty even to a ripe old age, think nothing of walking a half a dozen miles at a time, while American ladies would think such a thing "perfectly dreadful." If American women, so daintily and richly fed, will sit in dark and sultry rooms the live-long day, they must expect to bloom too soon, to lasten through this charming period—at the longest in about ten years—and for twenty-five years after, have the grim satisfaction of being thin, wrinkled, angular and sallow.

The Seward house in Washington, where Payne stabbed him, is now occupied by Gen. Belknap, was himself warned of it. Said the man to him: "Belknap, no man ever lived in that house who did not meet with death, assassination or something." Seward's occupation of the place was a series of misfortunes and deaths. When it was a club-house, the Sickles murder, and a lot of other events of a dark cast, took place in it and about it. The consequence has been that Seward's house has been given up as a residence, and is now one of the military offices. Gen. Belknap has not escaped some of the evil occurrences of the neighborhood, and although he has spent four years dutifully and quietly here, he has lost his wife, and the eldest son is seized with a disorder of the lungs, and has had to go to Santa Fe for recuperation.

TREATMENT OF SMALL POX—AN ALLEGED EFFECTUAL REMEDY.—A great discovery is said to have been recently made by a surgeon of the British army in China, in the way of an effectual remedy for small pox. The mode of treatment is as follows: "When the preceding fever is at its height, the chest is rubbed with Croton oil and tartaric ointment." This causes the whole of the eruption to appear on that part of the body to the relief of the rest. It also secures a full and complete eruption, and thus prevents the disease from attacking the internal organs. This is now the established mode of treatment in the English army in China, and is regarded as a perfect cure.

Says the Richmond (Va.) Dispatch: The head of the Department to which the following is addressed would find it harder to explain some of his "irregularities" than did Mrs. S. L. D. Davis why she was no longer "Biggerstaff": "North Carolina Rutherford County, Oak Springs, November 2, 1870.—Postmaster-General: Sir,—In Obedience to your request I give an explanation why I signed my Quarterly returns S. Senator Pool to be Urged for Creswell's Place.

[Telegram to Cincinnati Commercial.] The southern Republicans are beginning to discover what they conceive to be their rights, and like freemen they propose to maintain them. Not content with making an effort for either the Speaker or the Clerk of the next House from their section, the southern members and senators are now bent upon having a member of President Grant's next Cabinet. Heretofore post-master-General Creswell has been supposed to represent the south in the Cabinet. It would appear, however, that he is not accepted by many States south of the Potomac as a representative southern Republican. The complaint is made that he does not represent anything but Maryland, a comparatively small portion of the South. Since the defeat of Hon. John Pool, of North Carolina, for the Senate, his friends in and out of Congress, have been actively at work making a combination to secure him a Cabinet appointment. The arguments in his favor are strong and well as numerous. First of all, he is a native, and to the man-born Union man. In the Senate he has manfully acted with the Republican party, and has been a steady supporter of the Administration of President Grant. In his own State he has been regarded as the leader of the republican party. Indeed it is held that but for his efforts there would have been no Republican party to-day in North Carolina. He was among the most efficient and earnest advocates in Congress of the punishment and suppression of the kuklux organization. He is regarded as the first lawyer in his State.

These are some of the argument urged in his favor by his friends, who think he is entitled to a place in General Grant's next Cabinet. It is understood that Senator Pool aspires to the Postmaster-Generalship. All the southern members and Senators who signed a petition for the appointment of Creswell propose to sign in favor of Senator Pool. Nor will they be content with this. It is understood that they will wait upon the President in a body and personally urge Mr. Pool's claim. In addition to his southern friends Mr. Pool will be supported by several prominent Republicans from the North, among them Senators Morton and Scott. The Republican papers in Virginia are as earnestly advocating the claims of Colonel Robert W. Hughes to a place in the Cabinet.

"KNIGHTS OF THE CRESCENT."—This is a new Order, which has been recently established by the youths of our town, and one which promises very beneficial results to the rising generation. Its object is claimed to be the suppression of intemperance, profanity, gaming, and other kindred vices, and the promotion of those principles of virtue which are becoming too much neglected by all classes of society.

The organization is composed of the sons of our most respectable families, most, if not all, of whom are connected with our Sabbath schools. Their number at present amounts to about thirty, with accessions at each monthly meeting, which convenes on the second Tuesday evening of every month. Its principal officers are George A. Hughes, Commandant; Edward G. Mosely, Sub-Commandant; and Thos. H. Averett, Secretary and Treasurer.—Danville Times.

The Louisiana Imbroglio. WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—It is understood that the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, at a meeting held this evening, has determined not to send commissioners to Louisiana to take testimony regarding the political troubles there, but will summon all needed witnesses to Washington to give their testimony here. It is also said that a sergeant-at-arms has been dispatched to New Orleans for that purpose.

LATER.—It is understood that the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections have decided not to send any commissioners to New Orleans to take testimony at present, but that they have to-day subpoenaed both of the returning boards to appear before them in this city. An effort will be made by the committee to have before them all the returns of the electoral vote from the various parishes in Louisiana.

Appropriation Asked. WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The Department of Justice asks an appropriation of $300,000 to supply the deficiency in the mails, incurred in mailing Ku Klux prosecutions.
