Railroad Accident.-Yesterday morning as the mail train on the C. C. & A. R. R., was coming north, the first and second class coaches ran off the track at Burns' Station twenty miles from Augusta. The coaches were both smashed to pieces, and several persons more or less injured. The conductor, Mr. Martin Wolfe, of this city, sustained painful though not serious injuries. None of the passengers are considered fatally wounded. The demolished cars were left behind, and the train made Columbia and Charlotte on time. The accident was caused by a misplaced switch.

A Present.-We were made the "happy recipient," yesterday morning, of a rather strange present. It was none other than a human toe. Some days ago we stated that a man in this city had cut off his toe to cure a corn, and some persons had the ef- let. frontery to doubt the statement. But returning to the original inquiry the question are what can be did? Somebody said the other day the only way Charlotte could ever be made a great city was to er-ch-move it out of this mud hole. The sage author of that remark might be a philosopher, but not of the Bacoman or utilitaritin school of That thing can't be did diverybody knows that. Where would we go with it to get out of the med? We should have to carry Charlotte away down about Pineville, or over into York or Lancaster to get out of the mud, and then instead of being Charlotte, North Carolina it would be Charlotte Carolina. This double feminine cognomen would destroy its identify and might lead some folks to think it was some ancient or mediaval heroine, instead of a city just out of the mud, as the poet puts it:

"Charlotte Caroline, A big fat teminine.

And while in parenthesis, I will explain farther that I am aware Kirkham and others of his way of thinking have said, in reference to the word are in my motto, "a noun singular should have a verb, singular, &c.," but I am bound to consider mud, our mud, an exception; at least a sort of collective noun or noun of multitude, and so use it with are instead of is, &c.)

My policy is to issue bonds and raise fifty thousand dollars or more, if necessary, and pave the side-walks with brick or granite clean out into the woods in every direction and macadamize the streets ditto wouldn't that be lifting ourselves out of the mud? And can't it be did? Who says not? Does anybody say it will make too big a debt? Not a bit of it. I think the great reason why our city credit is so low now is that our debt is so small no attention is paid to it. Lets have a debt worth looking after. Wilmington with only double our population has a debt of over half a million. Raleigh with but little more population than Charlotte has five times our debt. And yet the bonds of Wilmington and Raleigh sell readily at home for 90 cents on the dollar. Why not do things on a liberal scale and be done with it? We can't remain long as we are, we must go forward or back ; get the city out of the mud or the mud out of the city. The chrysalis state cannot be endured, we must crawl a worm or fly a butterfly. Why does not Charlotte raise her wings and soan aloft? Like a bird fettered with a gossamerth read or some invisible cord, to all appearances there is no reason why it should not rise and fly and yet it does not, it cannot, something restrains and confines it. So I am right in saying something's got to be did. That unseen ligament must be cut. Somebody said sometime ago all we needed was porulation-immigration. Lets pave our streets and side-walks and maybe that will fetch 'em. Persons desiring to come here to do business, who cannot get houses near the centre of town will not be prevented then, because the mud is im passable to the entire limits. Do this and our prosperity will rest on a firm foundation, hurrah! Now this is the out-line of my policy. Its bound to rise. The more it is canvassed the more popular it will become with all classes. Who will go for it? Everybody. Those who pay no taxes certainly will. The largest taxpayers will all go for it. They are always for improvements. Those who live near the centre of town will go for it because it will improve their property without increasing their taxes. Those who live more remote will favor it because it will give them firm ground to walk on, greatly improve their property without increasing their taxes. So if these deductions be logical and correct and no other candidate should get on to my platform, all the votes at the next election will be cast for

What the Season Suggests.

To assume warm clothing at the com-mencement of the cold season is only an act of common prudence. But something more than this is required to put the body in a state of defense against the searching atmosphere of winter. Damp has a depressing effect on the vital organs and the animal spirits. The amount of life power taken out of the strongest of us by the chilling vapors which frequently load the air at this period of the year is very considerable, and to the weak and languid they are extremely detelerious. To protect the system against their effects, it must be in-wardly toned, regulated and reinforced, as well as shielded outwardly by apppropriate garments. This essential service is more safely and satisfactorily accomplished by the daily use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters than by any other means within the province of medical science. The fact here stated is as incontrovertible as a de-monstration in mathematics. Nobody dis-putes it. It is a matter of common belief and of general record. Here the case might be rested, but the public, naturally enough, wants to know why this famous vegetable specific is so far ahead of all other medicines of its class. This reasonable curiosity can be readily gratified. The Bitters comprise five important elements. viz; a stimulant, a tonic an aperion, and a blood depurent. Each of these components, as well as each of the other submidinate ingredients, is the purest and best of its kind. They are proportioned in accordance with a formula that has been in use for twenty years, and operate harmonically and simultaneously.

iously and simultaneously. Hence the uniform success of the medicine.
