The Ohio Election.

Last Tuesday the election for Governor and State officers came off in Ohio. The contest was then cornered. The Republican, the Democratic and the New Party, each had a set of candidates in the field.

Noyes entered the contest as an out and out Republican, deep dyed in the wool, double struck in the warp. He went in with that confidence that is born of arrogance and past success.

Allen, the Democrat, was not confident of success, but relying upon the pure conservative sentiment of the honest people of the State, he set out upon this interesting race for gubernatorial honor with the brightest hopes and expectations.

The New Party was composed of Liberal Republicans, liberal Democrats, anti-monopolists, Patrons of Husbandry, &c. This party was something anomalous in the political history of this country.

The contest was a very hot one. Allen, the pure democrat, came out ahead, beating Noyes, the Republican, 754 votes. The Republicans are, of course, very much disgruntled at this reported triumph.

Allen's success is significant. In 1871 Noyes received more than 20,000 plurality over McCook (Democrat) for Governor. In 1873 he is defeated, 754 votes by Allen (Democrat).

"Republicanism has failed in its mission; it has weighed itself in the scale of Treasury delinquencies, peculations and frauds; it has prostituted law and decency so far that bankruptcy and ruin are staring the country in the face; it has shown that ignorance and arrogance, yoked to cunning and lying, can do what has never been done before since this was a Union—sap the moral respect of the people, undermine national esteem for its own institutions, and corrupt the integrity which ought to sustain the Government."

The Richmond Dispatch tells us that John Smith died in that city a few days ago. We knew that John could not live always.

Dan Platt writes from London "Englishmen here, who had opportunities of knowing, tell us that London was laughed at over Adams as a man who always seemed to be smelling something bad; while McClellan, our great historian, was regarded as one much given to English Lords, and rather haughty to his unhappy countrymen because of their humble origin."

An Appeal for the Orphans.

OXFORD, N. C., Oct. 15. Editors of the Sentinel: In answer to your appeals, the citizens and Lodges of Masons are sending up their donations and contributions in cash and "in kind."

Such is the nature of our institution and such our need of funds, that we are constantly compelled "to go out among the citizens" of the town, and the members of Lodges and Churches "to solicit contributions, stating that unless immediate help is received the institution will be necessarily compelled to stop."

There is need for continual replenishing of our stores, &c. Children eat, and must eat again. Clothes and shoes, &c. wear out and must be renewed. God bless the good people of the State!

Some are doing this. The other day our Kinston friends sent us a box of merchandise and a cash contribution worth $180. Lo Grange sent us a substantial renewal of their faith in us and the asylum.

STATE NEWS.

The flying-trapeze excitement has reached Statesville. The Schilling pavement is being laid in Wilmington. The dead body of an infant was found near Whiteville recently.

The tobacco crop of Granville is not up to the average, either in quantity or quality. Bears are said to be numerous and destructive in the lower edge of Craven county than ever before known.

Mr James Alexander, Asheville, had one of his hands badly lacerated by a saw on last Monday.

There were numerous cases of pockets being picked on the fair grounds at Raleigh.

Burette, an interesting little son of Mr C A Calton, of Statesville, died of diphtheria last week.

Gen Thos L Clingman, of Asheville, was one of the Vice-Presidents of the recent railroad meeting in Chicago.

The State Council of the Friends of Temperance, will hold its regular session at Tarboro, commencing on the 19th of November.

Eight thousand people attended the performance of the Great Eastern Circus in Wilmington on Wednesday last.

A Madison county woman, a few days ago, gave birth to five children in one year—three boys in January and two girls in December. The Asheville Expositor says so.

There was a fire in Kinston on last Wednesday, so the Raleigh Sentinel learns. The Episcopal Church and two stores were burned. The Court House and several other buildings were on fire, but were saved.

A desperate attempt was made by the prisoners in Salisbury jail, on last Sunday night, to effect their escape. The alarm was raised, however, by one of the prisoners, and the others were prevented. So we learn from the Watchman.

The Salesbury Watchman learns that Mr Wm Sorrel was drowned in Yadkin River near the junction of North and South Yadkin, last Saturday morning. He was intoxicated, and went into the river to examine his fish-basket. Next day he was found standing in the river erect, dead.

Thursday afternoon, according to the Raleigh News, an unknown negro went to Mr Williams, Chatham county stock raiser, on the Fair Grounds, and told him that a certain lady wanted to buy a cow from him. Mr W. told the negro how much he asked for the cow, and the negro left, ostensibly, to tell the lady. He returned in a short time and told Mr Williams to see him, as the lady wished to see him; and the two started together. When passing through a skirt of woods, the negro struck Mr Williams in the right eye with a stone, stunning him, and an accomplice, who appeared then for the first time, robbed him of $70. The decoy was captured and committed after a hearing, but the other has not been taken.

CHAMBOARD.—A special to the Daily Graphic from Washington, says: The Diplomatic Corps are looking with anxiety for news from Europe. Great developments are expected, if there is to be a serious attempt to place Chambord upon the throne of France. It is well known that the doing of this will be resisted by force from one end of France to the other. It seems to be settled by the recent elections that the country is decidedly republican, but it is also an undoubted fact that the culture and wealth of the country are on the side of the Monarchists. The monarchical has plenty of leaders and but few followers. They claim to have control of the Assembly and it is suspected McMahon himself is a party to their designs.

Letters from Paris, just received, are quite cheery in their hopeful tone. Little doubt is felt that the Monarchical plot is already defeated, in fact, Conservatives like DeBroglie are beginning to realize that they have duly succeeded in making the Republican party stronger, and more than that, they have brought forward by their false movements the opponents they most dread, under the leadership of M. Edward Portalis, editor of the Avenir National. The present crisis has given strength to the workmen and their views, necessities and policy. The letters indicate there is every probability that many who have intrigued for a king, will soon be found pleading for a so-called Conservative Republican. A great deal depends, it is acknowledged, on the position of M. Thiers. If he will come out without equivocation there can be but one result. That he desires a Republic, according to his own ideas of what it should be is generally believed, but whether he is sincere enough to accept one not constructed entirely according to his wishes, is still in doubt.

THE FREE RELIGIONISTS IN SESSION.—At a meeting of the Free Religious Association, letters were read from Peter Cooper, Wm Lloyd Garrison, William Alger and others, regretting their inability to attend. The subject of science and religion was then discussed. A stranger, evidently a member of the Evangelical Alliance, desired to answer the arguments of some of the speakers, but was refused permission.

A handsome young lady at Peoria made a bet that she could raise $40 in twenty minutes from a crowd at the passenger depot, and by getting tears in her eyes, and claiming to have her pocket picked, she was soon possessed of a purse containing $62.

The Protestant Episcopal Church and the Evangelical Alliance.—The Dean of Canterbury Defended by Bishop Cummins.

Bishop Cummins, of Kentucky, replies to the letter of Bishop Tozer, of Zanzibar, in which the censured the Dean of Canterbury for participating in a communion service with the Evangelical Alliance at Rev. Dr. Adam's (Presbyterian) church, in New York.

Bishop Cummins says, in a letter to the New York Tribune: "The eminent and profound scholar the Dean of Canterbury is able to defend himself against his attack. But I, too, am a bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and one of three bishops of the same Church who have participated in the work of this sixth General Conference of the Evangelical Alliance. On last Sunday afternoon, October 12th, I sat at the table of the Lord, in the Church of the Rev. Dr. John Hall, and partook of the Lord's Supper with him and the Rev. Dr. Arnot, of Edinburg, and administered the cup to the elders of Dr. Hall's church."

"I deny most emphatically that the Dean of Canterbury or myself have violated the ecclesiastical order of the Church of England, or of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this country, or have been guilty of an act of open hostility to the discipline of the Church of England or of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this country forbidding such an act of intercommunion among Christian people, who are one in faith and love, one in Christ, their great Head. The Church of England does not deny the validity of the orders of ministers of the non-Episcopal churches. Some of her greatest and noblest divines and scholars have gladly recognized their validity. For many years after the beginning of the Reformation, Presbyterian divines were received in England and admitted to parishes without re-ordination, as Peter Martyr and Martin Bucer, who held seats as professors of theology in the universities of Oxford and Cambridge."

"I cannot believe that, as Mr Bishop Tozer states, 'the larger part of the Episcopal Church in New York share in his feeling.' As far as I know them, the liberal Episcopalians of New York rejoice in the action of the Dean of Canterbury, and thank God for it. When the Episcopal Church of England and the United States has been able to clear herself (which may God in His infinite mercy soon grant) of the deadly evil of Ritualism, whose last development is the revival of the Confessional, then, and not till then, may she become a 'haven of rest' to many souls who would rejoice to see her the common centre and bond of organic unity to all Protestant Christendom."

In connection with this matter, it is an interesting fact that Bisop Cummings, of Kentucky, administered sacrament at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Dr. Freemantle, of the Church of England, assisted in the administration at Dr. Booth's Presbyterian Church.

King Cotton.

The New York Bulletin speaks cheerfully of the prospect of an early supply of currency for the South and the revival of King Cotton. We quote as follows: "The general scarcity of greenbacks is due to the fact that they command a premium and are therefore hoarded. The premium, however, is fast disappearing, and has now fallen to about 1 per cent—a consideration which barely compensates for the loss of interest on hoarding them. Evidently, therefore, we are on the eve of a return of a large amount of currency from private hoards. At the same time, the expiration of thirty days notice of withdrawal which the savings banks have required from their depositors is close at hand; after which those institutions will find that their depositors do not want their money, when they will part with their currency, either in the purchase of securities, or in loans, or by depositing a portion of their balances in bank. Again, at nearly every Western centre, exchanges are turning in favor of New York, and the express companies are already bringing liberal amounts of currency from Chicago and Cincinnati, with the prospect of larger amounts coming within a few days. There concurrent movements cannot fail to give our banks, within a few days, an augmented supply of currency; and as the importations of European gold will add about $10,000,000 to the specie reserves, the banks are quite able to show a strong condition of their reserves earlier than is generally expected, especially considering that their deposits are at present very exceptionally low. When this condition of things is realized, the banks will be in a position to respond more liberally to the wants of the banks of the South, and a steady relief in that direction will be realized. It will be unfortunate for that section if it loses confidence from the present scarcity of money and needlessly sacrifices its products. It has the commodities which must command money, because they are indispensable to the largest movements of commerce; and it needs but a little patience for the South to see cotton assert its wonted kingly power over the money market."

Several plans have been submitted to the President and Secretary of State for transmission to Congress for the distribution of the $15,000,000 in gold made by the Geneva Conference, but it is learned that they will simply report the reception of the money, and leave its mode of distribution to Congress—either through the courts or a commission—as may be deemed best.

Stokes' Trial.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The trial of Stokes was continued to-day. At the conclusion of Don Passes' address, Francis M Bixby, brother of Judge Bixby, was called for defence, and testified that on the 6th of January, 1872, Stokes called at his office and enquired if an indictment could be found against him, as he wanted to go to Providence. Tremaine requested the court to give direction to the jury to visit the hotel where the shooting took place, and examine the locality. The District Attorney said he had no objections, and hoped that counsel would go there with them. Tremaine hoped that counsel would not go there, as it would only confuse the jury. Judge Davis said there was no reason for such proceedings, and would not allow it. Another witness, R F Andrews testified that on the afternoon of the 6th of January, '72 the prisoner came to inquire from him if he thought he might safely go to Providence. The prisoner didn't then ask if he had been indicted for this reason, because, some four days previously the prisoner asked him if Fisk was trying to get out an indictment against him for blackmailing. Witness went to ante-room, saw Fisk and some woman there, and on his telling, Stokes named them and said two of them were intimates of Fisk. Up to January 9th witness said nothing of an indictment having been found. He told Stokes he might go. J. H. Smith and Jno. L. Doly, also read as at the last trial, a portion of Andrew Parker's testimony, and deposition of hackman Lawrence Corry, who drove Stokes on the 6th of January, and has since died, were then read. Court then adjourned.

Fire. SYRACUSE, Oct. 18.—The wholesale Paint Store of C W Snow & Co., on Genessee street, caught fire at 2:50 P. M., and is burning rapidly. The building is filled with paints, oils, &c. It is feared the fire will resist the efforts of firemen to extinguish it. LATER—4 p. m.—The fire is now under control. Snow's building has only been damaged on the first floor and cellar, where the oils, paints, &c., are stored. The loss, principally on stock, will be very heavy.

TENNESSEE.

Burning of a Steamer—Eight Lives Lost. MEMPHIS, Oct. 18.—The stern wheel steamer, Mary E. Hoe, of the Carter Line, bound from St. Louis to New Orleans, was burned to the water's edge at Island Twenty-six this morning. Eight lives were lost, none of them being officers. The boat and cargo are a total loss. "City of Helena" rescued many of the passengers and brought them here. The boat caught fire forward of the boiler and the flames communicated to the cabin floor. A number of the passengers jumped into the river. Grease and oil covered the water and some of the passengers were burned badly and had to swim through it. The pilot, Hans Cowan, was badly scalded before leaving. Passengers speak highly of the conduct of the officer.
