CHARLOTTE N. C. SATURDAY, JANUARY 31, 1874.

The Hughes Case, Again,-The Salisvary Watchman, of the 29th, has an article in reply to a piece which appeared in the OBSERVER of Saturday last, in reference to upon two physicians of this city, one druggist, a citizen who kindly took care of him while here, and the local editor of this paper. The Watchman's article amounts to nothing at all, inasmuch as the writer of it takes no notice of the points made by us last week, but, instead, goes off into a glorification of himself, his independence, &c , which has nothing in the world to do with the case under discussion. The truth of the matter is, the Watchman knows now that it did a very silly thing in charging that our first article about Hughes was intended for a sensation at the expense of Satisbury. We prepared that local from the best information we had at hand, thinking little about Salisbury's connection with the matter.

The Watchman charges upon us a lack of journalistic courtesy, saying that we did not publish its account of how Hughes received his injuries. As to the charge that we lack in journalistic courtesy, we deny it, and ask the associate editor of the Watchman, or any other editor in the State or country to show an instance wherein we have been discourteous to a member of the press. Let the Watchman makes its charge good while it has this fine opportunity. It says:

"We thank the Charlotte Democrat for publishing our version of the Hughes case, since the OBSERVER has commented so ex-Mr. J A Bradshaw, late of Salisbury, has its readers. We have reason to complain at 10 o'clock.

We claim that we published the pith of the Watchman's "version of the Hughes case," wherein it was stated that Hughes was very drunk; that "he fell on rocks and now being put in order, will be the frozen ground; fell off a chair in the hotel and cut his head," and that in going out of the door he"went with such force as Yesterday was the sixty-fourth anniver- to clear the high steps of the hotel, the pavement, and landed upon his read on the rough frozen streets." What cause for complaint has the Watchman? None. We hold that we gave its version of the affair. Again, the Watchman says, we "got into found unusually interesting. A beautiful a passion because it commented rafter astoral and a dissertion on the character sharply upon an article which appeared in "Dick Swivefler," will attract attention [that paper [the OBSERVER] about one from persons of all classes and conditions. Hughes." The Watchman is much mistaken if it thinks that, by anything it might Judge Shipp .- We had the pleasure of say it could get us into a passion. Our equiporium is not so easily theck as it seems to suppose. It is the Watchman man who is mad, and if this controversy has brought about no other result we think we have succeeded in arousing the sleeping Gov. Graham. We regret to learn of "watchman" from its long slumber, and have convinced its readers that it can wake the associate elitor of the Watchman, was ate. "very ill-natured when he comes to speak of Charlotte or Charlotte newspapers." In reply to this charge be has the following which we gladly transfer to our columns "Now this is the most unkindest cut of all.

The local of the Charlotte Osserves should not so misrepresent us, calling us out by name at that. We can not remember a single instance when we spoke of Charotte or her newspapers in an "ill-naturs ed" manner. We entertain no feelings but riage to Miss Sudie, daughter of Hon W those of kindness for Charlotte or her pecand to criticise in the spirit of badinage, some things that have appeared in her papers, seemingly trying to make the world believe that Charlotte is the centre of the universe; but we have said nothing in malice. We are glad that the citizens of Charlotte think well of their town. It is a good sign, and it is necessary to the prosperity of the place. It is most certain to grow and prosper so long as the citizens ing corps of Cadets from the Carolinas and other Southern States, affording the means present citizens of Charlotte have displayand another man of his race, were before done much for the place, and deserve much the times in which we live. An Annual credit for their great energy and public Encampment, with its practical exercises, spirit. We honor them for it, and wish that some other places had shown as much. But the idea of our being ill disposed toterday for drunkenness on the streets, and ward Charlotte is simply absurd, and we farming for the benefit of the Cadets en-was fined $10 and costs. to do us justice before its readers."

We charged last week that Mr Stewart,

The Watchman says that, in its remarks about Charlotte, "it has said nothing in malice". We are truly glad to hear it. It looked to us like malice, and ill-nature, and so it looked to others. We give it the benefit of its disclaimer, as witness the
