CHARLOTTE, N. C.

The advantages of this Institute, with its departments, Preparatory and Collegiate. are presented to the public. It is now in full and vigorous growth, with an increasing corps of Cadets from the Carolinas and of generous equipment. It contains new and original features, and is abreast with the times in which we live. An Annual Encampment, with its practical exercises, near one of the Mineral Springs of this section, is one of the features of the Institute. It is also proposed to have scientific farming for the benefit of the Cadets engaged in the study of Chemistry in its application to agriculture. The undersigned is ably assisted.
