LOCAL DOTS.

There was "music in the air" last night. It is said that the winter 1816 of was like the present one.

The streets presented a lively appearance yesterday considering the weather. Charlotte Grange meets at their hall to-morrow.

All the churches except the Baptist will be open for services to-day. Go.

We regret to announce that the wife of Mr. Saml' C. Wolfe, of this city, died last night at 11 o'clock.

The election on the bond question one week from to-morrow. It is bonds or no bonds?

The Board of Aldermen will meet to-morrow night at their hall over the Market.

The Mercantile Reading Association of this city will give a hop next Friday evening the 20th inst. This association is composed of our Israelitish fellow-citizens.

A gentleman in this city received a telegram yesterday from one of the Mardi Grasists saying that the Charlotte party had arrived safely and are stopping at the St. James Hotel.

To Destroy Bed Bugs.—We have been told that the following is an excellent way to get rid of bed bugs: Fill up all the little cracks and vacancies of the bedstead with salt water. The bugs get a taste of this and it makes them thirsty; while they go off somewhere to get a drink, more your bed into another room.

Go to Fill His Engagement.—Capt R. A. Shotwell, associate editor of the Southern Home, left on the Carolina Central train yesterday morning for Shelby, where he had an engagement to deliver a lecture yesterday. His subject is: "The Life and Times of George Jeffreys, Chief Justice of England." Capt Shotwell expects to return Monday.

Modest.—There is a young man in town whose bashfulness is even greater than that of the junior editor of the Piedmont Press. He wears spectacles to keep from exhibiting his naked eye. Recently when asked what portion of the chicken was his choice, he replied in a whisper, "A bit of the running-gear of the fowl, if you please." After this there was a great clamor in the house until Tommie cried, "Ma give 'im one of the legs of the old thing."

C. M. I.—We would call attention to the advertisement of the Carolina Military Institute, opened at Charlotte, N. C., under the superintendence of Col. J. P. Thomas, late of the South Carolina Military Academy. It is a Military College with a preparatory department attached. But its course of studies is classical also, if desired, and every way adapted to elevate and maintain good standards. If having the highest confidence of everybody who knows him is an advantage, Col. Thomas may be sure of success.—Charlotte Monthly Record.

Low Trick.—Recently Mr S C Wolfe, of this city, bought and paid high prices for a large amount of shrubbery which he set out in his front yard. Yesterday morning when he arose, it was to find the last vestige either eaten up by cows or pulled up by the roots. Mr Wolfe says the gate was shut when he went to bed, and he is very certain that some one opened it turned the cows in, as the gate is of a peculiar kind, and one which the cows could never have opened for themselves and which the wind would never have blown open. He thinks there could not have been less than a dozen cows in the yard, and says that some of the shrubs give evidence of having been pulled out of the ground by hand.

There is no language suitable to properly brand the man who would be guilty of such a sneaking manner of taking revenge upon one whom he disliked. The laws for the punishment of those who willfully and maliciously destroy property, should be strict and severe, and administered unsparringly.

Editorial Visit.—We were glad to see in our office yesterday, the handsome and genial countenance of our friend Furman, editor of the Asheville Citizen. He was on his way from Atlanta, and left the city yesterday evening.

The Carolina Military Institute.—We walked out to the Military Institute yesterday afternoon, and were shown all through the building and over the premises by Col. J. P. Thomas, the urbane Superintendent. It is a difficult task to give the reader anything like a true idea of the arrangements of the Institute; it is something which must be seen for itself.

Arriving there, a young cadet politely showed us to the office of Col. Thomas, the headquarters of the Institute, where all the business is transacted and where cadets can see the Superintendent. This room is in the rear part of the East wing, on the second floor.

Col. Thomas carried us over the building, from "turret to foundation stone," explaining as we went the use to which each separate room is devoted. We are forced to run over the list hurriedly: First, there were the section rooms which are elegantly adapted in every respect for the uses for which they are intended. Next we were shown into the rooms of several cadets; these rooms are large and well ventilated; they are required to be kept in good order and to see that this is done are visited regularly by the Superintendent or one of the professors.

The chapel came next; this room is arranged with great taste. A pulpit, on which rests a Bible, stands on a platform on one side of the room; the fronts of the galleries are hung with pictures representing the arms and the toga, the humanities and the industries. It is here that the cadets meet each morning for prayers, and a short lecture is delivered upon some subject of interest. In the gallery of this department there is an organ, which is manipulated by the wife one of the professors. On very rainy Sundays when the weather is too inclement to go to church, services are held for the cadets in this chapel. Having an organ in its chapel is a pleasing feature of the Institute. Music is well calculated to give refinement of feeling. It is made a leading feature in female schools; why should its sounds not be heard in the halls where the young men of the land are educated?

From the chapel we proceeded to the hospital. This is arranged with all the appliances for comfort, and a cadet sick here would not be more comfortable at home. The floors are carpeted, the rooms heated, and an orderly is in attendance to do the will of the sick cadet. There is a large room adjoining the wards, in which the sick can exercise when they are able to be up but two unwell to be on duty.—One of the cadets we found yesterday afternoon in the hospital suffering from an attack of rheumatism. Next in order came the mess room, the cook room, the guard-room, the room which is being fitted up for an armory, &c. All these are arranged after the most approved style, and there is an order and neatness about them all which speak volumes of praise in favor of the manner in which this excellent institution is conducted.

We were shown also the out-buildings and outside arrangements about the place, and all bore the same air of neatness and good order which was observable inside.—Next year small patches of ground will be cultivated in corn, wheat, rye, oats, clover, &c., and then the manner of preparing the soil, planting seeds, &c., will be brought to the view of the cadets. (Here the agricultural chemistry will come in.) We cannot, in the short space allotted us, give a description of what we saw yesterday afternoon, and many things eminently deserving of mention will have to be passed over entirely unnoticed.

We must be permitted to say, however, that we had no idea before of the perfect system and completeness which characterize everything about the Institute. It would well repay any citizen of Charlotte who takes an interest in the Institute (and what citizen does not?) to go over the place and see for himself.

It should not be understood that the military part of the training at this school is unduly magnified. It is for the education of youth, and the military is only used to enforce the principles which it designs to teach. Neither should it be understood that the discipline, because it is military, is carried to the extent of oppression. On the contrary it is parental in its character, and is designed to sway the pupil by reason and by rules of honor; not by violence or harsh treatment in any sense.

Col. Thomas is a gentleman qualified in every way, both by nature and by education, to carry just such an enterprise as he now has in hand to success. A man of deep learning, high polish, and strong will, the cadets respect him and love him, and partake of the qualities which he himself possesses. The professors are likewise competent and esteemed; the entire corps is an able one, and parents from all sections of the South are becoming aware of the advantages of this school. The first session began October 1st, 1873, and to-morrow (Monday) the second session begins, with one hundred cadets on the rolls. Others are known to be coming, and in less than six months there will be in Charlotte, as we believe, one of the most flourishing military schools ever known in the State. Already it has more cadets than any other school of like kind in the State, excepting perhaps one in Wilmington, and the number is constantly increasing. Already, in a little over four months' time, there are represented in it, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and the Island of Cuba.

The success with which Col. Thomas has met since he started the C. M. I., is a source of great gratification, not only to him, but to all the people of Charlotte. May its present number be doubled and trebled. Long live the C. M. I.!

The Concert Friday Night.

Mr. Editor:—The musical soiree given by the young ladies of the Charlotte Institute, under the direction of Prof. Phifer, on Friday evening, the 13th inst., was a rich intellectual feast, and most emphatically a success. Prof. Phifer has abundant reason for self-congratulation in the evidence given by the young ladies of his faithfulness as an instructor. The writer has seldom, if ever, listened to finer artistic executions on the part of school-girls, most of whom were mere beginners; nor has he ever seen such a thorough appreciation (by the performers themselves) of the musical compositions which were rendered. The most accurate conception of time was manifest in every performance, and the most highly cultivated and sensitive ear could detect nothing to offend it.

Where all did so well, and reflected so much credit both upon themselves and their teacher, it is difficult, and would seem invidious, to make distinctions; but the performance of a few of the young ladies deserves particular notice; among whom Miss Bessie Dewey stands prominent. Her graceful attitude and her accurate renderings of different pieces were such as to delight and charm the cultivated ear and elicit the most vociferous outbursts of applause from an appreciative audience. The Military March executed by Miss Morehead, Cottie Phifer, Annie Vogel and Anna Guion evinced the most accurate conception of time, and a thorough entering into the spirit of the composition. It was brilliantly performed and loudly applauded, and was afterwards repeated in compliance with an encore from the house. Miss Minnie Phifer and Miss Eva Bryce distinguished themselves by their graceful manipulations and perfect self-possession. Misses Hessie Myers, Laura Wilson, Isabel Erwin, Sue Henderson, Willie Moore, Hennie Schiff, Mattie Dillard and Sallie Yates deserve the highest praise for the admirable manner in which their parts were performed. There were also some younger players with whom it was the occasion of their first public appearance, and right well did they sustain themselves through the trying ordeal. Among these may be mentioned Misses Bessie Graham, Josie Phifer, Carrie Bryce, Annie Binstels, Louie Morehead and Bessie Springs. Miss Bettie Griffith elicited much applause by her singing. She has a voice of wonderful compass and richness, and under proper cultivation she may distinguish herself as a vocalist.

The evening's entertainment demonstrated the fact that Prof. Phifer knows his business, and that the department of music in the Charlotte Institute for Young Ladies is well represented, and it may not be amiss to add that in this school thorough teaching is the end aimed at in every department. There is nothing superficial. The object is not to run the pupil over a rapid course of study, but to have her thoroughly drilled and well-grounded in every study or set of studies before promotion to a higher class is attainable. This one feature ought to commend this institution to the community and it will do so. Intelligent parents will recognize its claims, and will decide to place their children in a school where the substantial and the practical blend (not unduly) but harmoniously with the ornamental.

A Brilliant Record of Cures.

An American humorist tells us that it would have been money in his pocket if he had been without a stomach, and then proceeds to figure up the cost of a chronic dyspepsia, to which he is a martyr, and which he says it is impossible to cure. On this point "Josh Billings" (for he is the party referred to) is mistaken. Unless his stomach differs from all other dyspeptic stomachs, Hostetter's Bitters will cure him in less than three months. This it would be safe to guarantee under any penalty. There are a few, a very few, actual specifics for disease in existence, and Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be set down as one of them. In cases of indigestion it never fails. Persons who had suffered for many years almost every conceivable species of torture from this agonizing complaint, have been permanently cured with such instances are on record, authenticated by the testimony of prominent men in every walk of life, eminent physicians among the number. But this celebrated vegetable preparation is something more than a stomachic and tonic. It is also an alternative in existence, and Hostetter's Bitters may be set down as one of them.
