LOCAL DOTS.

The moon showed her face last night. The Osage's chieftain will arrive this morning. The Raleigh Sentinel hasn't reached us in two days. Riding out was quite nice yesterday afternoon.

What are the Grangers going to do about the Fair, is the question now. No railroad accident in a week on any of the roads running into Charlotte. Quite unusual.

The Mayor's Court contribute to these columns this morning, one case of drunk and uproarious behavior. Fine $5.

Yesterday was another warm and cloudy day; rather too warm, indeed, to be altogether comfortable.

Cotton sales were quite heavy yesterday, 43 bales having been sold. There was a decline of a cent in the price of low middling from the day before.

The new issue of ten cents bills is the prettiest which has been made since the war. The engraving on the left end represents William M. Meredith, who was Secretary of the Treasury under Fillmore in 1849.

Keys Found.—A bunch of five keys on steel ring, has been found on street & left at this office. One of the keys belongs to a post-office lock. The owner can have the bunch of keys returned to the office and paying for this notice.

Another Match Game.—A party of 9 of the young boys who formerly belonged to the Independent Base Ball Club, will play an equal number of the younger Cadets a match game of base ball to-morrow. These two clubs have no connection with the two which played last Saturday. Verily, the fever rages!

"An You Love Us Hal, No More of It!"—Will not the weekly papers have a little merrily on the public, and stop publishing that piece of poetry entitled "The New Church Organ"? What have we done that the punishment of seeing this thing stuck in every other paper one picks up should be visited upon us? Publish "The Beautiful Snow" for an ode to Spring; just by way of variety.

Marriage of a Charlottean.—On Wednesday evening, the 18th inst., Mr. R. S. Pifer, of this city, was united in marriage to Miss Belle McCobb, in the presence of the bride's mother, in Person county, this State. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. O. M. Henderson. The young couple, with a number of their attendants, reached Charlotte last evening on the 6 o'clock express train on the N. C. Railroad.

Emigrants Moving.—Yesterday afternoon a party of about twenty-five negroes arrived in Charlotte on their way to Mississippi, in which State they will make their homes. The negroes were from Cleveland county and understand let them go. They will leave all their property for white immigrants, who will be more efficient at their labors, and who will do more to advance the material interests of the country.

Tax Listing.

The Board of Trustees of Charlotte Township will commence on the 1st day of April ensuing, to make out a list of all the taxable property, real estate, personal property, bells, &c., in this township. The Board is composed of six members, any two of which can make out the list. Make your returns promptly.

More Immigrants Coming.

Messrs. Graham & Nash telegraphed to New York last evening for 15 additional immigrants to be sent them at once. Homes have been found for them, and can be found easily for as many more as will come. The farmers are getting very much interested in this question of white labor, and Messrs. Graham & Nash are daily receiving letters of inquiry as to what are the terms upon which laborers can be had, &c., &c.

The Petersburg Excursion.

Quite a number of North Carolina and Virginia editors have been on an excursion to City Point near Petersburg this week, and were banqueted by the Quanaah Company of Petersburg, in an account of the banquet, published in the News of that city, the following occurs: "Mr. Jones of the Charlotte Observer, next spoke, and made a good and sensible speech."

In speaking of the North Carolina editors, as a class, who attended on the occasion, the News says: "These specimens of the North Carolina press gang are well calculated to reflect credit on the profession and on their State, and we only regret that their stay in Petersburg was so short."

Gov. Vance.

This gentleman, who has had occasion to visit Greenville, S. C., has been invited to deliver his lecture on the Scattered Nation, on the 21st inst. He accepted, and was to have repeated it last evening. The Republican of that place says, in speaking of the lecture: "Gov. Vance, of North Carolina, has signified his willingness to favor the citizens of Greenville with his celebrated Baltimore Lecture on the 'Scattered Nation of the Earth,' said to be an able and masterly production. Due notice will be given by handbill of the time and place; and when it is known, we promise a glorious treat to all those who may attend. Don't miss the opportunity of seeing and hearing Gov. Vance for once in your life—Bear this in mind."

A Family Feud.

Yesterday morning a man named Bailey, a contractor on the Carolina Central Railway, arrived in Charlotte. He had been in the city for some time, and had had an old quarrel with the late Mayor. He soon came up with them here in the city, and forthwith sued out a peace warrant and had Norton brought up before the Mayor. There was a large stock of pent-up anger, and after Norton had unburdened himself of a good deal of it, Bailey "felt sorry for the man," as he expressed it, and the case was compromised without any binding over. Hand shaking took place, and after a great many protestations of eternal friendship both parties went off apparently satisfied.

Yesterday afternoon, Bailey having had the bills returned by frequent potations of whiskey, appeared again at the Mayor's office, and desired that another warrant be issued for Norton; that Norton had run off with his wife and he would not take it; he was a peaceable citizen and the law ought to protect him against Norton. The Mayor could not see the utility of having the man brought up a second time, and after the matter had been adjusted, but told the complainant to pay the cost in advance and he would grant the warrant. Bailey seemed not to have any money, and the warrant, therefore, did not issue.

The matter was finally arranged between the two men, or who took the woman, this deponent is not advised.

Capt. Charles E. Waddell.

The Petersburg (Va.) Daily News, of the 17th inst., contains the following notice of the death of the pure and noble gentleman whose name stands at the head of this article: "The painful intelligence, has been received, of the death last evening, in Danville, of Capt. Chas. E. Waddell, of this city. His illness was brief and the announcement of his demise will startle his friends, and indeed, the whole community, where he was so well known and so much beloved. For some time past, Capt. Waddell has occupied the position of travelling agent for the Great Southern Dispatch Post Freight Line.

Capt. Waddell was a native of Orange county, North Carolina, and removed to this city some time before the war. At the beginning of the war he left this city in the Old City Guard, 12th Virginia Regiment, and served faithfully in that command till the close of the struggle, during the last seven years of which he was the Captain of his company.

As a man, Capt. Waddell was a singularly lovable character, generous, and true; he was the genial companion, the sincere friend, and was in very truth a Christian gentleman. His remains will arrive here on the 22d inst., at 2 o'clock P. M., by the Southside train, and will be in charge of the Masonic fraternity, and the old company of which he was the loved and honored Captain.

We learn from the News of the 18th, that General Mathews gave free transportation to a detachment of the Old City Guard, of Petersburg, and so commencing from the Masonic Lodges to go up the Southside Railroad Wednesday morning, to meet the remains of Capt. Waddell and escort them to this city. They arrived at 2 P. M., and the funeral took place from St. Paul's Church, Blandford Lodge, No. 3, and Powhatan Starke Lodge, No. 124, participated in the funeral ceremonies.

London Quarterly Review.

The Leonard Scott Publishing Co.'s reprint of the London Quarterly Review for January has just reached us. It is rather late this quarter, but none the less noticeable on that account. The epithet "ponderous," frequently applied by some to Quarterly Reviews, is not a fitting one for this number, which is filled with articles of universal interest.

No less than three biographical sketches arrest the attention as we turn over the pages. Winckelmann's History of Ancient Art has long been a standard authority; but few have known the career of the author, as given in the pages of this review—painful in its outset, tragical at its close. In a review of "The Personal Recollections" of Mrs Somerville, we have the outline of another life, one of repose and peace, contrasting strongly with the troubled story of the other. The little Scotch lassie, whose parents thought one year's schooling when she was ten years old would fit her for her work in life, had a love for study which could not be repressed by the great discouragements which attended her early years. No department of mathematical research was beyond her powers. It is unnecessary to recapitulate Mrs Somerville's works; they are too well known. We content ourselves with a glimpse at the writer. "Her head was rather smaller than those of other women of her moderate height, and the impression which its form conveyed was that of extreme delicacy of feeling, and elevation of character rather than of power. Head, countenance, figure, manners, all were in perfect harmony with the gentle, intelligent, well-bred lady, who talked so pleasantly in society, painted such pretty pictures, touched the piano with such taste, and worked such lovely embroidery."

John Stuart Mill is the subject of another biographical article, in which the development of his mind is illustrated by reference to the works produced at the different stages of his career.

Other articles are "Simplification of the Law;" "Sacerdotalism, Ancient and Modern," treating on the history and growth of Protestant confessions, and other ritualistic observances; "Lombard Street," showing the importance of the Cash Reserve of the banking department of the Bank of England, as the ultimate safety-fund of the English mercantile system; "The Despotism of the Future," of universal interest in these days when the labor question is being agitated all over the world; "Russian Songs and Folk-Tales," illustrating Slavonic Mythology and Russian Social Life; and "The Difficulties of the Liberal Party."

If we have not dwelt at length upon all the articles in this number, it is because our space fails us. Every one is worth reading.

Under the picturesque caption of "Pistols and Peanuts," the Charlotte News prints the following vivid dispatch from Columbia, the scene of the South Carolina legislature, bearing date of March 2, 10 p. m.

There was a general row in the House to-night, caused by the drunkenness of one of the members, who was ordered to be put out and resisted. Pistols were freely drawn, and a disgraceful scene ensued. The House is now discussing a motion to expel A. Dannerly and H. Riley, two colored members from Orangeburg. The excitement is intense, and a general row is probable. The samples of legislative discussion in that State are mostly red hot.

The old Jordan homestead, five miles north of Greensboro, was destroyed by fire on Thursday last. The family renting the place was absent when the fire occurred, but it is supposed to have been accidental.

Found at Last!—A remedy that not only relieves, but cures that enemy of mankind, Consumption, as well as the numerous ailments which grow around it in the shape of coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throats, indigestion, &c. The remedy we allude to is Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, prepared by Seth W. Fowle & Son, Boston. til mar 19.
