I brought her home, my bonny bride, just fifty years ago; Her eyes were bright, Her step was light,

Her voice was sweet and low. In April was our wedding-day-The maiden month, you know,

Of tears and smiles, And willful wiles, And flowers that spring in snow.

My love cast down her dear, dark eyes As if she fain would hide From my fond sight

Her own delight, Half shy yet happy bride.

But blushes told the tale, instead, As plain as words could speak In dainty red, That overspread

My darling's dainty cheek. For twice six years and more I watched Her fairer grow each day-My babes were blest

Upon her breast. And she was pure as they. And then an angel touched my eyes,

And turned my day to night, That fading charms

Or time's alarms, Might never vex my sight.

Thus sitting in the dark I see My darling as of yore-With blushing face And winsome grace, Unchanged, forevermore.

Full fifty years of young and fair! To her I pledge my vow Whose spring-time grace And April face

Have listed until now.

A distinguished clergyman of New York, speaking of this remedy, characterizes it as "one of the special blessings of the nine-teenth century. The certainty of its heal-ing effect," said he, "and the immunity from danger whether administered to children or to adults, adapt it for the widely popular use it has attained." None would long suffer from lung complaint if they knew how easily they can be cured by this remedy. By its timely use all pulmonary diseases may be arrested, and consump tion—the scourge that sweeps away thou-sands every year—would be checked in its commencement. Persons with a scated cough, which breaks their rest at night, will find, by taking the Expectorant on going to bed, they may be sure of unbroken sleep and refreshing rest. Possessing a very pleasant taste it is easily administered to children. Sold by all Druggists. Labratory, 48 and 20 Courtland st., New feb 10 deodawly
