LOCAL DOTS.

Cotton is coming in slowly. The bales are few and far between.

A great many eyes are still draped in mourning for past sins.

There were ladies on the streets yesterday afternoon till you couldn't repose.

The community is interrested to know why the new post master don't take charge.

Mr. S. P. Martin lost his pocket book, containing $65 00, on Monday. He advertises it in THE OBSERVER this morning.

A picnic is on the tapis for Saturday next. Have it by all means. The warriors, we learn, have a large interest in the matter.

The seductive julip will soon supplant the enticing cock-tail. They tell us that grass is already beginning to appear in liquor.

The spirit of devotion and anxiety to serve the country in a legislative capacity, is abroad in the land.

The municipal election is less than two weeks distant, and still no nominations have been made for Aldermen.

The binding of one negro over to keep the peace toward another was the sum total of the business in judicial circles yesterday.

Many of the farmers will begin to plant cotton to-day. By noon the ground will be sufficiently dry for this work. Little if any corn has been planted yet.

The Charlotte Hotel has a new register, and everybody is invited to come up and register; nobody will ever register with any better men, don't care where you go to find them.

Mr John Farris killed a splendid wild turkey on Sugar Creek, a few days ago. He sold it to Mr S M Timmons who feasted his boarders on it.

The brethren of the press are just now saying a great many kind and complimentary words for the OBSERVER. We are treasuring all these things up in our heart of hearts. Brethren, we will remember you.

Never did "Old Probs" speak more truly than when he predicted clear and pleasant weather for yesterday. The day was altogether lovely—as bright, beautiful and pleasant as can be.

The Sale To-day.—Be sure to attend the sale of P M Brown's estate to-day at 11 A M. Household and kitchen furniture will be sold, and a lot of other articles. The articles to be sold are very valuable, many of them, and all of our citizens should attend the sale.

Personal.—H B Plant, Esq, President of the Southern Express Company, registered yesterday at the Central.

Col B Y Sage, Capt S S Kirkland and Maj P A Wellford passed through this city yesterday en route to Charleston, where a law suit in which they are interested is progressing.

The Kiss.—This is rather an old subject, yet it is one in which man-kind has been interested from generation to generation.—The following is its poetical definition. Those who have enjoyed the article in question can judge whether or not this is a "true bill":

The kiss it is a telegram
From heart to lip revealing
A test of love and friendship sweet
That silence was concealing.

More eloquent is it than speech,
More tender and more holy;
And touches equally alike
Both autocrat and lowly.

Give me a kiss while heart and soul
Glow warm as green-wood embers;
One that will breathe of Spring time's days,
And not of cold December's.

Board of Aldermen.—We are unable to give the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen this morning, but will publish them tomorrow. Nothing of very great public interest was done. A resolution was passed setting forth that it is the sense of this Board that the market house should be sold, but no action was taken further than the passage of the resolution. Also a resolution commending the manner in which the cemetery is kept. Other matters were touched upon, an account of which will appear.

The Newbernian.—This is the title of a new paper which has just appeared in Newbern, Seth M Carpenter, Esq, editor and proprietor. It is a small paper, but is beautifully printed and filled with the best of matter, original and selected. The editorials are prepared with care and ability, and the local department is equally well sustained. The paper is Democratic-Conservative in its political tone. We extend the Newbernian our best wishes, and hope it may succeed beyond the most sanguine expectations of its editor and publisher.

The City Graded School.—This is the most important public enterprise now in existence in Charlotte, and it is to be regretted that our citizens do not appreciate the fact, and contribute of their substance to keep it in operation. There is about $400 to be raised in order to run the school through the present session, which would terminate about the 20th of June. Unless this amount is raised in money or good pledges, the school will positively close on the 30th day of the present month. There are many children now attending the school whom their parents can not afford to have abruptly stopped; but the session will certainly be ended with this month unless the amount named be raised within the time specified. These facts we gather from the Superintendent, Rev J B Boone, who is thoroughly in earnest in what he says.

Captured.—John Davidson is a negro who is notorious as having been concerned in the recent burglaries in this city. For some time the police have been devising means for his capture, and yesterday he was trapped. He has of late been working in the Steel Creek neighborhood, and on yesterday, City Marshal Erwin employed a colored man, Wilson Grier, in whom he had perfect confidence to capture Davidson. The man executed his commission faithfully, and last evening about 9 o'clock came into town with his prisoner, who was committed to jail. Wilson found his man at work in a field and captured him without difficulty.

Tom Caldwell and John Davidson being now in jail, the community can feel themselves free from being depredated upon for awhile.

The capture of these characters has been engineered skillfully, and great credit is due Marshal Erwin for his diligence in ferreting out and capturing the rascals who have so long kept the community in a state of unrest.

Something of a Romance.—During the late war six of the Federal prisoners confined in the Salisbury prison made their escape together, and coming over in this direction, reached the home of a certain person who lives about 12 miles from Charlotte, a man of well known Union sentiments. This man, whom we shall call A, took them into his house, cared for them and treated them with the utmost kindness, keeping them well concealed and providing for all their wants. The escaped prisoners stayed with him for about a month, and finally began to think of an attempt to get back into their own lines.

With this determination three of them started off in one direction and the other three in another. One party went by way of Hickory Nut Gap, in the hope of getting into Brownlow's dominions. This hope, however, was destined to be blasted, for before they could reach the Tennessee line they were captured by a party of Confederates and carried back to Salisbury, where they were confined again. The three who had taken a different route had better luck and got safely into the Federal lines.

Among the three who were captured was one whom we shall designate as B. He suffered the pangs of imprisonment until the close of the war, and, shortly after its ending, he became interested in a sugar plantation in Louisiana. At this he succeeded well. His business was remunerative and he acquired some wealth.

On Sunday morning he arrived in Charlotte on the way to his home in Pittsburgh, Pa. While here he inquired for his old friend and protector, and found that he was still living at the place where B had first met him. So great was his gratitude to A, that he felt that he could never pass by without going to see him, and notwithstanding the terribly rainy weather and the wretched condition of the roads, he hired a horse and started out for A's house. Arriving there he found that A was in Charlotte, and coming back he hunted and inquired around until he found him. The meeting was a most cordial one, and B's gratitude was poured out in burning words, to the man who had so kindly harbored and provided for him at a time when he feared seriously for the consequences, if it should be known. B took his benefactor to a clothing store and fitted him out in a new suit of clothes entire, and gave him a suit for his son. In addition to this he wined him and dined him, and seemed to think he could never do enough for him.

When the time came for B to leave on Monday evening, the parting was most affectionate. He breathed words of eternal friendship and gratitude to A, and both wept when the time came for the separation.

All of the affair was of quite a romantic nature, and the conduct of the two men toward each other was noticed with considerable interest by several persons who had been made acquainted with the relations existing between them.

The Five Points.—The citizens of Charlotte, have no conception of the iniquity which prevails in the "Five Points." The locality is a disgrace to the city and a burning shame to the person or persons who wink at the villainy and immorality which is continually in practice there. Public decency demands a change for the better. The vice with which that locality abounds, is more than any respectable community ought to be asked to tolerate. We ask the city authorities, and we propose to continue to ask them, to break up these houses of ill-fame, and to adopt some means to make human life and property of a little more account in that section than it has hitherto been and now is.

Wanted.—At this office, immediately, four good, reliable carriers, to deliver the DAILY OBSERVER to our city subscribers. If we can employ this number of carriers who will undertake to deliver the paper, promptly and in reasonable time, we propose to furnish them with the paper on commission, with such rates as will pay the person performing the work a very liberal salary, considering the amount of service to be done.

The prompt delivery of a daily paper is a necessity. It is expected to contain the very latest news up to the hour of going to press. Its business readers, at least, expect to scan its columns at the breakfast table, if not before. Under our present system of delivery we believe this is a matter of impossibility, and in order to bring about a more desirable state of things, just as soon as possible, we hope to inaugurate the plan of SELLING our paper to the Carriers.

The paper will then be SOLD to subscribers at the nominal price of fifteen cents per week, and they will not be required to pay unless the carrier has delivered the paper promptly and regularly during the week.

This plan, we believe, will make the carrier prompt in the delivery of the paper, and while we will pay more for the work, we will have the satisfaction of knowing that the carrier is directly responsible for the delivery of the paper, and cannot charge for it unless it has been regularly delivered, for the time charged. For those who have paid the subscription in advance we will, of course, be responsible to the carrier for the amount each has paid.

OBITUARY.

Died, at the residence of his parents, near this Statesville, on Wednesday morning last, of membraneus croup, JOHN ANDREW, son of Capt. E Hayne Davis and wife Mary; aged some three years. "Johnnie" was a child of remarkable promise and sweetness. The funeral service was conducted at the Episcopal Church in this place on Thursday, at 11 o'clock, by Rev. Mr. Bronson, of Charlotte, in a most impressive manner, and the little coffin followed to the Town Cemetery by a large number of the friends of the bereaved family. A remarkable coincidence is related that, after the Episcopal Church was built, this child was the first to receive the rite of baptism within its walls, and his also was the first funeral service held in the edifice

THE GUANAHANI GUANO

UNADULTERATED AND GENUINE.

THIS IS A GENUINE GUANO WHICH IS TAKEN FROM THE Guanahani Island (one of the Bahama Group) and bids fair to become one of the most popular fertilizers offered for sale. It is put up in sacks in the same condition as when taken from the caves, and no manipulation or grinding is required.

It is recommended by

Prof. P. B. WILSON, of Baltimore, who is regarded as one of the best analytical chemists in the country.,

Our State Geologist,

Prof. W. C. KERR.

also, recommends it as entitled to a place among the standard fertilizers of the country. The analysis shows it to be richer in plant food than the great majority of fertilizers, which in connection with the moderate price at which it is sold, are strong inducements for every farmer to use it.
