THE PUBLIC!

As eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, so is continued vigilance, honest, fair and upright dealing necessary to saccess in business. Having from the outset (18 years ago), appreciated these facts, and acted upon them, we find ourselves to-day rewarded or the countless anxieties, vexations, and he loss of hours of rest by seeing our long cherished hopes realized, of making Char-

thus giving to the trade a strictly "Wholesole Establishment," where they can make their selections from a Stock purchased for that trade only, thus avoiding coming in contact with a Retail Stock and Retail Buy ers. The advantages of such a House are o obvious to need further comment. To give the general reader a better con-

Carolina Military Institute Commencement Exercises .- It is seldom that an audience as large and refined as that which graced the Assembly Hall of this Institute last night is to be convoked. We say convoked; the word is well chosen for the intelligent audience which found itself there ellectual feast. We do not hesitate to say that it was highly enjoyed, as was manifested by the strict attention and sincere applause bestowed upon the young gentlemen essayists and orators. It was certainly "good to be there," and it afforded tis great pleasure to see the beautiful boquets fall at the feet of those who did credit both to themselves and to their instructor. Our readers will bear in mind that the exercises in the Department o Rhetoric and Oratory will be continued to-day, commencing at 10 A M, when the Fourth Class of this excellent institution will prove to them that it has likewise been to a feast of languages, logic and rhetoric and stolen not all the scraps mais les bonnes bouches.

Drowned in Rocky River .- Mr T A Hunneycutt, a citizen of Charlotte, on Wednesday evening, about dusk, was drowned in Rocky River, a short distance below Pharr's Mill, in Cabarrus county. The particulars are about as follows: Mr Hunneycutt and some others had been seining in the river, which is generally shallow, until they came to a point some three fourths of a mile below the mill, where there is a deep hole, or basin, some twenty or thirty feet long and fifteen feet wide, surrounded by shallow water. He first swam across the basin, and finding the water beyond shallow, returned, and proposed to swim over with the scine, he holding to one staff, and another of the fishermen to the other end. Fifty Dollars! which was acceded to. They started across and after swimming but a few feet. Mr H. turned around and struck out for the starting point, when he turned back; his companion asked him, "Can't you make it?"-He made no reply, but rubbed his face with one hand, then immediately sunk, and was not seen again until his body had been recovered, after having remained some half an hour in the water. All efforts to resuscitate the body were fruitless. He was a good swimmer and it is thought that either a vi-

The Ice Machine.-At last we have it! Yesterday evening, a sound and excellent quality of ice was made at the ice machine in this city. It was ice, and no mistake. The pipes leading from the refrigerating box, were covered at six o'clock, when we saw them, with a thick frost; giving evidence of the intense cold within. Dr. Fox, the Presideut of the Company, who has labored so assidnously to make this thing a success, assures us that now the way is clear, and that, in a few days, we shall have ice in abundance. A larger pump than the present one, is needed, to make the machine the success it should be. We have an abiding faith that the most sanguine expectations of Dr. Fox in regard to this matter, will be fulfilled.

COMMENCEMENT AT DAVIDSON COLLEGE.

Wednesday Night's and Yesterday's Proc eedings.

Through an occurrence wnich we regret, but which could not be helped, the proceedings at Davidson College on Wednesday night, were left out of the OBSERVER vesterday morning. A very large crowd wasin attendance at the chapel, and the exercises of the evening elicited very considerable interest. After the music, Prof. Blake introduced the first orator of the occasion, B. H. Rice, of Murfreesboro, Tennessee; a representative of the Eumenean Society, who had selected for his subject, "Singleness of Purpose." Each Society, the Eumenean and Philanthropic, was represented by three members. We can not, of course, undertake to make any extended account of the speeches, but will merely give the programme, having it understood that members of each society spoke alternately, the Eumenean first and the Philanthropic last. "Singleness of Purpose," R. H. Rice, Eumeneon Society, Murfreesboro, Tenn. "The Sixteenth Century," John Whitehead, Philanthropic Society, Sallsbury, N. C. "Communism," A. B. Coit. Eumenean Society, Charlotte, N. C. "Rights?" Jas H Morrison, Philanthropic Society, Asheviile, N. C. "Our Historians?" R. P. Davis, Eumenean Society, Charlotte, N. C. "Utilitarinism," J. P. Irwin, Philanthropic Society, Char lotte, N. C.

The oratory displayed was most excellent, and 90 a 1.00 | the compositions, all that the most sanguine could have expected. We do not wish to draw distinctions, but cannot refrain from expressing | Donald Macauley, E H White, W S Blackour gratification at the honorable part borne in | wood, J E Stenhouse, Dr J S M Davidson, the exercises by our young fellow-townsmen, Messrs. Coit, Davis, and Irwin. They acquitted themselves most creditably. Mr. Davis, we thought, the most graceful orator of the evening. All of the speakers handled their subjects well, and commanded close attention from the audience. The exercises continued until half past

But yesterday was the "big day" of the Commencement, for then the diplomas were awarded to the graduating students, and then the chosen orators of the graduating class spoke. By the time for the exercises to begin arrived, the chapel was densely packed, and fresh additions were continually being made to the already suffocating crowd. The windows, aisles and doors were all filled, and there was barely standing room in the chapel. The morning proceedings were opened by Rev. Dr. Hoge, who appealed to the Throne of Grace in an eloquent and beautiful prayer. After this, followed a very long inaugural address by Prof. J. F. Latimer, the merits of which we do not now propose to discuss.

The Latin Salutatory was in order after this, and this was delivered by James E. Fogartie, of Charleston, South Carolina. A philanthropic Oration on "Means and End," was then delivered by Malcolm M. McKay, of Eufaula, Alabama. had been summoned to participate in an in- | J. Luckey Steele, of Rowan county, N. C., then spoke on "Innovation," and was followed by J. Alston Ramsay, of Salisbury, N, C., who spoke of "Man's Place in Nature." The Influence of the World's Opinion was treated of by John E. Kelley, of Carthage, N. C. Kiah P. Julian, of Salisbury. N. C., followed next and had for his subject "The Divine Purpose Manifested by Geology. Geo. R. McNeill, of Iredell county, discanted upon the "Boys and Girls of the Day" (a humorous speech), after which F. H. Fries, of Salem, N. C., delivered a scientific oration upon 'The Unity of Force."

All of these addreses were delivered with a grace characteristic of the students of Davidson College. Some of them were really excellent, but we do not care to individualize. All, or nearly all of the speeches, were interspersed with music by the splendid Band from Salisbnry.

The conferring of degrees took place after the speech of Mr. Fries, and Prof. Blake in a very happy manner, presented diplomas to eighteen young men who closed their collegiate course at this Institute on vesterday.

The presentation of the "Rockwell Prize" then took place. This is offered by Rev. Prof. E. F. Rockwell, of Iredell county, to the student who attains the greatest proficiency in the Latin lanawarded Mr. Thos. McGehee, of Person county. Wm. R. Moore, of Troy, Tennessee, then de-The exercises of the day and of the Comnencement occasion closed with the benediction pronounced by Dr Chas Phillips, and the Band played "Old Hundred" while the crowd dispersed. A large number of the students and visitors left on the trains for Charlotte and Statesville yesterday afternoon, but many remained, and last night witnessed much of promenading and love-making in the campus, chapel and halls of Davidson College. There were no public exercises, and there was nothing to do but talk soft nonsense under the rays of the beautiful moon." Taken all in all the Commencement at Davidson College was a great success. There were many visitors there, there was much of beauty and loveliness, and of gallantry there was no lack. The election resulted as follows: Professor of Latin and French, Prof. A. D. Hepburn, formerly of the University of North Carolina, Adjunct Professor of Mathematics, Prof. Barnett, of Georgia. Professor of Greek and German, Professor W. M. Thorn. ton, of the University of Virginia.

Mrs. Scott's Concert.-Through an oversight almost unpardonable, we have failed hitherto to notice the concert given a few nights ago by the papils of Mrs. L. D. Scott's school. We were not permitted the pleasure of attending the Concest, but lieven most favorable report of it from persons who were there. From all we can learn it was decidedly a creditable affair. We know that Mrs. Scott is an excellent teacher, and we commend her school to the public.

THE EXCURSION. By a perusal of the appended article from, the Wilmington Journal, it will be seen that our Charlotte Excursionists have been the recipients of a most hearty welcome from the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. Doubtless it will prove a most enjoyable occasion, and the Charlotteans will return home with the most pleasant impressions of "The City by the Sea" :-

Arrival of the Charlotte Excursionists-Their Reception at the Depot-A Dash on Water and Ice-Address of Welcome and Response-Programme for

The excursionists from Charlotte, fiftyprominent merchants and bankers in that city, arrived here yesterday afternoon. They left Charlotte Monday night and came through from that city to this on a special train. The following is a list of the excursionists kindly furnished us by Mr W H H Gregory, Chairman of the excursionists,

Geo E Wilson, Iredell Jones, Columbus Mills, J S Williamson, J Armistead, M P C White, D M Rigler, C H Overman, J A Younts, W M Wilson, J V Symmons, R T Schiff, G W Chalk, J E Clarke, Dr L Von Meyerhoff, W A Barrier, D G Maxwell, Col J Y Bryce, Dr J S Woodruff, J M Wright, JR Holland, JF McLaughlin, J L Broth ers, J Moyer, W M Smith, Maj J G Harris, W F Cuthbertson, W R Burwell, Wm I Cochrane, John Vanlandingham, M C Meyer, J W Miller, J J Sims, Dr T K Cureton Chas Frazier, Phillip Whisnant, J C Long. D P L White, T D Clarke, Ii B Hammond Dr T H Means, W J Black, W W Grier, W J Friday, E A Osborne, C A Withers, T H Tiddy, McD Reel, Col Chas R Jones, W II

The train, with the excursionists aboard arrived at the freight depot of the Wilming ton, Columbia & Augusta Railroad at 5 o'clock, where they were met by a delegation of merchants, headed by Mr Chas H Robinson, Vice-President of the Chamber of Commerce. The excursionists, as they stepped from the cars, were greeted by our own merchants, who conducted them to the barge Experiment, lying at the wharf with the tug Wm. Nycc. The barge and the tug were both gaily decorated with flags, and the flags of many of the yessels in port were also flying in honor of the occasion. As the party stepped on board the barge the young gentlemen of the Cornet Concert Club greeted them with a burst of music, which must have sounded wonderfully pleasant to those who had been compelled to listen for the past twenty-four hours to the clanging and munching sounds of the car wheels, Not many minutes were required to make the guests perfectly at home supplies to the citizens of Boston, who were and new introductions and hand shakings and hearty welcomes and as hearty responses followed in rapid succession, Soon the party were launched and the barge, towed by the tug, floated gaily down the river, while the Cornet Club gave "Dixie" with a will, and a fine breeze swept up the river on the tired and heated excursionists. It was here on the barge that Mr Vice-

President Robinson, on behalf of the merchants, gave the following hearty welcome to our visitors:

Gentlemen: —The pleasant duty of welcoming you, on behalf of the Wilmington Cham ber of Commerce, has been assigned to me. It is indeed a pleasant duty. Were you strangers coming among us we could not be inhospitable, for "Stranger is a holy name;" but when brothers come it is a great joy to throw wide open our arms, and our hearts say welcome. We welcome you as worthy sons of our good old mother, North Carolina. We welcome you as worthy representatives of our thrifty sister of guage. The prize, (a very handsome book) was the West—our kindly rival in enterprise and growth. Our arms of iron are stretching out towards you and it is well livered the valedictory address. It was very that before these bonds join us, as we trust touching and eloquent, and excited a good deal they will, in an indissoluble tie, that we should look into each other's eyes, should grasp each other's hands, and heart beat against heart. It is said that that in the olden time men journeyed from the West towards the hast in search of light. Your journey towards the East is in search of pleasure; and I may safely say that those gentlemen whom I repesent are determined you shall find it, and not alone—they will join you in the search, and I may say for them that in this, as in other enterprises, they know no such word as fail. Then, gentlemen, in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, I bid you welcome to Wilmington. When you return to your homes may it be with pleasant impressions of this City by the Sea; and may we know no East, no West, but to love one another, our pleasant homes, our friends.— We welcome you with all our hearts.

Mr. Robinson having concluded his address of welcome, Mr. Gregory introduced Capt. J. C. Mills, of Charlotte, who, on behalf of himself and his friends, delivered the following happy response:

Mr. President and Citizens of Wilmington: concluded he was greeted with a burst of music from the band, and then --- ice water and cigars It is my grateful duty, in behalf of the

This excursion was gotten up so hurriedly, so impromptu, that I had no idea of such a demonstration as I witness now. But I assure you, Mr. President, that your expressions of friendship and welcome are fully reciprocated by us. It is a most pleasant occasion, and one always memorable in our lives, to recall this visit from Charlotte to Wilmington; this meeting of the West with the East; this greeting of the mountains with the sea. We come to you, gentlemen, with good wishes on our lips and good will in our hearts, with full assurances that our good will and good wishes will meet with a hearty reciprocation, for the generosity of the good old City of Wilmington is so proverbial that no man worthy of consideration can say unto you that "I came among ye hungry and ye fed me not, I came among ye thirsty and ye drank me not.

We come, gentlemen, to your city, if nistake not, on the first excursion ever made from Charlotte to Wilmington, and as such we come as pioneers in the great track of trade and travel that is destined to flow down from our mountain country to 'The City by the Sea." And although we come on this festive occasion, we do not come as mere pleasure seekers, but we come as representatives of the substantial men of merchandise and of trade, as representing every branch of business in our goodly City of Charlotte, and we hope by our efforts to inaugurate a community of business and of interest that will result in establishing Wilmington as the entrepot for our section of country and for our State. And what seaport on our coast is so well entitled as Wilmington, with all its advantages of commerce, with its system of railroad communication, to be the depot of exportation and importation for the State of North Caroli-

Our communications are such already that they should naturally lead to that result. Our great and varied resources of Western North Carolina, our waving fields of cotton and corn, of wheat and tobacco; our inexhaustible mines of gold and silver. of copper and iron; our boundless forests of hickory and pine, of walnut and ashe. All these sources of wealth are seeking an outlet to the sea: that great common carrier of the wealth of nations. And what outlet more natural should we seek than our own City of Wilmington-that "hath the sea for her heritage."

Ere long we expect the co apletion of the railroad connection between Wilmington and Charlotte, which will unite us by bonds of matrimony that will render our interests and prosperity one and the same. And whenever the whistle of the Carolina Central railway shall have been heard in Charlotte, then shall begin the cra of our prosperity; and then shall Charlotte and Wilmington advance to the position in the rank of cities to which they are justly entitled .-Then indeed will the mountains bow down to the sea, and the West will salute the East with the kiss of peace and prosperity. When that whistle shall have been heard in Charlotte then will Western North Carolina, like Shipp, C W Bradshaw, H Ratterree, P Rip Van Winkle of old, come down from the mountains and will bring her treasures of gold and measures of oil and will lay hem at the feet of Wilmington, as a tribute for the sound of that whistle, nor will she, ike that penny-wise philosopher of old, think she "has paid too dear for her whis-

But, gentlemen, at the names of Wilmington and Charlotte, of New Hanover and Mecklenburg, there arise before me old historic recollections that cannot be repressed even on such a festive and fleeting occasion as the present. The brightest pages in the listory of the old North State are derived rom the records of New Hanover and of Mecklenburg. We, as sons of the old North State, are all proud to know that North Carolina, in its first struggle for independence and liberty, stands pre-eminent in the history of the American Revolution, and will shine a beacon for all ages to come, to light true heroes along the pathway of exalted self sacrifice, splendid courage and pure pat-

And, gentlemen, we, as citizens of Mecklenburg and New Hanover, should be prouder still to recall the deeds of our own ancestors in those times that tried the souls of men. It can never be forgotten, it can nev er be refuted, that, with a devotion to freedom unparalelled in all the annals of time, a band of patriots, heroes, on the 20th of May, 1775, in the county of Mecklenburg, where now stands the City of Charlotte, announced to Great Britain, and all the world. that first and immortal Declaration of Independence that startled the sleepers of the old world with the realization that a newborn giant had been born on this continent, called Liberty! But although we are justly proud of this deed, and although we cherish it as the grand achievement of Mecklenburg yet the gallant deeds done by the sons of ld New Hanover must not be forgotten .-It should be born in mind that this section of country was more exposed to the attack of the enemy from the sea than any other; yet, nevertheless, as early as July, 1774, New Hanover expressed her sympathy and sent contending against the tyranny of Great Britain; but search the records of history and where will you find that Boston has ever expressed sympathy or afforded aid to Wilmington? In November, 1774, she had already formed her committee of safety to resist the aggressions of the British Government, and in June, 1775, in convention as-sembled, the citizens of New Hanover declared in the words of the resolution that they were "ready to go forth and be ready to sacrifice their lives and fortunes to secure the freedom and safety of the country.' And, gentlemen, it is a striking coincidence that we stand here to-day as representatives of the counties of Mecklenburg and New Hanover-the two banner counties of North Carolina in het first struggles for indepen dence and liberty. In view of this fact it is a memorable occasion when New Hanover and Mecklenburg join hands in friendship and good will, in commemoration of our glorious past. It is fit and proper that the land of Ashe, of Hooper and of Moore should greet the land of Alexander, of Graham and ot Davidson.

The thunder of battle that rolled down from the craggy heights of King's Mountain, across the plains of Mecklenburg, were re-echoed back across the plains of New Hanover from the piney groves of Moore's Creek! And the right of freedom and liberty that was achieved by the gallant deeds of our ancestors should not be our heritage. But, gentlemen, these reminiscences of a historical But, gentlemen, these reminiscesces of a historic past recall other memories of later days—days of past recall other memories of later days—days of still glorious, but alas! of "days that are no more." We stand in sight of the beautiful bay of Wilmington, and the glad waves are sparkling in the light of the sunset, and the waves are whispering tender tones to the shore. But to some of us, the voices of the sea recall other memories. For some of us can remember the thunder of the guns from Fort Fisher, that once boomed over the waves of this bay, and it recalls the memory of the "days that are no more," Yet the memory of our dead heroes—of Whiting, of Duncan Moore, of Meares, of Wright, and of all our gallant knights who died with the shout of victory in their ears, these all remind us and of all our gallant knights who died with the shout of victory in their ears, these all remind us that though we live in these later days, we are not the degenerate sons of a noble ancestry!

In conclusion, gentlemen, I will offer this sentiment—the Mountains send tidings of good-will to the Sea; and as New Hanover and Mecklenburg, are united by memories of a glorious past, so may Charlotte and Wilmington be banded together by ties of mutual prosperity and realize a glorious future.

reception accorded them, assuring the gentlemen

Some one who had strayed into the card room entered at this moment and mildly remarked that there was some very nice ice water across the passage, whereupon the meeting adjourned without a day, to partake of the ice water. They then departed for the hotels to make the necesa ry changes in their toilets, after which they all strolled off in various directions to overhaul the

A splendid programme, which is published in another column, has been made up for to-day. Ice water, it will be seen, is a prominent feature on the trip to the Sound. Everybody will freeze to it to-day and can thaw out at their leisure on the drive back to the city to-night by moonlight.

THE SOUND.

We understand that the following is the Programme arranged for to-day: Breakfast at 7:30, Carriages to convey the guests to the residence of Wm A Wright, Esq, Wrightsville Sound, will be in front of the Cape Fear Club, at 8 o'clock. At 10 o'clock it is expected that the horses will be watered at the "Two Mile Branch." 10:30 Ice Water-fresh-will be served to the guests only. At 12 o'clock Oysters, roasted a la Sound. At 12 o'clock, boats will be in readiness to carry the party to the Banks, where a grand flourish in the Ocean will be taken. Ice Water-not so freshwill be served at 2:30, after which the party wil return to the Mainland. At 5 o'clock, fish, clams, erabs, &c, &c, with Ice Water-a little salty-will be served. During the day, fishing, sailing, and games will be provided, and we learn that, by special permission of the Chamber of Commerce. smoking will be allowed the entire day. No shooting will be permitted after the ice water begins to get salty.

We also learn that at the request of a Fayetteville gentleman, there will be a "Two Mile Branch's at every mile post on the return trip .-The valtors are expected to "rest" at the rooms of the Cape Fear Club, upon reaching the city.

The Tobacco Leaf .- The next issue of the Tobacco Leaf, J. R. Morris, Managing Editor, published in this office, will contain the business notices entitled "Charlotte and Her Business," copied from the OBSERVER. This issue will be a very large one, and as the Tobacco Leaf has a very extended circulation, it is a fine medium through which to advertise. Advertisements for this extra large edition will be received until Monday next. Extra copies furnished at $2.50 per hundred. One firm in Danville, Va., has ordered 1,000 copies for distribution. Several Charlotte merchants have likewise order ed several hundred each.
