THE PUBLIC

As eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, so is continued vigilance, honest, fair and pright dealing necessary to success in busness. Having from the outset (18 years igo), appreciated these facts, and acted upon them, we find ourselves to-day rewarded or the countless anxieties, vexations, and the loss of hours of rest by seeing our long cherished hopes realized, of making Char-in order to be more explicit, we have the pleasure of informing the mercantile world that we have leased the superb store, adjoining our present, (heretofore occupied by Messrs. Brem, Brown & Co., as their Dry-Goods Store), which we will occupy by first of September next for the retail trade only, and will use our present elegant and commodians store for an explaine modious store for an exclusive thus giving to the trade a strictly "Whole-sole Establishment," where they can make their selections from a Stock purchased for that trade only, thus avoiding coming in contact with a Retail Stock and Retail Buy ers. The advantages of such a House are oo obvious to need further comment.

To give the general reader a better coneption of the colossal dimensions of our two Houses we state that we will have upwards of thirty thousand feet of superficial floor room; or if a lane of ten feet wide were formed of our stores, it would reach considerably over half a mile.

At the same time we inform our numerous friends that our Mr. Rintels is now again North buying our second stock this season, and owing to the decline in goods, will again place us in a position to successfully compete with all other houses.

Very respectfully,
WITTKOWSKY & RINTELS.

THE EXCURSION.

So much has already been said through these columns on this subject that we are almost on the point of saying nothing further, but that we know it is expected that we will make some use of the extensive of much kindness and hospitality at the hands of

must be represented, and, notwithstanding an immense pressure of editorial duties, we concluded to lay aside the pen and the scissors for a day or two, and join with our friends in demonstrations of friendship toward our Wilmington friends, who are so soon to be united with us in iron bonds of wedlock upon the completion of the Carofina Central Railway.

Accordingly, then, fifty-eight Charlotte ans, representing every branch of business in the city, embarked on the 9:30 train on last Monday night for Wilmington, via Columwere under our special supervision, and we felt in duty bound to take good care of everybody. The argus eyes of THE OBSERVER were expected to see and note every thing, but were we to attempt to write it all down we would have no room for anything else. As before stated, we took the party under the umbrageous influences of our editorial wing, at 9:30 P M, and thanks to the management of the C, C & A R R, in a short time thereafter we were in motion for Columbia. The rear car of the train had been converted into a sleeping coach, and those of us who were fortunate enough to secure sleeping berths were soon tucked away for the night. It was our fortune to take up quarters with Col Maxwell, and although we are not in the habit of sleeping with sewing machine men, or sewing machinesthat is-the kind that run-with a treadlewe for once bear witness that it is not an

After a comfortable night's rest, and before the morning's ablutions were clearly over, the train bearing the excursionists reached Columbia. Here we changed engines, and in a short time reached the breakfast house, about a mile south of the city. Most of the party when not asleep had been eating sandwitches and drinking ice water nearly all night, but one who did not know this fact would never have realized it when breakfast was announced and when all hands rushed pell-mell to the table. A friend suggests that a corner had been made on chicken backs and tomatoes, and we believe it, for our host had certainly procured about all of these articles the city markets afforded. Prof Herr Von Meyerhoff, and Gregory, the inimitable, not getting seats at the first table, entertained the party, during the meal, the first by music on the piano, and the latter by a cornet

Breakfast being over we shipped Moj -Anderson, the Superintendent, and Capt Sprinkle of the W. C & A R R, and the train proceeded on its way, bearing the crowd of Between Columbia and the Big Pedee River we found the growing crops in a fine and prosperous condition. Everywhere in this part of the State both the cotton and corn crops look as if they had not ouffered for want of rain, and much to our surprise that they had not suffered for want of work. On much of the lands between the river and the city of Wilmington nothing is cultivat ed, but the occasional fields along which we which the railroad runs seem to give evidence of prosperity.

At 3 o'clock the train stopped at Flemmington for dinner. Most of the excursionists forgot that they had eaten a hearty breakfast at Columbia, and proceeded with a will to do ample justice to the good things spread out upon the dinner table of the hotel. After dinner several of the party, under pretense of getting a view of Lake Waccamaw, which lies just to the south of this place, ascended to the balcony of the second story of the hotel, but as there were some half dozen well-dressed young ladies up there, and as several sheep's eyes were cast over in their end of the balcony, we may be pardoned for stating that the sight of the Lake didn't occupy all their attention. Hower, the tolling of the beil announced the de parture of the train, and we were soon on the cars steaming for Wilmington, the Mecca of our desires. A few miles from Wilmington we were met by a Committee, appointed by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, and escorted by them to the city. Just here we may say that the Wilmington Journal has taken the wind out of our sails by publishing a full account of the reception, and which has already been published in THE OBSERVER, and further that the account of our second day's proceedings appeared yesterday morning as published in The Star. This is as full as we could find room for, and we see no necessity for a recapitulation.

found necessary prosperity indicated. Wilmington, we be lieve, is our only respectable seaport, is the , physical or mental, wears largest city in the State, and prides herself the and vivacity of our being not a little upon her commercial promi nence. Her merchants are live men, and look forward to the future growth and im-portance of her trade. Efforts are being made to get the channel over the bar so deepened as to admit ships of the largest tonnage. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars were appropriated by Congress for

At nine o'clock on the morning of which we speak, a number of the Charlotte deleon with the pure and good which is gates held a meeting at the rooms of the Cape Fear Club, and following is a synopsis of their proceedings:

At a meeting of the delegates of the Charlette excursion party, held in the rooms of the Cape Fear Club, on the 25th day of June. 1874, Col J E Stenhouse was called to the chair, and Chas R Jones was requested to act as Secretary. Resolved 2nd, That we take this manner to express our thanks to Col R B Bridgers, President and General Manager, Maj James Anderson, Superintendent, Maj A Pope, General Passenger Agent, Capt W W Pegram, Agent at Charlotte, Conductors Clarkson and Sprinkle, of the Great Atlantic Coast Line, for favors extended to us, and for the special train, and ample accommodations, afforded us on our excursion to and from Wilmington. from Wilmington.

Resolved 3rd, That we cordially tender to our fellow-citizens of Wilmington, an invitation to visit the "Queen City of the West," at the celebration of the bans of matrimony, which is soon to unite us in indissoluble ties to our "Sister (ity by the Sea," on the completion of the Carolina Central Railroad, and also to unite with us at our expected celebration of the Centennial Anniver

Resolved 4th, That all the papers of the cities of Wilmington and Charlotte, be requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting. On mo-

ion, adjourned. CHAS R JONES, J E STENHOUSE, Secretary. After the adjournment, we, in company with Mr Thos Tiddy, procurred a carriage, and visited the Manufactory of the Cape Fear Fibre Company. This was something altogether new to us, and we suppose is to most if not all our readers. This company convert the canesreeds-however strange it may sound-into pulp, for the manufacture of paper, such as is used for the printing of this paper. The process is one peculiar to itself, and can only be appreciated by an examination of the manufactory. Unfamiliar as we were with the details, we became inquisitive, and learned the following particulars in regard to the manufacture:

The caues are such as are to be found in many of the swamps along our rivers and streams, and the supply is therefore inexhaustible. These are cut in the swamps, made up into bundles about the size of a man's body, and conveyed to the works on boats. These bundles are put into large iron cylinders, or guns, and subjected to a steam process of 180 lbs. to the square inch, for fffteen minutes, at the end of which time the front valve of the gun is released, and the contents of the gun is ejected into the air, and the cane is burst, by the expansive force of the steam into the condition of a fibre, resembling oakum. A large amount is baled and shipped in this state to mix with straw to be made into shooting and roofing papers. When the fibre is to be worked up into pulp, and manufactured into white paper, it is first cut up into short pieces, freed from dust, and then put into beating engines, and thoroughly washed, by which means more than one half of the original substance is eliminated. The washed fibre is then emptied into drainers. and from there passed into the pulping boiler, where it is boiled in caustic alcili. It is then ready to be bleached, and run into sheets on the wet roll machine. The sheets are packed in bales, and shipped to the paper mills to be made into news book, and colored paper. This manufactory, of which we were ignorant until our visit to Wilmington, is one of the most important in the State. It is in charge of Mr H E Balliere, than whom we found few cleverer gentlemen during our visit.-He informs us that he has spent a fortune in bringing his business up to its prisent perfection, and that he is only now beginning to realize anything for his years of toil' as well as his investment. Returning to the Purcell House, where we had been made the guest of Mr John R Davis, we indulged in a good dinner, then repaired to the place of meeting of the party who were looked for a trip down the bay. By way of parenthesis, we desire to state that the Purcell House, is one passed, as well as the little towns through of the best institutions of Wilmington. Here the traveler who visits the city can always find a pleasant home, with the best fare, served in true

North Carolina style. The guests having assembled, procession was formed, and marched to the dock of the Cape Fear and People's Steam Boat Company, and took the steamer Old North State, Capt Green, which had been chartered by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, for a pleasant trip down

In a few minutes, we were steaming down the Cape Fear for Fort Fisher. We had noticed the shipment of sundry barrels and boxes, which, we were informed, contained ice, ice water, and various other refreshments. Two miles below the city, is a prominent tree, which stands on the bank of the river. Tradition has given it the name of the "dram "tree." Our Wilmington friends, who were mostly temperate folks, andone. The party soon discovered that there were other trees along the bay of no less renown, and respect was paid to most of them.

The North State, pursuing the even teno of her way, passed down the river until she reached Federal Point, where the Committee of Arrangements, very properly decided that we had gone far enough, if the Charlotteans had to reach the city in time to take the special train for Columbia, and the boat turned toward Wilmington. All were much pleased with the trip down the river, and not a few expressed a readiness to take up a permanent residence on the North State, during the heated term, if assurances could be given that tel water, sandwiches, chow-chow, etc., could always be obtained on the Thursday until 3 o'clock P M, was given to the guests to visit the city. Most of us same terms. When such arrangements are made we expect to speak for a permanent berth on this steamer. took occasion to ride or walk over this an-The trip back up the river to Wilmington, was cient burgh, and were much pleased at the not less pleasant than her passage to the historic of one day general appearance of thrift, energy and Fort Fisher. The seabreeze was quite as bracing. The pole moon lent her rayes to mollify the influences of time, peace and circumstance. Here we may be pardoned for copying in ex-tenso from the Wilmington Star. of the 26th: "Wilmington disappointed the Charlotte merchants in many respects, in her warmth, and liberal and great commercial advantages. She proved she has heat, and that it requires no strong friction to call it out. Her combustibility is more on the social order, which burns best in masses and in a strong drought, and when igmington people do so improve upon acquaintance, and the longer our stay the more pleasant that body. What could he say to thank the good people of this city for their kind hospitality? The kindness and hospitality of Wilmington was not unknown to the city of Charlotte, not been told. A few weeks since a telegram was received from a gentleman of your city, in which a party was invited to visit Wilmington .-This party soon became an excursion. We came with the expectation of being received as private individuals, not as representatives of the city of Charlotte. Since our arrival here we have been in the hands of the Chamber of commerce and Cape Fear Club and nothing has been seen spread to make, our time pass pleasantly, and we have enoyed it. We will have a pleasant story to relate when we return home Wo will tell our people of your treatment, and they with us will thank you.

Here Mr. Wilson spoke of the resources of North Carolina, especially of the western portion the State, that Wilmington was the natural outlet and shipping point for the State. That as Wilmington was the point of the West, and all the products of that part of the State were brought there, that Charlotte and Wilmington were soon to be united by a Pailroad that would be alwho were soon to become so intimately asmost an air line. That it was good for peosociated in the mercantile would, should become acquainted with each other. Mr. Wilson here gave a cordial invitation to the Wilmington people to visit Charlotte. After Mr. Wilson concluded his remaks Mr. Kerchner introduced to the party Maj

F. D. Poisson, who, in behalf of the Chamen of commerce and the Cape Fear Club id the Charlotte delegation farewell. Mat. Mngelhrad was called for, and brieff dluding to the remarks of his friend, Maor Polsson, in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and the Cape Fear Club, remarked that it was a matter of joy, no doubt, to our Charlotte friends that they were about to embark for their muchloved city and homes, and in this way we would e hospitable, but to us it was painful to part hith friends whose faces were now so familiar to us. He desired to say that this visit of our Charlotte friends would live in Scarcely a c sualty has befallen this exursion worth recording; excepting ne case, the entire excursion has been prosperous. Wearied, we have often been, dur ing their stay, from the reason, chiefly, that we had too much to acco aplish in a given time; perplexed we have been, as who would expect exemption from vexation under such circumstances. Happily, however for man, the vexations and the fatigues pass way almost with the occasion. The welcome of friends. Their kind enquiries, the oft-repeated question and answer, the sweets of home which our Charlotte friends wil experience, will serve to prolong the vision and heighten the interest of this trip-

We have already probably tried those wh have been willing to follow us thus far, and will claim space only to add that within a short time after the arrival of the stea ner at the wharf, most of the excursionists were aboard the special train, given for their accommodation, and were soon under ful steam for Columbia, at which point, thanks to Capt Sprinkle, a first-rate engine and good rolling stock, we arrived in good time for breakfast.

Breakfast over, we had several hours to spend in the city before the departure of the regular train for home. The party scattered to look at the city or to call on friends .-Among other places we peeped in at the Phoenix office and found Mr Selby, the genial proprietor, hard at work. He thinks it is hard work to get up a daily paper in these dull times, and we fully agree with him.

About 11:30, most of the party might have been seen lounging about the depot of the C. C & A R R, and in a short time thereafter our special train, containg all our boggage, ice, etc. was coupled on to the regular train and we were speeding on to Charlotte which point we reached without accident of any kind, about 6:20 P M, many fatigued but all highly pleased and gratified at the result of

We cannot conclude without saying that which one of the party had an ankle sprained, nothing occurred to mar the pleasure black and blue-something new in this nounced just before we reached that tree, that re- and good feeling which seemed to beam in market; black doeskin pants, of the finest nounced just before we reached that tree, that refreshments, consisting of divers and sundry each eye, and which was appreciated by every cache eye, and which eye eye, and which eye eye eye, and which eye eye eye eye eye eye. It was with real joy and measure that we grasped the hand of our friends Mai Gras ham Daves, May C.M. Steadman and Will N Holt, Esq, whom we last saw on the tented field. To our friends of the Journal and Star we have hardly words to express our gratitude for favors shown us, and should oceasion offer, we will be more than pleased to reciprocate.
