GRANT'S CHANCES FOR RENOM-INATION.

Congress has adjourned and the menetary relief which the necessities of the Southern and Western States demanded has not been extended to them. This was not the fault of the representatives of those sections. The fault lies with President Grant who vetoed the measure which was designed to give this relief. On his shoulders rests the responsibility. Congress did its duty; but Congress could not overrule a President who has all the capitalists of the United States at his back.

A currency bill was passed, and signed by the President. But it does not meet the requirements of the country. It is only a fractional part of the relief which is wanted-a pitiful crumb that the capitalists of Wall and West.
