This company was out on parade and practice yesterday afternoon. There would be few better fire companies in the State if the Yellow Jackets had a good engine but as the city has expended a good deal of maney in this way recently, it would hardly be fair to ask the Board of Aldermen to make an appropriation at present, to buy

Masquerade at Beaubrt. A correspondent of the Wilmington Journal, writing from Beaufort, speaks thus of the parts taken by several Charlotte young ladies, in a masquerade given there one night last week : "Mist C. Y., of Charlotte, gave a beautiful idealization of the sable goddess, with her black dress besparkled with silver stars; Miss F. O. of the same city shone resplenden.ly as Aurora long before old Sol had thought of decking her with his robes : Miss P.M. gave a charming personation of the Murket Girl, and Miss S Y., as Evening, both in dress and in character, attracted universal attention."

Work of a Sneak Thief. On Sunday night, Capt Ed Lewis was the victim of another raid. While he and his family were sitting out ide the door. a sneak thief entered the sitting room in which a light was burning brightly, and stole his coat. He went to the kitchen, also, and, in the absence of the cook, V at church, stole a quantity of her wearing apparel, a ribbon off a hat, (leaving the hat) and $2 in money. This is one of the boldest thefts ever perpetrated here. It is remarkable how the rascal escaped observation, as the moon was shining, and as Capt. Lewis' have just re eived a lot of the finest pine position was such as to command with his eye, all the approaches to the house.

Property Recovered, Mr E H White, whose shoe shop was robbed last Thursday night, has at last recovered all the stolen property. In a conversation with Williams yesterday, that individual told him that he had sold one pair to Ephraim Phifer, colored, and also told him where he had secreted the others. Mr White and policeman Blackwelder, (who, by the by, has been very active and watchful in this matter) went to Philer, who prompty delivered the boots. The other pair was found under Austin Lane's establishment, where Williams had hid them. The odd gaiter was found yesterday morning, down the track of the C., C. & A. Railroad. The haul of last night brings in the last of the gratulate him.

It is a great inconvenience to business men, that the post office should be closed for two hours in the middle of the day. We know that Mr. McDonald did not institute this practice; he got it from his predecessor, but this does not make the inconvenience any the less, nor is it incumbent upon him to follow a bad example. There are no tions mails going out just at this time, to claim all the attention of the force in the office, nor vesterday morning, for loud swearing on is there any binding necessity why he and his two assistants should all go to dinner at exactly the same time, leaving people to whistle for their mail, or to wait with whatever patience they can command till the two hours expire. We do not speak of this matter in any spirit of captiousness, but we feel satisfied that our complaint is a just and natural one There not a business man in the city but will say we are right, and our very obliging post master will see it for himself on a moment's reflection.

Yesterday afternoon the Yellow Jacket Fire Company wanted to get up a parade, and to this end the fire bell was rung at in tervals for half of the afternoon. The ringer would stop for an interval of perhaps half an hour, then suddenly the sharp notes of the fire alarm would ring out, causing a nervous person to jump almost out of his chair, and surely tending to greatly excite any sick person within hearing. This thing ought not to be allowed. The fire bell ought sever be rung except on the occasion of a fire. There is something terrible about its sound, and at its first stroke every one instinctively starts. There is no necessity for thus alarming the community every time a fire company concludes to parade or to hold a meeting. It is to be supposed every member knows the time for the meet ing of his company oif he does not attend it is an offence if we mistake not, punish-able with fine. Then why all this warning? If it is desirable that a special meeting be held, a few lines in the morning paper will every section of the city, will look out for these offenders and break up this dangerous practice. Those who wish to try the speed of their teams should be made to go beyond people to jump out of their shoes.

We repeat this continual ringing of the fire bell is a nuisance. In behalf of the community we protest against it, and ask that the nuisance be abated.

Compliment to a Charlotte Lady. A correspondent writing an unusually bright and interesting letter from Saratoga Springs to the New York Evening Express, pays the following high compliment to Mrs. John L.

Moreheed, of city : Moreheed, of city:

"Col. J. L. Morehead, son of ex-Gov.

Morehead of North Carolina, and his charming wife, are guests at the Congress. She is one of the most beautiful and accomplished ladies that has visited Saratoga this season."

The correspondent speaking of society and customs, at these Springs, says: and customs, at these Springs, says:

"The cold conventionalties of the smaller places finds no abiding place here, backbit ing is unknown, and each one seems to enter into a friendly race of doing good to all around them. Introductions are frequent, and the many little courtesies of life are extended with great freedom. There sits Speaker Blaine, chatting with the beantiful and lovely Mrs. Col. John L. Morehead, the belle of North Carolina; Hon. John G. Saxe is surrounded by a bevy of literary ladies; Judges Benedict and Batt are hemmed in by members of the bar; Col. Delemed in by members of the bar; Col. Del van, that prince of bachelors, is runnin tilt with Hon. Smith Ely, Jr., and W.

Chapman, all bachelors, as to who knows the most fashionable ladies here, and who has been the longest visitor at Saratoga."

Speaking at Poplar Tent. We left Charlotte on the 8:00 Northern rain Saturday morning, having been invited to meet with the citizens of Popla Tent neighborhood, in the celebration of a pic nic. At Concord we were met by Capt. S. A. Grier, in whose conveyance we were soon seated, and on our road to the historic

In due time we arrived at the Church and found a very large concourse had already assembled, variously estimated at from five to seven hundred. After the meeting of Poplar Tent Grange, the members assembled in the large brick Church for the purpose of listening to an address. Attending more as spectator than anything else, we soon realized that we were expected to be the orator of the occasion. As our pen must be silent upon what we sav and do on such occasions we will simply say we "orated," and our audience listened attentively for about an hour and a half when an invitation to dinner was extended. This was postponed somewhat by a shower of rain, which threw a damper over the "fix ens" belonging to some of the best looking feminines, we have seen lately. They accordingly adjourned to the friendly buildings near by, until the shower had passed, when the dinner was spread out and enjoyed hugely by the vast crowd present.

We thought we were a stranger to the are, indeed, as a general rule, the precurpeople of Poplar Tent, but in casting our sors of nearly all acute and dangers disoreves over the vast audience, we were pleased to see many of our oldest and best friends, and we are glad to know they are among

It was our first visit to Poplar Tent, but we hope in the coming years to know and see more of these good people. Altogether we had a most pleasant time, and we are glad to believe that everybody went home

Edinburg Review.

The Leonard Scott Publishing Company's reprint of the Edinburg Review for July is now before us, full of good reading as usual. The first article, "Ocean Warfare," gives an explanation and description, free from technicalities, of the new conditions which naval warfare will be waged, and of the various weapons with which modern fleets are Hebrew students will be much interested in the article on "The Speaker's Bible," now in course of publication in England. The general character and design of the work aug25-tf. are briefly explained; and much minute criticism is devoted to the manner in which the Hebrew text has been dealt with.

Art. III, "Nasmyth's Physicial History of the Moon," gives a description of the appearance of the surface of the moon and its probable formation, founded on many careful telescopic observations. A ball of molten liquid is the basis of Mr. Nasmyth's theory of formation; and he advances some new ideas relative to the cooling process, to explain the irregularities on its surface. The article also gives some account of the astronomers of the Greenwich Observatory and the instruments that have been invented from time to time for taking lunar observa-

Motley's "Life and Death of Barneveldt" is welcomed with a long and favorable review, the writer remarking, "we can hardly give too much appreciation to that subtle althemy of the brain which has enabled him to produce out of dull, crabbed, and often illegible papers, the vivid, graphic, and sparkling narrative which he has given to the world." The fifth article takes up Hall's "Modern English," criticising the style and temper of Mr. Hall's writings with much severity. The paper entitled "Canon of Beauty in Greek Art" will be attractive to art-students attempting, as it does, to detect and define the subtle laws of proportion which guided the great sculptors of antiquity. Other articles are, a long and favorable eview of Guiret's History of France, with numerous extracts; a very interesting account of the life of the philologer, Richard Cleasby, and his labors in Icelandic literature; and a review of the "Journal of Henry Cockburn," a continuation of the "Me-morials of his Time," by the well-known Lord Cockburn, ed, we would impress upon our readers the necessity for accurately weighing and measuring everything they sell. There is too much guess work done. Buyers are handling produce every day of the year, and they weigh and measure all they handle. They are well posted. Farmers are not. When it comes to estimate the farmers are beat. "It comes to estimate the farmers are beat. "It is naught, it is naught, saith the buyer." And farmers are too easily persuaded by his pertinacity. Besides, farmers want the money, and do not like to lose a sale. So they give way. There is no settler of disputes so stubborn as a good platform scale. A Fairbanks' scale will save many words, and much time and loss. Every barn should be provided with one, and nothing should be taken out for sale until it is weighed and plainly marked with its weight. American Agricultaralist.

It measures 1812x100 feet, is 22 feet high, has 30 bins, holding 1,500,000 bushels, and floor capacity for 250,000 bushels, making a total capacity of 1,750,000 bushels. Inviting Sickness. A belief that violent purgation is the surest remedy for every human ailment prevails to a lamentable extent among classes of the community. It might be thought that the languid, the debilitated, the depressed, would know instinctively that their systems need toning, invigorating and regu-lating with some wholesome stimulant and alterative, and that a fierce cathartic is as unsuited to their condition as a strong dose of active poison would be to a man already laboring under the effects of some deleterious drug. In all cases of physical weakness, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters should be promptly resorted to by the invalid. The operation of this inestimable vegetable restorative is three-fold. It vitalizes and reinforces the depressed nervous system, while at the same time it regulates the digestive and secretive organs, and keeps the bowels free. Debility is often the foreruner of an attack of some acute disease, and to prostrate he strength still more by scouring the bow els, with a drastic evacaunt at such a juno ture is to invite the immediate onset of the impending disorder, and render the system incapable of contending with it. On the other hand, a course if the Bitters, commenced as soon as the symptoms of general debility manifest themselves, will in nine of ten prevent the tack and thoroughly restore the bodily strength of the patient. The cases of dvspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, dysentery, diarrhosa, rheumatism and periodical fevers would be comparatively few if this unequaled invigorating and regtlating medicine were always resorted to as a cure for the bodily weakness and loss of vital energy which usually precede these complaints, and
