The Houston Case.

We publish this morning, the article from the Camden Journal, giving the evidence in the case of Trial Justice Cousart, in his connection with the escape of W. H. H. Houston, the forger. It bears its own comments on its face, and needs none from us. It will prove of interest to many of our people, and we surrender much of our local space to make room for it.

One of the most interesting features of the next Fair of the Carolinas, will be a mule race on the last day of the Fair. The race will be a mile heat, and the entrance will be free. In this connection, we may mention that letters are being received daily from owners of trotting and running horses, saying that they will be here with their stock. A South Carolina jockey writes that he will be here before long to train his horses on the race track here.

We desire to call especial attention to the card of Mr. N. C. Harry which appears elsewhere in the OBSERVER this morning. That he is skillful with the brush, all the work D. W. Charges Against Trial Justice Cousart. In our last issue it was briefly stated that W. H. H. Houston, effCharlotte, N. C., had been arrested by Trial Justice Courart, on a charge of forgery. The warrant was issued upon an affidavit made by Mr. Sidney Reading, who knew Houston well, and was led to take this step by seeing, in the "local' column of a Charlotte paper, a statement that he had committed forgeries to a large amount on several individuals and banks in the City of Charlotte, which statement was confirmed by a private letter received by Mr. Reading, Seeing Houston in Camden, and supposing that he was a fugitive, Mr. Leading was actuated by a very laudable desire to bring him to justice. A telegram was subsequently received giving instructions to hold Houston, and employ counsel. W Z Leitner, Esq., was employed to represent the prosecution, and J M Bavis, Esq., appeared as counsel for the prisoner. A preliminary investigation was held by Mr. Cousart, the time and method of which was objected to by Mr Leitner, who charged that the Trial Justice was acting with "indecent haste." The evidence adduced at this investigation, and the subsequent proceedings wifl appear from the evidence published be-

Mr Wright, who had come from Charlotte upon the intelligence of the arrest of Houston, was much disappointed when he found that he had been released, and became impressed with the conviction that improper inducements had been brought to bear upon Mr. Cousart He accordingly applied to Trial Justice Lining for warrants against Mr Cousart, charging "extortion" and "bribery,"upon which the latter was arrested. On Thursday last, the charges were investigated by Mr. Linning, for the purpose of deciding whether there was sufficient evidence against the orisoner to warrant him in sending the cases to the Circuit Court for trial. Upon the charge of "Extortion," it appeared that Mr Cousart had, after discharging Houston, compelled him to pay the "costs" of his arrest, for which he was not liable, the law providing that, upon the discharge or acquittal of a prisoner, the expenses must be borne by the County. It was proved, however, that the accused had acted upon the "advice of counsel" in demanding these costs, and that they had been paid voluntarily by Houston, when he was at liberty. The warrant for "Extortion" was, therefore, "squash-

The other charge, of "Bribery," was more serious, and was patiently investigated by Mr Lining. The following evidence was taken upon the examination :

Samuel Place sworn-As Sheriff, I arrested WALTER BREM & CO'S tehicle in which he had been conveyed to on the 14th August, 1874, one W Houston, under a warrant issued by Trial Justice Cousart, for forgery committed in North Carolina. I took the prisoner before the Trial Justice. This was about 61 o'clock, A. M. on the 14th of August. The examination was commenced about 9 A. M., of that day, before the arrival of Mr. Leitner, counsel for the prosecution. Until the arrival of Mr Leitner, no testimony for the State had been taken. The testimony for the defence had afready been taken. Mr Leitner protested against the indecent haste which had been exhibited in hurrying up the examination. Just as Mr. Leitner came in, the Trial Justice said he had repeatedly sent for Mr Biddle Institute attracted an innumerable company of them, and all day, they moved to prisoner under the evidence and the law. At this period, Mr Reading came in, and objected to the discharge of the prisoner until testimony for the State could be heard. Mr Reading's testimony was then heard. A newspaper published in Charlotte, N. C. and containing a narrative of forgeries, &c. committed by the accused in Charlotte, N. C., was produced in Court, and brought to its attention. The prisoner was discharged the same day. I do not know, of my own knowledge of any private interview had between the Trial Justice and prisoner prior to the examination. Between the time of arrest and the examination, I had left to get breakfast. Before the examination, the Trial Justice came up to me, and said, in re-lation to the prisoner, "Has he said turkey to you?" nudging me in the side as he said so. I asked him what he meant? His reply was, "he (the prisoner) has got plenty of money." I was then standing alone. This conversation was had immediately after the prisoner had taken me aside and conversed with me privately.

Cross examined for the defence—During the time I was present in the Trial Justice's office (i. c. before and after breakfast, having been absent half an hour to get breakfast,) a crowd of people througed the office. When I left to get breakfast, I left the prisoner in custody of Mr. Edward Gerald. Before entering upon the examination, I sent, under the direction of the Trial Justice, twice for Mr. Reading, the State's witness. The Trial Justice said, "if Mr. Reading comes and identifies this man, I shall hold him—if he cannot identify him, I shall have to displayed him." The testimony have to discharge him." The testimony taken for the defence before Mr Leitner's entrance, was read to Mr Leitner by the Trial Justice. Soon after the arrest, the Trial Justice suggested to Mr Reading. in my presence, the propriety of his retaining counsel for the State.

Edw Gerald sworn-On the morning the arrest, I was specially deputized to take charge of the prisoner whilst the Sheriff was at breakfast. I know that during this time after the arrest, and be ore the examina-tion—the prisoner and Trial Justice had a private or secret interview. I do not know who sought the interview, but they went off together, left the room, went into another room, from which a staircase led to the up-per story, and closed the door between my-self and them. They remained there but a was impossible to hear what passed between Sidney Reading, sworn-I made the affidavit under which Houston was arrested by Trial Justice Cousart, and was present as witness at the examination. I swore positively to the identity of the accused, as being the alleged fugitive (in question,) from justice, in N. C. The information, on which affidavit for the warrant was based, was intelligence received by letter, per express from Charlotte, in a box of grapes, and upon the statement contained in a Charlotte paper charging Houston with the crime of Forgery. This was in the "local column," and was shown to the Court. The prisoner adpapers with Forgory, &c., but denied his guilt -said it was a slander. He admitted that he had overdrawn his account in the Merchants & Farmers' Bank of Charlotte, N When the examination was half through, received a telegram from the President of the Bank, Thos H Brem, directing me to 'Hold Houston, at all events-employ Coun-

We are thus particular in giving the history of these cases, because they have excited a great deal of interest, and justice to all concerned, and to the community generally, requires that the facts should be known.

More Light Wanted.

Night before last and last night the city as thrown into almost Egyptian darkness, for the want of gas. Upon inquiry we ascertained that the only cause of this failure to supply this much needed commodity, was that some person high in authority "had blundered," in not ordering a supply of rosin in time. This is the second time within two weeks that our city has been thrown into darkness, because of mismanagement, or carelessness, to say the least. We were approached last night by one of our leading merchants, a member of a firm who pay two thousand dollars per annum, for the privileges which a well regulated gas company could afford, who seemed very indignant that the city should be thus treated. During the summer, when business was dull, there was no lack of gas and the gas bill was presented has commenced-when the gas is needed more than ever-this house, when thousands of orders are coming in, and when every nerve of every clerk, is strained to its ut most tension, to keep up with the business it is announced at dark that somebody forgot to order a few barrels of rosin, and the city finds itself in total darkness.

This ought not to be and there is some talk of getting up an indignation meeting, or of organizing another gas company This much we know, that the present company, or its controlling officers, we do not know who they are nor do we care, is totaly inefficient. The gas company is intended to be a public benefit, and it sounds rather badly to be informed at dark, that their "will be no light to-night."

Now we have no feeling on this subject except as a public journalist, we labor for the public good, and we shall not be satisfied until the gas company either attempts to supply the public demand, or "throws up the sponge," and allows some one to step into their shoes who will,

The announcement made some weeks ago that the Southern Life Insurance Company had bought the Morehead lot, and intended to erect a building upon it, is not correct.—
R. M. Miller & Sons, Merchants, are the persons who bought the lot mentioned.

We committed the same error in this matter which was committed by our neighbor, and adopt the above correction.

Leave this Morning.

We are informed that Dr. L. Von Meyerhoff has accepted the flattering offer of the Beethoven Conservatory of Music in St. Louis, Missouri, and expects to leave this morning for his new home. The Doctor is an accomplished Organist, and has filled the position in Tryon Street M. E. Church South, in this city for some time past, and has given entire satisfaction.

Falling of a Wall.

Yesterday afternoon, quite a mishap uly 25 8m. occurred to the building on Trade street, occupied by Koopman & Rothschild, as a millinery store. It is known to many of our citizens that between the store named and the furniture store of R. F. Davidson, Alexander, Seigle & Co., are making excavations short time some two or three minutes. It for building a new store. Their line runs close up with the walls of both stores, and on the Koopman side, the workmen had dug even down with the wall, to a depth considerably below the foundation. The wall is a bad one, and this, added to the wet condition of the ground, caused about one hundred bricks to drop out and fall into the excavation.

After this, an attempt was made to prop the wall, but this did no good, Milton Davis, Levi Larster, John Howell, Meredith, once Secretary of the Treasury, mitted to the Trial Justice, in my presence, that and in a short time, not less than fifty feet of the wall came tumbling down. This caused a break in the roof, and it swayed near the middle in such a manner as to cause it to rest on the joists, thereby injuring a good many goods which had been packed in the upper part of the building. Fortunately, no one was hurt by the falling wall. The accident will necessitate the rebuilding of the entire wall for the whole 107 feet length of the store, and will also render a new roof necessary. It is probable that the damage to the store can be covered by $1,000 or $1,500. What the damage to Koopmann & Rothschild is, hasnot yet been ascertained. Workmen will proceed to-day, to remove the debris, and brick-laying on the new store will be immediately resumed. - 1 470 Traff 2531 (3114 1.47

Nervous Complications.

Chronic indigestion, or dyspensia, times produces serious disturbances nervous system; but sometimes the nerves are in the first place disordered, and are the cause of chronic indigestion. In whichever of these two ways the disease may have been developed, it requires for its cure a medicine which combines the properties of a nerve tonic and an alterative, and these essential qualities are most happily united in the foremost remedy of the present age. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. To suppose that any considerable number of our people are unacquainted with the virtues of this famous vegetable stomachic and invigorant would be an insult-to American intelligence. Year after year, for half a generation, the history nervous system; but sometimes the nerves of its successes as a preventive of, and remedy for, all disorders of the spousch, liver and bowels, and as a specific for malarious fevers, nervous complaints and general debility, has been written by those whose health it has preserved or re-established, authenticated by their signatures, and published in the leading newspapers of the country. The un-questionable proofs of its superiority over every other preparation of its class, have, during that time, been constantly accumu-lating, and have formed an important part of the current medical literature of America. Statesmen, philosophers, poets, divines, judges, lawyers, actors, novelists—in short, men and women who have distinguished themselves in all honorable walks of life, and whose names are household wherever the English tongue is spoken, have voluntarily come forward and endorsed this great remedy. These statements, founded on personal experience, have naturally had great remedy. These statements, great weight with the community, and hence it is that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters now stands at the head of the proprietary medicines manufactured on this side of the Atlantic, as regards the amount of its sales and its reputation as a restorative.
