RECONCILIATION.

We have noticed with not a little pleasure accounts of the recent for mation of the society known as "the Blue and the Grey," composed of both Federal and Confederate soldiers. If we are correctly informed the association has for its objects the perpetuation of the true history of the late war, and the bridging over and healing of the dissensions which have too long estranged the people of the two sections.

We are very much pleased to know that the soldiers of the two armies, have wisely concluded to take the wind out of the sails of the politicians, and bridge over the memorable "bloody chasm," which has existed too long already. We are one country, North and South, and everything which tends to produce discord between the North and the South ought to have been discarded long since. We are Southern to the core, but our platform is broad enough, deep enough and wide enough to include the people of the whole United States, and we are satisfied that we should the dier who did his duty in the recent ined "which side will you take," we wrong my country." Yes, the people of North Carolina, are to day and beloved old State which beat in unison with the Constitution, and Constitutional laws of the Federal Government, than the whole of New England All that we ask, or have ever asked, is that the true Northern people acknowledge that we contended for our homes and firesides with sentiments of the purest patriotism, and that we do justice to the history of the soldiers enterprising merchants, made an atof both sides. It proposes that the tractive display of clothing, boots. olive branch of peace shall be held out shoes, etc. to all classes and conditions of Americans on both sides. The war hatchet is next visited. This is done by passwhich exists really only in the brain of mendacious politicians, is to be buried, and around the graves of the noble dead on both sides the calumet of peace is to be smoked, and honor done to American citizenship. All we ask, on our part, is for the world to achigh order of talent. The oil paintknowledge that we discharged our duty ings of this gentleman are also very to our country, nobly, fearlessly and fine. The crayon drawings, copies of patrictically; that we upheld the stars finely executed. and bars on our blood-stained battlefields with credit to ourselves and honor to the American name; that when our sun of hope went down on the hills of Appointtox it was furled forever.

The action of the true Southern people is in full accord with these sentiments, and we point with pride to the laws enacted by Southern Legislatures, for our dimobantion and sindiff elaborate analysis of character as are cation. There is no spirit among our some of Brougham's sketches, nor is people to barbor any ill against any man who fought on the Federal side, if he did it from principle and a conviction of right, and we are equally elaborate compositions. He hastily sure that there is no disposition to interfere with the rights and privileges prominent characteristics, and closes of the colored people, the assertion of political hypocrites to the contrary services of the ungainly, distinguished not withstanding. This being the case, there is no good reason why the hand of good fellowship may not be extended, and the era inaugurated when Vance's article and thank him with a there shall be indeed and in truth "no full heart. It gives pleasure to all North, no South, no East, and no

No. 5 of Gov. Vance's "North Carolina Skeiches."

One of the noblest tributes to a dead Carolinian we remember to have seen is the paper in the Norfolk Landmark on ex-Gov. David L. Swain, the late honored President of the University of North Carolina. It is not an it so eloquent and splendid in diction as the biographical papers of Lamar-tine. The purpose of Vance's sketches is different from that of these more groups a few of the great educator's his notice with a fitting and beautiful eulogium on the worth, talents and Towels, Napkins, and Table Diapers, are services of the ungainly, distinguished offered at extremely low prices. son of Carolina. The friends of the University, especially the students who were there in Gov. Swain's prime, will rise in their seats when they read North Carolinians.
