According to the Goldboro Messenger, a woman that will be linked with infamy while an honest man can be named in the Southern States.

Every man that has heard of the barbarities of Kirk should be at the pains. It recalls to his memory the memorable spectacle of a man bound in chains and repeating words of blasphemy and justice an exile from his people.

On the occasion referred to a gentleman most respectfully dressed and evidently of superior culture and refinement was sitting in front of Dr. Black's hotel, when Hester came up and without a word of provocation poured upon this man such a torrent of oaths and vulgar bilgeesque as only a man of the lowest order and vilest disposition could commit.

Having finished his infamous career in North Carolina, this scourge of humanity turns up in Alabama in the role of paid spy, pimp and detective, what he played in this State. The victims of his unparalleled rascality in that State are already numbered in scores.

One of the Alabama Arrests. Joseph B. Cottrell, pastor of the Methodist church, at Owensburg, Ky., writes to the editor of the Journal the following, and there can be little doubt that the instances mentioned are samples of many others.
