CITY BULLETIN.

We couldn't pick up an item at the Court House yesterday.

The weather is remarkably warm for the season of the year.

Mr. J. S. M. Davidson, is making some desirable changes in the location of his office, in the back part of his store-verily, we are putting on city airs.

We have been invited to speak to the grangers of North Rowan, next Thursday, but the press of office duties, we fear, will forbid our being present.

The track of the CORW was laid to the depot at this place last Wednesday evening. We understand the passenger train will commence running here this (Monday) eveni ng.-Monroe Enquirer.

Mammoth Potato. We have said so much about potatoes lately, that we are almost afraid to speak of them now, and wouldn't, but for the fact that on yesterday, Mr. James Manning rolled one up our back steps, into our office, which weighed eighty three ounces.

Carolina Military Intellitute.

If the weather be favorable, the senior cadets of this Institute, to the number of about ninety, will leave to-day for the South Carolina State Batr, at Columbia. They will be accompanied by Col. Thomas, and Lieutenants Lynes and Cain. Lieutenant Hutson will remain in charge of the remaining cadets. The command will return to-morrow.

The fair is over and gone, but it has left us an unknown quantity of burglars, who, eversince, have been on the rampage. We are informed that the residence of Mr. R. A. Freeland, has been infested for the past two or three nights, by persons who attempt to force an entrance from the inside. As Mr. F. spends a good part of his time o'nights, standing on the inside of the door, armed with a double barrelled shot-gun, each barrel loaded with eighteen buck-shot, it would be a good thing for them to get in one time-They would be well satisfied with the re-sult; that is, if lead could satisfy them.

Mayor's Court.

His Honor is in the pabit of putting offenders against the passe and digni-ty of the State in durance vile, but on yesterday the tables were completely turned. A letter was received early the next morning, from Concord giving the description of a named Edward Dresdell, who was supposed to have stolen some clothing in that place. He was soon identified by the police here, and was forthwith arrested and brought before his Honor to answer the charge. The charge not being satisfactorily answered, and considering his chances of getting away from our disciple of jus- inst., the following order was adopted, and tice as decidedly slim, he concluded to the Secretary was requested to have the try leg bail. Ephaim Potts was also arrested, charged with having stolen a saddle, bridle, &c., from J. W. Wedeworth. The theft was proven beyond peradventure, and Ephraim, who in this instance had been joined to his idols, was sent to jail, and in the silent meditations of his heart, now considers the uncertainty of things human, and the full force, virtue and effect of the John Dowd and Robert French, two yong gentlemen of leisure, who came to the Fair last week to see the fun and the sights, not to mention what they expected to gain by three card monte; after having boarded with Mr. Lockhart for some days, concluded to quit the classic confines of the city, forgetting in their absent-mindedness to remember the kindness and hospitality of their landlord. Mr. Lockhart used the mild persuasion of the law and the youngsters were brought before his Honor to answer the charge of "obtaining board under false pretenses," which, being investigated. proved, alas! too true. They considered "discretion the better part of valor, shelled out the required amount of "pledges of the nation," and went their way rejoicing.

Personal.

We had a call yesterday from Ben. L. Dutton, editor of Phunn & Phacks, and regular correspondent of the [Georgia Commonwealth, both of which papers are published in Atlanta, Ga. He visits our city in the interest of both papers, and is much pleased with our thriving little city.

Mr. Stokes, editor of the Union (S. C.)

Times, who is a veteran in the cause, honored our sanctum yesterday, by calling to see if we were at home. We were. When we come to learn all about brevier "space rules," we will have more time to talk, but in the mean time, we will always be glad to see him.

grounds, with his hat in one hand, and ges-turing wildly with the other, and the dust flew from his heels like a wild horse at large. A crowd followed him, and trotting after the crowd, was a woman with a baby in her arms. I pursued the party and finally they came to a halt. I asked the man the mat-He said a man had stolen fifty dollars from him, and he just wanted to lay his eyes on him one time more; that he had dready sent after a policeman. The crowd wanted to know how it was stolen, and, said he, "Gentlemen, I don't gamble, I never gambled in my life; I had a good chance visterday to win a bet on a horse, but I would not do it bekase I'm a member of the church of 17 years standin'; but you see that fellow had three cards, and an 'old man' on one of 'em, (I seed the old man as plain as I see you,) and I seed whar he put it, and he said I could make fifty dollars by showing him that card, and I borrowed the money from my brother, and put it up, and I turned that card, I knowed it was the 'old man, but thar want no 'old man' on it," 'The crowd told him there was no chance for him to recover that money, and one of his neighbors, who had just been buying 'paddles' at the wheel, winked his eye at him, and asked him if he didn't have no better sense than to bet on another man's trick. His wife crowded in, holding the baby, and pinching him by the button-hole, she poked her fingers in his face and exclaimed, sorter
