CITY BULLETIN.
And now comethill December.
Only twenty-five days until Christmas. Just think of it!
There will be a literary meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, at the Association Room, to-night, at 7 o'clock.
The Mayor had only one case yesterday; that of a negro for being drunk and disorderly. The exercise of these privileges of this free American citizen, cost him $4.
Sunday morning between midnight and daybreak, the skies cleared up, and by daybreak this morning was bright and cold. The weather has remained so since, and we have now a taste of genuine winter.
Many of the friends of Mr. John G. Young, were present last evening at his reception, in accordance with invitation, to congratulate him and his bride upon their recent union.
Beautiful pictures of the ladies connected with the Holman and Berger troupes, hang in the hotels and in some of the store windows, and make every fellow's eyes dance and make him swear that he is going to both shows. Now ain't they sweet?
Runaway.
On Sunday afternoon, while Mr. M. Koppel and a young lady, were out for a buggy ride, the horses became frightened and ran away. Mr. Koppel and the lady were both thrown out, but neither was hurt. The buggy was smashed up considerably.
The Knight Templars.
Among the Knight Templars who passed through this city Sunday morning, was an English nobleman. He received special honors from the others of the party, and at supper here was given a choice seat and special attention.
Four more Knights passed through yesterday, on their way to the place of convocation.
Rev. P. J. Carraway.
The popular and much beloved pastor of Tryon St. Church, left his family on last evening's train. He goes to Raleigh to attend the annual session of the N. C. Conference. His ministry has been very successful during the past year, and he leaves us carrying with him the best wishes of all our people; his many friends hope that he will be returned to us another year.

Bad Conduct in Church.
A lady correspondent calls attention, in a communication in another column, to the bad behavior to be seen in some of the churches of the city. The complaint is a just one. Not to speak of the sin, the ill-manners of whispering and laughing in church, is very great; and persons who go there to scoff, have no right to outrage the feelings of those who go there from different motives. "A word to the wise," &c.
Married Since the Last Trip.
Some of our young men will be sorry to learn that Miss Etta Berger has been married since the city was through here last winter. She cast her lot with a young man resident in Jackson, Mich., who has a blonde moustache, half a million dollars, and a block of brick buildings in Jackson. Miss Etta is with the troupe this season, but it will be her last trip with it. These facts are told us by Mr. Fowler, the business manager.
The Berger Family.
This favorite company will perform in the Charlotte Opera House next Monday and Tuesday evenings, the 7th and 8th inst. Great additions have been made since it was here before, and the troupe is now better than it ever was. Many persons will regret that Sol. Smith Russell is not along, but his place is filled by Messrs. Legrand and McKee, the latter of whom is said to be the best comic vocalist in the United States. We look forward with interest to the coming of the Bergers.
St. Andrew's Day.
Yesterday, Nov. 30th, was St. Andrew's Day, a day sacred in the eyes of every Scotchman, and one which they think themselves called upon to observe in some manner, wherever they are gathered together in any number. Our Scotch fellow-townsmen are no exception to the rule, and yesterday afternoon, a little note, reading as follows, was handed us: "The Scotchmen resident in Charlotte, will be glad to have the presence of 'our local' at their little affair to-night at 8 o'clock, at the rooms of Mr. Phillip, over the store of R. M. Miller & Sons."
We feel complimented, and very much regret our inability, caused by a pressure of business, to be with our friends last evening. We assure them that there is no party of gentlemen in the city with whom "our local" would be happier to meet on such an occasion, and that we were not able to do so, is no fault of ours.

Man Killed.
On Sunday morning, a white man whose name we have been unable to learn, was killed by the Southern bound mail train on the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad, near Lewis' Turn Out. The man was drunk and was sitting or lying on the track. The engineer saw him, but was too close, when he first discovered him, to stop in time to avoid killing him. The engine and perhaps one or two cars ran over the unfortunate man, killing him instantly. His remains were put on the train the same evening, and brought to Rock Hill.
Court Yesterday.
The whole time of the Superior Court yesterday was engrossed with the civil docket, the trial of State cases having been temporarily stopped. The forenoon was consumed in calling over the civil docket, and after dinner, the case of McConnell vs. Caldwell, was taken up. This is an old bill in equity for title to land, and was begun in 1863, by the late Judge Boyden and S. Lowe. Messrs. W. H. Bailey and Jones & Johnston, appear for the plaintiff, and Messrs. Wilson & Son and C. Dowd for the defendant. By night, the plaintiff had concluded his testimony, and this morning, the defence will take it.
All the cases on the civil docket beyond 130, were continued.

A Great and Growing Evil.
Mr. Editor:—I desire to say a few words in reference to an evil that is assuming serious dimensions among us, viz: levity in our houses of worship. It is painful to witness the want of reverence among a portion of our church-going people. It disturbs and annoys those who truly desire to profit by what they hear; it shocks the feelings of the devout worshipper; it is dishonoring the Preached Word; it is an insult to Him who said regarding it: "He that heareth you heareth me." I plead for reverence in the house of God. "Be more ready to hear than to give the sacrifice of fools, for they consider not that they do evil."

The Carolina Central.
It begins to look now, sure enough, as if this road was about through. Up to last Saturday noon the gap was only eight miles wide, and track laying goes on at the rate of three-quarters of a mile per day. The only thing which can now delay the progress of the work, is the trestle at McAlpine's Creek. This is not yet finished, and it may be that this will throw the arrival of the first train in Charlotte, behind the 15th. though it is strongly hoped that it will not. In this connection we desire to give our hearty endorsement to all that is said by our contemporary, the Wilmington Journal, (in an article which we publish this morning,) in regard to the remarkable vigor and energy with which this work has been prosecuted.
The Case of Wm. Capps.
Came before Judge Schenk yesterday, on the question whether he would or would not mitigate the sentence of three years in the Penitentiary, for larceny, given him by Judge Logan at the last term of Court. Strong appeals were made for Capps by his counsel, his ill health being strongly urged upon the consideration of His Honor. Judge Schenk would not grant the commutation, as asked for, but re-sentenced the prisoner to three years, giving him credit, however, for the six months which he has already served in jail here, since the Spring term of Court, and thus reduced the time which he will have to stay in the Penitentiary, to two years and six months. It is the sense of the community that this sentence is just, and that such a man as a prisoner, should not be turned loose upon the community.
Personal.
The members of the bar already present, were reinforced yesterday by the arrival of W. H. Bailey, Esq., of Salisbury.
R. M. Stokes, Esq., of the Union (S. C.) Times, passed through the city on Sunday, on his way home from the North.
Gen. H. Haupt, agent for the Receiver of the Air-Line Railroad in North and South Carolina, and Capt. W. H. Green, Master of Transportation of the North Carolina Railroad, were at the Central Hotel on Sunday.
Dr. J. P. Latimer, the removed and then reinstated County Treasurer, of Greenville County, S. C., was in the city on Sunday.
Gen. James Connor, of Charleston, S. C., arrived in Charlotte last evening, and is the guest of Robt. I. McDowell, Esq.
Sam'l A. Echols, Esq., formerly one of the editors of the Atlanta Sun, (Alex. H. Stephens' paper), registered last evening at the Central.
Lies Sprunt, Esq., British Vice Consul resident at Wilmington, was in Charlotte yesterday.

Amusements.
Charlotte has already had more and better public amusements this season than she has had before, and the end is not yet. To-morrow night we have the Holmans; the ball is engaged the next night by a company of jugglers from New York; next Monday and Tuesday nights the Bergers, and last evening Messrs. Sanders & Carson received a letter from Harry Watkins, in which he wrote to engage the Opera House for the evenings of the 18th, 19th and 20th of January for a company which wanted to come then, though that company he did not state.
The Holmans.
To-morrow evening our people will have the opportunity of enjoying the performances of a really good opera company. That the Holman British Opera Troupe is such, we have no kind of doubt. It is spoken of in terms of high praise by all who have seen it, and the route which it takes, and the length of time which it plays in the large cities, is a sufficient testimonial to its character. We hope the citizens of Charlotte will turn out and give the Holmans a good house.

Proposition to Lease.
At the recent meeting of the stockholders of the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad, held in Columbia on the 20th inst., a proposition was submitted from the South Carolina Railroad, to lease the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad for a term of years. A committee was appointed to consider the proposal, and to report the best terms they could make. It is understood that the Southern stockholders of the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad are favorably disposed to the lease. The proposition to it comes from the Southern Security Company, who own a large proportion of the stock.
W. H. H. Gregory, Broker.
W. H. H. Gregory, Esq., has established a brokerage in this city, which is likely to grow into a large business, and to prove a big thing. Mr. Gregory returned Sunday morning from New York City, and had displayed on the counters in his office yesterday, samples of 1,600 sacks of coffee, besides samples of sugars, molasses and syrups. By means of this office, our merchants, and those from neighboring places, can buy any of these groceries at New York or Baltimore prices, and obtain the benefit of the price of gold, in New York on the day when the purchase is made here. Purchases have already been made by many of the Charlotte merchants, from Mr. Gregory, and nearly, if not quite all of them, will perhaps supply themselves regularly from his stock hereafter, as they can buy just as cheaply; and besides have the goods right at hand whenever needed, without having to wait until an order can go to New York, be filled, and return.
Joseph D. Elliott.
We have information from Statesville yesterday morning, that this ill-starred youth was to have left Statesville yesterday afternoon to take up his abode in the Penitentiary for five years. He was brought down from Wilkesboro Saturday, arriving in Statesville after dark. The verdict and sentence, we hear, were a great shock to him, for he has cherished the confident hope, ever since the homicide of a wealthy and honorable acquaintance whenever the case came to trial and all the facts were brought out. His is one of the saddest cases of which we ever knew. A youth, a mere boy, one of splendid character and standing in the community where he lived, handsome of pleasing address, open-hearted and open-handed, the centre of a large circle of friends and the hope, the idol of a father and a mother's heart, driven to desperation in one moment commits a deed which confines him for five years to the association of a villainous herd, and casts a stain upon his good name, and a shadow over his life, which time can never efface. And who doubts what his future will be, when he emerges, if he ever does from the walls of that prison? Considered in the light of Jo Elliott's character, his youth, and the causes which he had for the commission of the crime, his fate is to be deeply deplored.
State Agricultural Journal.
The last issue of this paper contains the salutatory of our friend, Johnstone Jones, Esq., as editor in chief. The readers of the Journal have cause to congratulate themselves upon this accession. Mr. Jones is possessed of marked ability as a writer for one so young, and has already made his mark in this State and South Carolina as a newspaper editor. We make the following extract from his salutatory:
"With this issue of the State Agricultural Journal, I assume its entire and exclusive editorial management and responsibility, with the valuable assistance of certain associate editors, whose names will be duly announced. Possessing no interest in the ownership of this paper, I have nothing to do with its business management—except during the absence of the Proprietor, when I will exercise a general supervision and control over it."
During the time of my control of this journal, I shall place it on a high and an attitude of perfect independence of all cliques, rings, and combinations formed for what I may consider an improper or evil purpose. The Patron of Husbandry is a combination of men; so is the government we live under; so also are the Church organizations, Temperance orders, and also the various benevolent societies and fraternities that contribute to the benefit of mankind—morally, religiously, socially, or materially. Like all other institutions founded upon the eternal principles of Right, I perceive in the institution known as the Patrons of Husbandry, good and not evil. It shall therefore receive my earnest support—as long as it continues in well-doing."
"Our Great Fair and Railway."
Under this head, the Wilmington Journal of the 28th, has the following article: "We are in receipt of the most gratifying information in reference to our approaching Fair."
Our own chief of the lowlands, the gallant Waddell, and that noble chief of the highlands, Gov. Vance, will deliver addresses during the Fair.
The celebration of the opening of the Carolina Central Railway is likely to be a most important feature of the Fair.
Waddell to represent the East, and Vance the West! The seaboard and the mountains in council for the interest of the State!
The occasion of the completion of a great line of railway, running 240 miles due west, from the seashore to the mountains, is an event that every son of the Old North State should rejoice over. And to this we add the pressing intelligence that this great line is to cross the mountains, not in the dim and misty future, but now. Scarcely do we hear of the closing of the gap between Wilmington and Charlotte before rumors are rife that orders are about to be given to push the head of the column across the mountains both by Asheville and Cranberry.
Surely the Carolina Central has live owners and live managers. What other great work of internal improvement has been able to continue its onward progress during the financial pressure of the past year? Few of our readers know or have the slightest conception of the difficulties that have been overcome, and the great amount of labor that has been done in bringing through the rocky ridges in Anson and Stokes, to make this railway track. Go over the hills; reach to Monroe, and see the almost continuous rock cuts from Boggan's to Monroe, and from Monroe half way to Charlotte, and you will be surprised at the amount of work done.

But we only began to speak of the Fair and the opening of the Railway. The people from all parts of the State are interested and invited!
[FOR THE DAILY OBSERVER.]
Young Men's Christian Association.
This institution is designed for the benefit of the young men of Charlotte and vicinity. It is comprehensive in its offers, being designed to give its advantages to any who may come. The expense is a trifle—25 cents a quarter. What we need in this fast age is union—something that will serve as a bond to unite us together. We need to lay our heads and hearts together. We need to talk over our trials, our temptations; to fight the enemy in ranks. An association would bring the young men of Charlotte together, make them acquainted, discover many wants of ourselves and of those around us, devise plans to aid the needy, relieve the suffering, and feed the hungry soul. Young men, are there no disquieting ones in your knowledge, whom you know not how to relieve? State their case to an association of young men, as we trust ours will be, and if nothing more is done by you, there has been much done. O, let us unite together as young men of the same community, animated with the same hopes, surrounded with the same temptations, deserving the same good, and destined to the same great end.
Again, this association will afford a pleasant asylum for young men who leave the restraints of home, and plunge into the great tide of business. They board at a hotel or a restaurant, or it may be in a crowded private house. In none of these places do they meet the cordiality with which they have been accustomed, and hence they seek for pleasure in the saloon, the billiard room, or house of bad repute. Young men, a little more congeniality among ourselves, a more extended acquaintance with our brother's wants, a warmth of feeling, a cordial greeting, would do much toward strengthening our own moral natures, saving our brother's reputation, and perhaps his soul. "Am I my brother's keeper?" W. M. HICSTER.
The Carolina Military Institute.
We learn that the Cadets of this Institute, having subscribed a sufficient amount to purchase instruments for a Military Band, composed of members of the corps, the instruments were received at the garrison on Saturday. They are, we understand, the celebrated Dodworth German Silver Rotary instruments, Bell back style; are of exquisite finish and reflect great credit upon the manufacturers. Mr. Frank Andrews, well known to our citizens as the second cornet performer of the State, has been engaged to instruct the members of the Band.
The unexceptionable success which had attended this young Institute has more than once attracted the attention of those interested in the education of the youth of our land. This success was not, however, achieved without difficulties. Our citizens will remember that it was started in the midst of our late financial struggle. The hostility of the State Government to the enterprise was openly expressed, and the refusal of arms to the Institute was emphatic. Feeling assured, however, of the nobility of his calling, the Superintendent's zeal never lessened. The feeling of hostility, once that of the State Government, has given place to a just and sensible pride, the testimony of which has furnished the Carolina Military Institute with the lightest, neatest and most approved arms now manufactured.
In allowing the organization of a Brass Band among the Cadets, it is the general opinion, in fact we have heard no exception taken, that Col. Thomas has done a good thing. We mean the introduction of music as one of the aids to the refinement of taste, and to general knowledge.
It is with pleasure that we hail the Cadet Silver Cornet Band of the Carolina Military Institute. "May it live long and prosper," and may its alma mater never die.

Meeting of the Bar.
We understand that a meeting of the lawyers in attendance upon this Court, was held last evening at the Court House, to devise some means if found practicable, to expedite the large business which has accumulated upon the docket, and to save the county the heavy expense of special terms and to secure a more prompt and speedy trial of prisoners confined in jail. The plan adopted will be submitted to the County Commissioners, and to the Grand Jury, and if found to meet the approbation of the taxpayers of the county, and if it appears to be satisfactory to them, a bill will be introduced into the Legislature to secure the necessary changes in the law.
In the opinion of those present, a plan can be devised to obviate the inconvenience experienced by suitors and witnesses in their attendance upon the Court, without any additional expense to the county.
A clergyman's cat at West Springfield, Mass., has shown most remarkable symptoms of natural depravity.—After giving birth to seven kittens, recently of various colors, she removed the two blackest from the group and utterly refused to take any notice of them. No sooner were they restored to the nest than she again and again rejected them, and death finally relieved the little waifs. And this, in defiance of the fifteenth amendment, which declares there shall be no distinction on account of color. No other than a Massachusetts cat would have dared to do this to the majesty of the law.
It is said that the youngest member of the next Congress will be John D. White, from the Ninth District of Kentucky, who has just entered upon his twenty-sixth year. His grandfather, Judge John White, served for ten years in the House of Representatives, and was its Speaker during the Twenty-fourth Congress. Unfortunately the young gentleman is a Republican, and the only one chosen from Kentucky.

The following is an optical illusion, which is none the less interesting, for being very easily explained: Let a person standing before a looking-glass look attentively at the reflection of the pupil of one of his eyes, and then at that of the other; let him look at different parts of the eye, and at the same eye to the other; first, one and then the other. Knowing that thus, in changing the direction of his gaze, his eyes must move about in their sockets, he will expect to see that they do so in the glass. As a fact they will appear perfectly still. If he looks at the eyes of another person, trying the same experiment, the peculiar steadiness of his own will still be more striking when he looks at them again.
