LOCAL DOTS.

Now for those ferry boats. The heavens were as clear, last night, as crystal. What next?

The usual salutation now: "What's the matter, you look sick?" The invariable response: "Oh, I've er dab bad gold."

Rev. E. H. Harding will deliver a lecture in the Court House, Monday night, at half past seven o'clock, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

The attention of liquor dealers is called to the fact that their licenses must be renewed on the 1st of February. The license tax is, as heretofore, $150 for retail, $120 for wholesale.

A man was going about yesterday, displaying twenty-five white mice, which ran all over his person. The man had only one arm, and was asking alms.

The tickets of invitation to the "Mardi Gras Bal Masque," were sent out yesterday. That will be a gala occasion for the young people of our city, who are already discussing what kinds of costumes they shall wear.

It will interest a good many of our people to know that, on last Monday night, Rose and Harry Watkins played "Trodden Down," at Niblo's Garden Theatre, in New York City.

A rural maiden, in reply to the question from a representative of a Charlotte house, who essayed to play the "agreeable," said, "well, she didn't know 'zactly what people she belonged to, but knewed that she was a cross between the Dutch, the Irish and ole Ferginny."

The Chester Excursion.

The Chester Reporter, of the 28th, contains a long report of the anniversary celebration of the Stonewall Fire Company of that place, an account of the crowd, and a report of the sayings and doings of the evening. We feel ashamed of our imperfect report of the occasion, in reading the spicy one of our neighbor, of the Reporter. It is rich indeed, a vein of genuine humor running all through it. The report is in keeping with the speech of Mr. Buchanan, on the evening of the banquet, which was ridiculous until the crowd fairly roared with laughter and applause.

No Humbug.

We again call attention to the advertisement of Col. Wm. R. Griffith, general agent of Thos. Branch & Co., importers and dealers in Cat Island Guano. All the newspaper men in the State will swear by Col. Griffith, and whatever he tells may be relied on. An agency has been established at W. F. Cook's Agricultural Works, Trade street. This company own the Island from which this superior article of Guano comes. This Guano is the pure article and there is no humbug about it as there is about some brands of fertilizers.

Telegraph Completed.

The electric wire which workmen have for some time been employed in stretching between this city and Charlotte, we are glad to say, is at last completed. The first message was sent at 7:15 last evening, and Wilmington and Charlotte are now clasped by another link that will increase their mutual interests and facilitate their future intercourse. Thus little by little the band of union strengthens. The railroad is completed and the telegraph wire is completed, and were it possible to run a steamboat between our city and the "future London" we should favor it at once. The Eastern and Western portions of the State, once so distant, are now brought almost as close together as next-door neighbors, with only a division wall to separate them. So far so good say we. "Westward the star of empire takes its way."—Wilmington Star, of Thursday.

Blackwood's Magazine.

For January, 1875, republished The Leonard Publishing Co., is now ready: The following is the table of contents:
I. "Gianetto."
II. "Idas an Extravaganza."
III. "Alice Lorraine," Part X.
IV. "The Abode of Snow."
V. "The Story of Valentine and his Brother," Part XIII.
VI. "The Life of the Prince Consort."
VII. "The Great Problem: Can it be Solved?"
The new story which begins the first volume of the new year is told in a very quiet style by an Englishman, who spent a winter at Nice with an invalid daughter, during which time he met with Gianetto, an Italian fisherman. The interest is aroused and kept active by the mystery attached to this man, who suddenly received the power of speech and song when over twenty years of age, although he was dumb. The story is to be continued.
"Idas: an Extravaganza," is an attempt to exhibit the tendencies of materialistic theories in their extreme issues.
"The Abode of Snow" begins with an account of the "thula," or bridges made of ropes of twisted birch twigs, which are neither safe nor pleasant to cross, but the greater part of the article is devoted to a description of the customs of the Thibetians, and especially the workings of polyandry.
A very entertaining article is the review of the first volume of Mr. Martin's "Life of the Prince Consort"—a book which "cannot fail to increase the admiration and reverence of the nation for the great and dutiful soul who lived a life obscured by its very greatness, in the midst of us, and who only now can be fully known."
G. B. Gleig—Chaplain-General—gives his views on the subject of religious belief in the paper entitled, "The Great Problem: Can it be Solved?" which the author says is written "exclusively for those in whom, unfortunately for themselves, the principle of faith has been shaken."

The periodicals republished by The Leonard Scott Publishing Co. (41 Barclay Street, N. Y.) are as follows: The London Quarterly, Edinburgh, Westminster, and British Quarterly, Review, and Blackwood's Magazine. Price $1 a year for any one, or only $15 for all, and the Postage is prepaid by the Publishers.

Killed on the Railroad.

The Rock Hill Orange tells about a tramp printer by the name of Smith having been killed some nights ago on the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad, two miles from Chester. The man was in Charlotte only a day or two before the fatal occurrence, in quest of work. He left here on the train, and nothing was heard of him until information came of his death. He went from here to Chester, and then started to walk to Rock Hill, when he was caught in a curve by the train and instantly killed. Deceased was a native of Canada. He was supposed to have been in a state of intoxication when he was killed.

The Prevailing Dullness.

All those of the city, who were once regarded as out-breaking sinners, seem to have turned from the error of their ways. Leastwise, there is next to nothing, now, for the police to do, and the Mayor's Court, as a place to pick up an item, has become an ignominious fraud. These things will not, however, always remain so; we cherish an abiding faith that the very next time there will be a return to the good old times when there will be the usual quota of fights, when wielding the knife and the shillalah and flinging the flat-iron will be in order, and when a reporter can realize that this world yet contains some pleasures, even for him.

Highway Robbery.

We have heard of a robbery which was perpetrated some days ago, on the road between Shelby and Rutherford, upon a young man named McFarland, a son of the Sheriff of Rutherford county. He was riding along, when a man stepped from the side of the road, and drawing a pistol upon him, demanded his money. The young man told him he had no money, when the robber told him he knew he was lying, and made a second demand on him, accompanied by a threat to kill him if the money was not produced. Thus hard pressed, McFarland gave up $3 and a fraction over, all that he had. The highwayman put this in his pocket, and with the remark that "he was not the man he was looking for," told him he could pass on.

We understand that a young merchant of one of the Western towns, had expected to pass over that road on that day, with a considerable sum of money on his person. It is likely that the robber had heard this report, and mistook his man.

The Centennial Mass Meeting.

The Committee appointed to arrange for the mass meeting to be held in this city on the 4th prox., in the interest of the Centennial Celebration on the 20th May, 1875, are in constant receipt of letters of encouragement and promises of co-operation. We publish below two letters of this character, and shall, from time to time, publish others as we can find room for them:
FAVETTEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 22, 1875.

DEAR SIR:—

I have your card of the 19th, and thank you for the honor of being named as one of the Vice-Presidents of a mass meeting to be held on the 4th February next, for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements for celebrating the Centennial Anniversary of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. Like all other good North Carolinians, I feel a pride in the day you name, and approve with zeal and enthusiasm the proposed celebration on the 20th May, 1875. I will, if possible, be present at your meeting on the 4th February, and contribute what I can, to make the 20th May 1875, what it should be, and I have no doubt will be, to all North Carolinians at least, a day more honored than any other day of the year. I have the honor to be, Gentlemen, Your friend and ob't servant,
ARCH'D MCLEAN.

TO MESSRS. C. DOWN, J. E. BROWN, J. P. ALEXANDER, R. L. DRAKE, R. D. GRAY, E. O. GRUBB, R. F. DAVISON, W. H. NEAL, F. A. MCNICHR, W. E. ANDREY, J. M. STROOK, Committee of Arrangements.

WADSWORTH, N. C., Jan. 23rd, 1875.

GENTLEMEN:—
You can count on me in trying to get up a glorious time in Charlotte.
Yours,

The Lecture Last Evening.

Pursuant to previous announcement, Rev. Dr. E. J. Maynard, lectured last evening at the Carolina Military Institute. Quite a considerable crowd was out to hear him, the lower part of the lecture hall having been nearly filled. The subject of Dr. Maynard's lecture was the life, character, genius and literary achievements of the late Wm. Gilmore Simms, LL. D. He paid a glowing tribute, couched in fervid and eloquent language, to the private worth, genial and kind nature, amiable and affectionate disposition, courtly manners and chivalric sense of honor, untiring industry, unconquerable perseverance, stern fortitude, and varied and elegant acquirements of this distinguished South Carolinian.

The speaker's business, however, was not to dwell upon the private life and virtues of Dr. Simms, but to discuss and portray his literary career and merits as a writer, for his success and achievements in the Republic of Letters rest his splendid reputation and title to fame. He depicted his labors in the various departments of Criticism, History, Poetry and Novel Writing, and showed by forcible example and illustration that he had attained honorable and meritorious distinction in each and all of these fields of literary effort. He quoted one or two of his poetical gems to prove that he was a favored child of the Muses, and that he had clambered up the rugged slopes and scaled the dizzy summit of Parnassus.

Dr. Maynard's lecture was quite an eloquent production, sparkling and scintillating with appropriate metaphors, abounding with beautiful imagery, and delivered with the grace of the rhetorician and orator.

He alluded, before concluding, to Mr. Simms' visit to Charlotte, not a great while before his death, and to the fact that, on the occasion of that visit, he lectured from the very spot whereon he is speaking; then stood, "He knew the great poetical well and intimately and, as he was his friend in life, is his faithful and zealous pioneer friend after death."

Dr. Maynard was introduced by Col. Thomas, whom he took occasion to compliment at the conclusion of his speech, as well as to wish great success. We should not neglect to say that the new "Cadet Cornet Band," opened and concluded the evening's exercises with music.

Train Delayed.

The Northern bound mail train on the Air Line, was about eight hours behind time yesterday; it did not arrive here until 4:30 yesterday afternoon. A freight train ran off the track, on Thursday, at near Gaffney's, and blocked the track. The mail arrived there at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, but was forced to stay until yesterday afternoon. The accident to the freight bruised the conductor, Capt. Patterson, in a right painful manner, and injured one of the train hands, it is thought fatally.

NEW GAS COMPANY.

MR. EDITOR: I am authorized by letter to announce to the citizens of Charlotte, that the New Gas Company will commence at an early day, to lay down street mains, and will prosecute the work with rapidity after commencement.

It is not proposed to ask our citizens to take stock or give pecuniary aid in establishing these works. After they are established and tested, and the value of the stock as an investment is known, will be as soon as the Company will offer stock for sale.

In reply to communication of "Stockholder," in your Thursday morning's paper, we are content to take our chances for customers on the basis of the "best goods" of the "least money." I quote the exact language of the Company to me.

F. S. DEWOLFE.

Second Presbyterian Church.

To the Editor of the Charlotte Observer.

Sir: Will you permit me to offer a few words in answer to your cheering remarks upon the completion of the Second Presbyterian Church? The Observer, the other day, said the building required pencilling and a few touches before the congregation would worship therein. Now, it is very well to look at the bright side of everything; but the members of the church, and all taking an interest in the work, must not shut their eyes to the fact that a very great deal remains to be done. The brickwork is completed, the heavy part of the carpenter's work is covered; but before the building will be ready for services, the plastering, and seats for 1,000 persons, painting and decorating, furnace and pipes, glass, stucco to front, steps, and pulpit, &c., &c., have to be executed, at a cost of about $5,000. Further, it will require three months time to perform this work, provided there are no delays. This building ought to be ready in May, so that the congregation will not have to suffer agony in that classical edifice known as the Court House, when the thermometer is at 90.

I offer these remarks to correct an erroneous impression in the city, in regard to the Church, and at the same time, give a little encouragement to the workers in this cause. Yours respectfully,
GEO. WELCH,
Architect.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

This new order now numbers some twenty lodges in the State. They have had a refreshing session of three days past in this city. The following is a list of officers for the ensuing year:
Grand Chancellor—W. M. Simpson, Centre Lodge, No. 3, Raleigh.
Grand Vice Chancellor—Edw. Kerr, Clinton Lodge, No. 14, Clinton.
Grand Preceptor—W. F. Campbell, Cumberland Lodge, No. 5, Fayetteville.
Grand Broker—Thomas Powers, Athletia Lodge, No. 8, Newbern.
Grand K. of R. and S.—Jno. L. Dudley, Stonewall Lodge, No. 1, Wilmington.
Grand M. at A.—L. B. Blow, Woodson Lodge, No. 16, Wilson.
Grand I. G.—B. Briggs, Centennia Lodge, No. 12, Wilson.
Grand O. G.—W. Murry, Ruffin Lodge, No. 6, Goldsboro.
P. G. C. Samuel Merrill was elected Representative to the Supreme Lodge for two years.

The installation of these officers took place to-day.—Raleigh Sentinel, 25th.

A caucus of the republican members of the House was held on Saturday night. The only action taken was to adopt a resolution directing that in the House to-day a resolution be offered to amend the rules which govern the House as to provide that a majority vote will be all that is required to suspend the rules for the consideration of important measures, and that only one dilatory motion affecting such measure shall be entertained by the chair. When the motion was put to the caucus there were 128 members present. The vote was taken by rising. While all did not rise, there were no negative votes recorded against it. If the new rule is adopted by the House, it is the intention to dispose of all the appropriation bills within the next ten days. The more conservative republicans will not support the rule, and it may fall for lack of the necessary two-thirds vote.—Washington Star.

Pinchback, the would-be United States Senator, elected by the Louisiana Legislature, says the New Orleans Bulletin, is an ex-convict, having been sentenced by Provost Judge Bell to the penitentiary in 1862 or 1863, and confined in the workhouse in New Orleans which was then used as a penitentiary.

It is proposed to form a National Alumni Association of American universities to give literary entertainments during the centennial. Initiatory steps were taken Tuesday in Philadelphia for that purpose.
