LOCAL DOTS.

Clara Wildman's coming back. "Down in a coal mine, underneath the ground."

We are requested to state that General Rufus Barringer, who has been called to Raleigh, to appear in some of his cases in the Supreme Court, expects to return by Monday, to attend to his business in the Superior Court now sitting here.

Sunday was a lovely day, and almost every citizen who eyer goes to church at all, turned out. The night was even more splendid than the day, and the pleasant weather and moonlight served to bring out large congregations again.

Congressional Record.

We acknowledge our obligation to Hon. Wm. A. Smith, Congressman from the Fourth District, for the bound copies of the Congressional Record, of the 43rd Congress. These books are valuable for preservation and reference, and we hereby express to Maj. Smith our thanks for them.

Eye-Sight Likely to be Restored

We have just learned that a dispatch has been received from Wilmington, bringing the information that the little daughter of Mr W. H. H. Gregory, who was expected to loose her sight, can be cured by the justly celebrated Physician, Dr. John DeRosseth, who stood very high in the city of Baltimore, and who has established an Infirmary in the city of Wilmington for the Eye and Ear. We learn also, that Dr. DeRosseth proposes to visit Charlotte about the 8th of March, and we would suggest that all who are afflicted with any diseases of the above named organs, call on the Doctor when he Fries, N. C.

Rev. E. H. Harding.

We never hear a sermon by the pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, without thinking how exceedingly fortunate that cultivated mind, blended with deck piety. and a singular knowledge of human nature makes Mr. Harding a minister whose influence for good will be great upon his flock, and particularly upon the younger members of it. He is endowd with fine natural talents, and his exercise of them is to the advancement of the Redeemers Kingdom.

The Centennial

Not the Philadelphia in which at present we have small interest, but the glorious one of Mecklenburg, is now before the Legislature for aid and countenance. By the sacred memory of those who strack the first imperishable names of those who stand recorded on the first charter of our once cherished liberties, by the fame which North Carolina owes to those pre revolutionary heroes, by the duty she owes to herself to keep alive forever the names and the reputations respond to the call that is made upon its liberality. It is an appeal to State pride and local patriotism which the people will sustain .- Raleigh News.

A Court Incident. noon and an after noon session, or whether proceedings, and that a copy of them be The one session seemed to be the most popular, but just before the matter was definitely settled, Gen. Barringer arose and suggested that a recess of 10 or 15 minutes be given | astride the stove pipe and called for "more about noon, "for recreation." Gov. Vance saw at once an opportunity for a "hit," so, turning to Gen. B., he said: "General, will and, upon being informed of the proceedation straight?" What effect this had upon est "place." the Court, jury, bar and spectators, can be better imagined by the reader than the reporter can describe it.

We left just at this point, before the question was decided, but supposed the ten minutes recess was agreed to, as we "ran up on" the Governor about noon-and he was taking his "recreation" with sugar.

Burns' Song "The Blue-Eyed Lassie." Recently in looking over a copy of Burns' Poems, our attention was attracted to one of his beautiful songs which bears a peculiar interest to our Charlottonians, from the fact it was written in compliment of the grand-

Admitted to the Bar

Soon after the Court was organized yesterday morning, Col. H. C. Jones arose and made a motion that Thos. H. Brem, Jr., be admitted to the bar. He announced that Mr. Brem held a certificate from the Supreme Court of the State whereupon Judge Schenck called on Col. Jones to administer the oath to the applicant. Mr. Brem took the oath of allegiance to the United States, and forthwith occupied a position among

The Court was organized yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and the jury empanneled : (we have heretofore publishe! the names of the jurymen) The Judge's charge was a fine effort. It was a clear, lucid exposition of the law, and interwoven with it were the explanations and disquisitions of the learned jurist. The charge was logical, and practical, and evidently made the impression it was intended to make

The business of the day was not of any particular interest. Two or three cases were tried, but they were of minor importance, and are not worthy of note in our columns.

MUD VS. NEW ISSUE. Court .- Has the defendant any counsel to plead his cause? Defendant.—May it please Your Honor and Gentlemen of the Jury, My taxes are so high that I cannot employ counsel in this cause, but will, by your permission, make a few remarks in my own defence In the first place, I deny the allegation, that have made an uncalled for attack upon the plaintiff, as he alleges. On the contrary, sir, I plead in behalf of good health, cleanliness and decency. It is a fact, sir, that I desire to supplant mud in this case, but I do t in an open, manly way. I do not desire to stick to the citizens or cover them up as he has strongly argued he does, neither do I follow him to his fireside in order to meet his family as he does. I present myself to his wife and children in a more becoming manner. I do not have to be hauled on and off, as he says he has been good for the least amount of money, and I house the poet was a frequent visitor. On am satisfied that if I was tried half as long he Springs' Corner. Who ever saw me holding on to a young lady until she had to be rescued by some passing knight?
This, sir, I do not propose to do. I give them cleanly spots upon which to place their pretty feet, and since I have supplanted the plaintiff at the places mentioned, there has been no trouble. 'Tis true the pay taxes, as though the plaintiff still held dominion there, but I argue this is not right in law or equity, for as the public receive the benefit, they ought to foot the bills.

The plaintiff rejoices over this, may it please
Your Honor and gentlemen of the jury, I appeal to you, is it a source of rejoicing, or rather, should be not hide his head instead? I do not propose to occupy the time of this honorable court to follow the plaintiff in all his plaintive appeals to your honorable body. He speaks of wash-women, soap, &c I have comparatively little use for those on the streets, and I never attach myself to the citizens to be rubbed off at home on a hard board or paddled. I think this effort on his part an ad captandum argument to win the good graces of those who follow the profession to which he alludes. I address myself

Gentlemen of the jury, this cause now before you in which mud is plaintiff and "New Issue" the defendant and you real estate owners are the jury. This cause, gentlemen of the jury, has been ably argued. The plaintiff has made his point in a most fluid manner, and sticks to his pretended rights, with a tenacity that would be commendable in a different cause, while the defendant in n a different cause; while the defendant in an open manly way has met him with an argument which I hope you will duly consider in making up your verdict. It is my duty, gentlemen of the jury, to expound the law as 1 will now proceed to do. I refer you to the case Doe es. Roe, in which it is as clear as mud that where a person or peason receiving benefits, should always give a quio pro quo for them. I know, gentlemen of the jury, you understand my quotations; if not, quid pro quo is a Latin expression, and belongs to the profession. Quid, gentlemen of the jury, is applied to tobacco, and pro quo means to pay for it, but in this instance, proquo is applied to side walks, as elsewhere mentioned and progress there were the property of the profession of the mentioned, and means, they ought to get pay for them. I do not see how it can hold good in law, equity or morals, that the im-provements at the points named, to wit; Brem Brown & Co., and Springs corner, should be paid for by the individuals and ne reduction from their taxes made, I hold it should have been paid for out of the general fund collected for internal improvements. This ruling, gentlemen of the jury, I think will hold water any where. Now if you find it economy to es ablish free ferriage at the various crossings, and allow the streets and sidewalks to remain in their present condition, say so; but I hold that in equity you should recommend a very great reduction in taxes. If, on the contrary, you find the arguments as presented by the defendant one bet'er than those of mud, and that cleanly streets and sidewalks are more beneficial than premature of health, cleanliness, and pleasure, you must render your verdict ac-take the case.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Gentlemen of the jury, (estate owners),

The Public Confidence Well Placed. Although the world has been seeking specifics for disease for many centuries, few indeed have been found. Prominent among these few is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. which years ago received the endorsement Blanding, S.C.; F.P.Copper, S.C.; R. A. Lap- of the medical profession, and was hailed by press and public as the great renovant and preventive of the age. And with good reason, since to the weakened stomach it gives strength, to the torpid liver activity, to the shaken nerves firmness and tone. Under the wan aspect of ill health is replaced by a look of charfulness, the mind ceases to dein this statement. It is as true as that the system is subject to disease Were proofs required to substantiate the reality of the comprehensive effects of the Bitters, there is probably not in existence a medicine in favor of which such a mass of concurrent estimony, from the most respectable sources could be adduced. But the efficacy of the nation's alterative and invigorant has been a matter of universal knowledge too long to need any such corroboration. The fact that t has its largest sales in those portions of the North and South American Continents. Mexico and the West Indies, in which atmospheric influences prejudicial to health exists, proves what confidence is felt in its remedial and protective virtues. In localities where fevers of an intermittent type prevail, especially, it has come to be regarded as an indispensable necessary.
