LOCAL NOTES.
The Board of Commissioners met yesterday, but the proceedings are crowded out until to-morrow.
The Amateur Musical Society will meet this evening at the residence of Mrs. S. V. Young, at 8 o'clock.
When it gets right well through raining, we will write a few rows about the mud. Not now, though; one at a time.
The Wildman's will be welcomed back. It's worth the price of a ticket to hear Clara sing, "Down in a coal mine."
Panic, war, pestilence or famine, could hardly make people more gloomy than this weather. Oh, Probs, how long?
The Catawba was higher last week, we understand, than it has been in ten years except at the time of the great May freshet of '73.
The thunder and lightning were terrific for a while last night. We observed it from under a table, with several newspapers over our head.
We would rise just here to remark that this weather is entirely too bad for darning purposes. [Not that we have any tears, have you to understand.]
The local historian floated around in one of his boats yesterday to some purpose, and gathered together every local name of which are crowded out by over a column of new advertisements.
The Berger Family being great favorites here, it will interest our people to know that they played a successful four nights engagement in Galveston, Texas, last week, as we learn from the News, of that city.

A Valuable Book.
Mrs M. Weyere, of Richmond, Va., is at Mrs. Pease's boarding house in this city, for a few days, canvassing for the "Reminiscences of Gen. Robert E. Lee," a work of great value and interest. By Rev. J. William Jones, D. D., formerly chaplain of the army of Northern Virginia, and of Washington College, Virginia. Anything connected with the life of the great hero and soldier is interesting, but this especially so, being the production of one who knew him well and associated with him intimately. We commend Mrs. Weyere and the work which she represents, to the consideration of our people, and hope that the lady will have abundant success here in procuring subscribers. She is the widow of a Confederate soldier, and is worthy.

Personal.
We had a brotherly call last evening from Dr. C. Robertson, editor of the Rock Hill (S. C.) Grange.
E. W. M. Kerr, Esq., the Senator from Sampson, was in the city Sunday and yesterday.
The following great railroad magnates from New York, were registered at the Central Hotel on Sunday: Wm. H. Vanderbilt, Webster Wagner, A. B. Rowland, and Hon. Oba. W. Jones, the newly elected United States Senator from Florida, breakfasted at the Central yesterday morning, and passed on through en route to Washington. He is the first Democrat elected to the Senate from Florida since the war.
Capt. W. H. Green, of the North Carolina Railroad, arrived in the city last evening.
W. J. Boylin, Esq., late of the Monroe Engineer, registered last night at the Central.

Court Yesterday.
Court was called and organized yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The following named gentlemen comprise the panel summoned by the Sheriff for this the second week of Court: S. B. Smith, J. Y. Weddington, John O. Alexander, J. M. Kirkpatrick, A. G. Reid, Solomon Cohen, E. S. Burwell, J. C. Kirk, John L. Res, Wm. C. McCord, E. S. L. Barnett, Wm. McComb, Leander Query, J. C. Weddington, Samuel Whitley, W. W. Philter, Alexander Berryhill, J. S. Sparrow, Wm. H. Porter, J. T. Hallett, J. Dowd.
Only two criminal cases were disposed of: Tom Sloan and Ned Hoover, both colored, were up for assault. This was for whipping Mr. Beattie, about two years ago; many will recall the circumstance. Judgment was suspended as to both of them until next Court, upon the payment of costs, and each was put under bond of $200 for his appearance at the next term of Court.
Sap Horns, white, was up for assault. He was convicted but judgment was suspended upon the payment of costs.
The civil docket was taken up and several cases were disposed of: a still larger number was continued.

The Fire Last Evening.
A few minutes after 8 o'clock last evening, the cry of "fire" was sounded on the streets, and soon the fire bell rang the alarm. It did not require long to ascertain the location, for in a few moments after the first cry almost the whole city was illuminated. The rain was pouring down in torrents at the time, but more than rain is necessary to keep a crowd from a fire, and in a short time that end of Trade street, leading to the Air-Line Depot, was crowded with people. It was ascertained by the time this point was reached, that the burning building was the barn of James Irvin, Esq., outside the city limits and about a mile from the intersection of Trade and Tryon streets.
The barn had been struck by lightning, and being filled with forage, was soon burned to the ground. There were three horses in the stable. When persons reached it having discovered the fire, one of the horses was lying down, and could not be moved. It had evidently been struck by the lightning, and had to be left to be burned up. The other two were gotten out and saved. In a shed adjoining the barn, was a carriage, which was also destroyed, the heat becoming so intense in a few seconds that it could not be removed.
The whole loss, including the forage (of which there was a large supply) and a horse and a carriage. Though the dwelling and other buildings were near the barn, they were in no danger from the heat or sparks, being thoroughly saturated with the rain which continued to fall all the time.
The Independent Hook and Ladder Company turned out with their truck, but upon finding where the fire was located, put back to their engine house.

Errors in the Dictionary.
Yesterday morning two compositors in this office, while looking in Webster's Dictionary for a word about which they had had a discussion, found a typographical error. The edition of the Dictionary is the unabridged, published in 1870, by G. and C. Merriam, State Street, Springfield, Mass. The error is in the definition of the word "Millennium," and occurs in this way: "A word used to denote the thousand years mentioned in the twentieth chapter of Revelation," &c. It will be observed that the word is doubled, and in this the error consists; it is a rare thing to find a mistake in the Bible or the Dictionary.
Kittell's Living Age.
Nos. 1002 and 1003 of The Living Age, for the weeks ending Feb. 20th and 27th respectively, have the following noteworthy articles:—The Gravelle Memoirs, from the Quarterly Review; The Love and Marriage of Catherine de Bourbon, Cornhill; The Emperor of China, Spectator; Popes of the Sixteenth Century, Our Own Strands; Chinese Ordinary Customs, Oriental Empire; Shanghai; An Only Child, Saturday Review; Brussels—his Character, Saturday Review; Secret Studies, part V, by Talbot Hawthorne, Contemporary Review; The Government of San Marco, part IV, Satornola as a Politician; Macmillan; A Vandal Venice, Pall Mall Gazette; Early Retirees, Spectator.
These numbers also contain installments of "The Story of Valentine and his Brother," and "Alice Lorraine,"—the latter, by the author of the "Maid of Sker," and both unusually good serials.
The usual choice poetry and miscellany complete the numbers.

The Weather.
Charlotte is again reached. The water rush and roar through the streets where commerce is wont to flow, and commerce has yielded up the scepter and retired to her hiding place. The floods poured down with force all day yesterday, and poured down with newly gathered force after the day had spent itself. Last night was as black as Erebus, and as the winds sweep along, dashing the rain in the face of the unfortunate pedestrian, that line of Burns, describing Tom O'Shanter's ride, comes to mind, and we are almost tempted to say with him that it was "Sic a night as ne'er poor mortal was abroad in."
We have not known such a storm in a long while. It will do great damage to property, and land slides in railroads will be numerous; if some of the trains reach the city this morning, we shall not be surprised.
With these reflections, we throw both hands behind our head, and as we listen to the "rain on the roof," return silent thanks that the times have fallen us beside a pleasant fire, and that it is only a few moments before we shall be sheltered by a dark, stormy search of that building in which is located our "little bed," and lay us down to sleep the sleep of innocence.

A Memento of the War.
Under this head the New York Herald, of the 25th ult., has the following article: Dr. and M. M. Stone are residents of this city, and are well known and highly esteemed throughout the State. We sincerely hope the suit spoken of will terminate favorably to them. The Herald says: "In 1867 Miss Verina S. Moore was teaching a school in North Carolina. She purchased 120 shares of the Phoenix Bank of this city. Two years later she sold through an attorney, thirty-six shares of the stock, retaining eighty-four shares in her possession. The war came and the dividends on the stock accrued, but owing to communication being cut off with the North, she was unable to obtain them. In March, 1864, information was given to the government that the amount of stock named, with the accrued dividends, remained in her name on the books of the bank, and under the act of Congress providing for the confiscation of property belonging to rebels, were taken on behalf of the government for its confiscation. The result was that the government was held liable for the amount. An effort was made to get aside the decree but without success. In the meanwhile Miss Moore married Mr. Chapman, a clergyman, and as Mrs. Chapman has brought suit against the Phoenix National Bank of this city, to recover $1,170, amount of accrued dividends, she understands the case, and has applied to the Federal Court for the confirmation of the stock. The case is now pending. An effort was made to get the value of the stock originally owned by her. The case came to trial yesterday before Judge Speer holding Special Term of the Superior Court. The plaintiff claims that the confiscation of the stock was illegal, she alleging that she did not come within the category of those 'giving aid and comfort to the enemy,' whose property, under the act referred to, was liable to confiscation. The defense is that the bank had no part in the proceedings taken by the government, and that, in cancelling the certificate, it merely complied with the decree of the United States Court. Judge Speer took the papers, reserving his decision."
