Now these little feet are silent, And the face is hidden low Inderneath the meadow grasses, And the daisies' fragrant snow And I miss them in the morning, Pattering feet, and face so fair— But I listen most at bed-time,

For the footstep on the stair. Then she'd come and kneel beside me
In her little gown of white;
And she'd say her short prayer over,
And would kiss me short good night,

And I listen in the twilight.

Though I know she is not there.
But I can not still my yearning.
For the footstep on the stair.

For the patter, patter, patter.

Of the footsteps on the stair.

WHY CHINESE NEVER KISS,-Edward Greey, in his "Chinese Stories," represents that people in that country never kiss. He thus explains the reason. In remote times it was known and practised, but when Confucius reinaugurated and retaught the doctrine of the veneration of ancestors the Chinese gradually abandoned the 'Chinese gradually abandoned kissing as vulgar and tending to promote familiarity. As a proof of this we cannot find the act delineated upon any peace of china or in any modern Chinese painting. Children venerate their parents—worship in many cases—and veneration forbids familiarity. For this reason, and aiming at a high degree of purity, the Chinese have abandoned kissing as a means of expressing regard, and look—DRY GOODS and READY-MADE CLOTHmeans of expressing regard, and look- DRY GOODS and READY-MADE CLOTHed with something more than surprise ING. MISCELLANEOUS,

To HAVING BEEN REPORTED BY some that this Preparation is the same as Simmons' Liver Regulator, we deem it right to correct this impression. Although C. A. Simmons was former Proprietor of both preparations, he assures us that SIMMONS' HEPATIC COMPOUND is his latest improvement in Medical Science, and that it has no connection whatever with former preparations, but that it is far superior, in every respect, to any Liver Medicine to which his name was ever attached, being composed solely of Vegetable ingredients.—The trial of one bottle will satisfy the most incredulous.
