Mr. Wm, C. Maxwell arrived at his home in this city yesterday. He received, on Monday, his license from the Supreme Court, to practice law. At the same time Mr. F. J. Osborne, of this city, was licensed as a lawyer. Mr. O. is still in Raleigh, but WILSON & BLACK will be home in a day or two. Both of these gentlemen will settle in this city, we believe, to practice their professions.

Well! Well!! Well!!!

We confess to our sins with shame and time that we never knew how great was our confusion of face, and swear at the same immorality, till we read the following, in the Columbia Union-Herald, yesterday: "There is a certain young lady in this city who is so modest that she will not permit a Charlotte Observer to remain in her room

A Large Bird. A crane which was displayed yesterday afternoon and last evening, in front of the barber shop of Pethel & Sumner, on Trade street, attracted a good deal of attention from passers-by. The crane was killed by Jim Pethel, on Parks' pond. It measured six feet three inches from tip to tip of wings, and five feet two inches from bill to toes.

Meeting of Firemen. The Pioneer Fire Company held a meeting at their hall last night. Very handsome resolutions were received from the Stone wall Fire Company, of Chester, S. C., which we will publish to-morrow. The Pioneers resolved to have a pic nic on the 17th inst. at some point on the Western Division of the Carolina Central Railroad, which is yet to be selected by the committee of arrangements, appointed to designate the place.

Simonton Female College. We acknowledge, with thanks, an invitation to attend the concert which will close the commencement exercises of the Simonton Female College, Statesville. Miss Sallie Peck is the musical directress, and we know very well that the concert will be worth a trip to Statesville. This college, by the by, under the management of Rev. S. Taylor Martin, is one of the best in the South. He is a highly accomplished gentleman, and we know of no institution of learning which

The Doors of Public Buildings.

It is a highly sensible article we published on our second page yesterday morning, elected officers, and usually celebrate the from the Raleigh News, concerning the occasion by calling the craft from labor to probability of fires in public buildings, and the chances of escape from them in case of such occurrences. This is a matter which comes home to us all, and we suggest, in view of recent fires, that the proprietors of the Charlotte Opera House do yet change the doors of that building so that they will open either way. In making this suggestion we do not feel that we are intermeddling with the private business of individuals, for the opera house is a place of public resort, and, to this extent, is public property. Our reasons for suggesting the change, are admirably set forth in the News' article to which we refer.

Acknowledgement.

Last evening the employees of the hardware store of Brem, Brown & Co., gave a complimentary banquet to the members of the firm, at the establishment of D M Rigler, on Tryon street. The feast consisted of cake, wine, ice cream, confectioneries, &c . and an exceedingly pleasant hour was spent by the participants in the feast. About 10 N. C. o'clock, on elegant waiter, bearing estables and drinkables, was brought into the Os-SERVER office, on it a card saying that the 'accompaniments" were from the "boys of Buckets, 20 lbs each, half barrels and Kegs. the hardware store."

We make our grateful acknowledgements to "the boys," and assure them that their Dr. F. N. Luckey, of Rowan county, is courtesy is fully appreciated by the hungry crew which, about midnight discussed those things which the waiter contained.

Book Notices.

We were presented yesterday, by Mr. John W. Mallett, of Fayetteville, agent, with a held on the 3d of July, A committee of copy of Sir Walter Scott's "Antiquary," which, for typographical neatness and general good taste in the get up, is rarely excelled. This book is one of the "Thistle edition" of the Waverly Novels, now in press, by Messrs. E. J. Hale & Son, of 17 Murray street, New York.

The large and extensive acquaintance of this house, the general reputation of the senior member, and the standard character of the work before us, makes it unnecessary for us to recommend to our patrons. They have but to see the work to admire it.

Mr. Mallett has recently been appointed sole agent for this work in Mecklenburg county, and as it is sold only by subscription, there is no way to secure this magnificent edition of the works of the "Waverly" except through him.

Compliment to a Charlotte Lady. It pleases us to read in any of our exchanges, a compliment to Charlotte or her people and it is, therefore, a pleasure to us to reproduce the following extract, which is from the Raleigh News' report of the commencement exercises at the Greensboro Female College:

"There were but five graduates this year, to wit: Miss Fannie E Rountree, of Wilson, N. C., who read the salutatory; Miss Lucy A Closs, Magnolia, N C; Miss Nannie M Carter, Mecklenburg, Va; Miss Cornie C Leggett, Wilmington, N. U., and Miss M E Dowd, Charlotte, N. C., all of whom acquitted themselves in fine style. The most noticeable, probably, of these accomplished young ladies was Miss Dowd, of Charlotte, who read an essay upon the subject, 'What the Moon Sees.' One seldom finds a more captivating and bewitching reader than Miss Dowd. With a liquid voice, clear and distinct articulation, she at once secures the attention of her audience. There is an easy composure, with fine rhetoric and unusual thought."

Speaking of the inglorious "bust" made by Harper's Weekly, when it attempted an illustration of the Mecklenburg Centennial Celebration, the Raleigh News tersely and truly says: "The Harper illustration of the Charlotte Centennial is contemptible. The only thing truthful about it are the negro portraits which the artist could have made any where without the trouble of coming to North Carolina. But an illustration of Harper without a negro in it would be as tame as a bell without a clapper."
