The Rain Cycle.

After all it seems that St. Swithin has nothing to do with the rainy spell. According to the astronomers there is a rain cycle every twenty-eight years, caused by the conjunction of two of the planets nearest the earth. Neptune and Mars are now in conjunction, exciting electricity to an unusual These building obstructions render parts extent. This results in the condensation of the vapor of the atmosphere surrounding the earth, producing the copious rains which have fallen this summer.

Gone for Money.

We are informed that Judge Bacon, of Edgefield county, S. C., sailed from New York, a few days ago, for England to look after the far famed Jenhings estate in that country, for the heirs in South Carolina. There seems to be a reasonable probability that he will succeed in obtaining the money. as he declined to go until the heirs deposited the sum of $10,000 with him as payment for his services in case his mission is successful. The estate is immense.

These "Colonels" by Doubtful Right. Passing along one of the principal streets, yesterday, we met four gentle men one right after another, and having spoken to all, remembered that we had as "Colonel." This suggested thought that at this time when military titles are at a premium, the following somewhat changed quotation from "Lucile," is appropriate:

"Of all the good things in this good world The things most abundantly furnished an with respect to their titles, are these Colonels,' no doubt,"

Vance at the White Sulphur.

A young friend of ours who returned yesterday morning from the Greenbier White Sulphur Springs, says that last week ex-Cov. Vance was photographed there, in a party consisting, in addition to himself, of Gen Jos. E. Johnston, Gen. Robert Toombs, Gen-W. H. F. Lee, and other distinguished Southerners. Our friend says that he never saw a finer more intellectual looking group He says further, that Gov. Vance, by his three speeches, captivated all the guests at the springs, many of whom protested that the half had not been told them of his brilliancy. None were more sulogistic than the Northern visitors, and our distinguished townsman found his way to the hearts of many who had only heard of him before.

Death of an Old Printer.

We learn by a note from Will S. R. Long, Esq., of the Salisbury Intelligencer, that Mr. Richard B. Pendleton, died suddenly in Salisbury, yesterday morning, of spasms of the heart. He was a printer by trade, and was well known by the fraternity throughout the State. He was skilled in his business, was genial and intelligent, and we are grieved to learn of his death. His funeral will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the Episcopal Church of Salisbury, and will probably Think that the prospect is highly encourbe attended by two or three printers sging. People will come here to buy who from this city.

Superior Court.

The third term for the year of Meck enburg Superior Court, opens to-mor row, and there is a considerable amount of business to go before it. There are 71 cases on the State docket at present with a great many presentments to go to the Grand Jury. There are also 332 cases on the civil issue docket. The most important cases on the criminal docket, are, one for arson and one for burglary. This week Wm. Elwood, who addressed to him by the creditors and anx- is in jail here, convicted of murder, will PRAYER MEETING.—The Young Men's lous friends of the bank. The Haywood Homicide.

We have received nothing; additional in the past few days relative to the recent homicide in Haywood county. The Wilmington Star has seen a letter from the West concerning the matter, of which it has the following to say. Considering that we have had a good deal in relation to the homicide, and of the interest which is felt in it in this community, we transfer this to our local columns:

"After giving some details substantially the same as those already printed in the Star, the writer of the letter, who obtained his information from the Deputy Sheriff of Haywood county, re fers to the accident to the back and states that Tommie Strange was trying to reason with Murray, the driver, and from this the altercation followed that culminated in the shooting of Murray. No one, it is said by the Deputy Sheriff, who was present at the Coroner's inquest, witnessed the shooting; and Tommie stated on the examination before the Coroner, that he shot Murray in self-defence."

St. Swithin.

The legend of St. Swithin Day has been so remarkably fulfilled this season, that unusual interest attaches to the legend and the saint. That being the case, it will be interesting to many to know that St. Swithn was Bishop of Winchester, and died about 862, over a thousand years ago, which is long enough to test any legend. He was born near Winchester, and was a monk of the old abbey at Winchester, and though he died a bishop was never regularly canonized. He is therefore what has been termed a "home-made saint" It would seem that a love of being out in the wet was one of his peculiarities, for he directed that when he should die his body should be buried under the eaves-drippings of the church, in which uncomfortable state it remained for nearly a handred years, when the clergy in a body began the removal, amidst great pomp, to he Cathedral of Winchester. The ceremony however, was interrupted by a heavy burst of rain, which continued for forty days. The monks, who were frightened by the rain, desiated, and built a chapel over the remains on the spot where they lay buried. Out of this incident grew the legend which has held a place in the popular mind, along with other traditions and superstitions, for so many centuries.

Pastoral Call.

At a meeting on Friday night, of the members of the congregation, of St Mark's Lutheran Church, a pastoral the life of the man who had slain his call was extended to Rev. J G Neiffer, son! Even in novels we read of few pastor of St, John's Lutheran Church, such instances of stern resolve in the of Salisbury. Mr. Neiffer is in the cit discharge of duty. When he dies a at present, and has been notified of monument as high as Olympus should the action of the meeting, but has not ing to that Nine, and their playing as yet signified his acceptance or rejection of the call. We hope he will be induced to accept. He is a gentleman of piety, learning, eloquence and of great energy, and would do much toward building up the church here, which is now in a weak condition. When he went to Salisbury five years ago, the Lutheran Church there was in a disorganized state, and now, under his ministration, it is the strongest and wealthiest denominamembers.

His decision in this matter will probably be given in a few days, and, it is strongly hoped by the members of the congregation, will be favoradock agon public whence

THE TRADE OUTLOOK.

What Some Leading Hardware and Boot and Shoe Men Think of It.

Yesterday we continued our interviews rith the business men of the city, relative to the outlook for the Autumn trade, calling upon the hardware and the boot and shoe firms. We found more unanimity than on the day previous, the majority of the firms expressing themselves as confident of prosperous business season.

BREM, BROWN & CO.

Say that trade will be better than ever, but it will be late probably two weeks later than usual. We expect an unusually good jobbing trade between the middle of September and the lat of October. The crops look so promising that country merchants will buy larger stocks. Our opinion is that cotton will not turn out such an immense crop as some seem to think. When it runs so much to weed as it has this year, the bolls do not open well. Cotton 18 inches high is better than that 4 feet. The general impression is that there will be a very large crop, and hence cotton will open low. It will take a rise, however, when the amount of the crop is ascertained, and business will be never came before. Already we are selling goods to parties who never until now had any dealings with Charlotte. Our advantages are becoming better known with each year, and people see that it is their interest to come here. Farmers are better able to buy goods this Fall than they have been since the war, for the reason that the merchants have recently become more cautious and did not sell a great many goods on credit during the Summer. The amount of the cotton crop and the price which it will command, will be such as to bring prosperity to all classes. The crop will be somewhat later, and hence business will not fairly open until a correspondingly later period. We anticipate making larger sales than ever, and are purchasing accordingly.

SMITH & FORBES

Look for a fair trade. If cotton sells at 14 or 15 cents, business will be good but if at 10 or 12, lighter of course. We have sold more goods this year than last, and expect a corresponding increase, at least, next season. Cotton looks well now, but it is being injured and may fall off yery greatly from present expectations. Outside of cotton, however, we anticipate greater trade, on account of the lowness of goods, which are now as cheap here as any one would ask. The retail trade be almost certainly be better than it was last Fall.

WADE & PEGRAM

Are of opinion that business will not be neavy. There is no prospect for an increase over last Fall. Money is closer, and there is little disposition to buy. The farmers will hold all the cotton they can, selling only to buy what they are obliged to have. The heavy failures in the North and West will affect commericial dealing ssomewhat, and it can be noticed that these are also extending southward. Upon the whole we are not greatly elated at the prospect, though it is to be hoped we are mistaken.

SAMPLE & ALEXANDER

Do not see why trade should not be as good as it was last year and better. The crops are good and cotton will bring a fair price. We do not think the crop will be so tremendous as many anticipate. The stalks cannot support all the bolls that are now on them, but there will be a crop which will out money in circulation and render buyers. active. If people have cotton they will sell it to buy what they need. We have no doubt that trade will be fine this season, and we are making goods to provide for it.

The Ball and Bat.

The members of the K 9 Base Ball Club of this city, went up to Statesville yesterday morning to play a match game with the Statesville Club which, just the day before, had accepted a challenge from them. They arrived there at 8.30 and left on their return at 11.30. Fortunately the grounds are near the depot and little time was lost. The game resulted in favor of the K 9, by a score of 21 to 16. The following is the game by innings;

Innings. 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | T K 9 | 1 | 2 | 5 | 3 | 2 | 4 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 21 Stat'ville | 1 | 3 | 1 | 6 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 9 | 16 J P Burke, of Statesville, Umpire.

It is due to the Statesville Club, to say, that two of the gentlemen who played with the K 9 Club. (Messrs.
