Now they are dunning folks.

Summer excursion tickets have about played out.

The Fall drummer is beginning to appear, and the indications are that the crop will be large.

We learn by a private letter that eighty blue fish and five mackerel were the result of an hour's sport at Beaufort, last week.

The match game of base ball between the Centennial Nine and the Lone Nine, of Concord, takes place to morrow on the grounds of the latter club.

The OBSERVER takes occasion to thank Messrs W M Long & Co., for a very fine watermelon, and would remind its readers that he advertises a fine lot this morning.

The Wilmington Star is informed that the Carolina Central Railway Company will charge students going to the State University but half fare going and returning, and half rates on their furniture and effects.—This arrangement will remain in force until July 1st, 1876

Preparing for School.

School teachers and principals of academies are all getting ready to resume their various institutions. Large and successful Fall sessions are expected, in view of the excellent health, which there seems no good reason to believe will be broken.

Personal.

We had the pleasure last evening of meeting Col S. D. Poor, of Our Living and Our Dead. He speaks at Lincolnton to-day and returns to Charlotte this afternoon, when he will be glad to meet the present subscribers to his magazine who wish to renew.

Wants to Know.

An inquisitive youth at our elbow wishes to know where he can find a fight between two striking likenesses, and the exact amount Marmion wanted Chester to charge? If the youth desires a fight, let him invest a car-ticket in a dose of cheap "Now I lay me" juice; and as for charging, he is respectfully referred to any first-class restaurant.

Going to the Camp Meeting.

As a couple of the colored sisters were trudging their way out Trade street to the camp meeting a few evenings since, one was overheard to the other: "Jane, is dis bounet pinned on right?" "Yaas, she sorter so." "Well, I tell you, if I gits to rearing round dare to-night, I's gwine to lose dis bonnet,—I is."

Wanted Another Kind.

The country darkey who called upon one of our fertilizer dealers yesterday and wanted to buy some "falseface" to put on his ground, said he wanted some of the sort they sold to "white gemmen;" that "the las' he bought was de sort dey make to sell to niggers." He got the sort of "falseface" he wanted.

Going the Rounds.

That part of Gov. Vance's lecture, relative to the message borne him during the war by Gov. Graham, while that gentleman was Confederate States Senator from North Carolina and while Vance was Governor, is going the rounds of the press all over the United States.

Faculty of the Female Institute.

The following are among the faculty of the Charlotte Institute for Young Ladies, at its next term: Rev S T Martin, Prof. J H Hill, Miss E A Martin, Mrs Belle V Martin. Music—Miss Sallie Peck, Prof. Robt S Phifer. Painting and Drawing—Mrs H H Banks.

Circulars giving names of teachers, terms, &c, are now at the bookstores.

Thorough-bred Race Mare.

Mr. C. T. Walker, agent, has just purchased from Warrenton, N. C., a beautiful mare of as fine blood as is to be found in this scope of country. Her name is Idalia, and she was foaled in 1871, by Red Dick, by Lexington, out of Alabama. Her dam was Regina, foaled in 1851, bred by Rev. Josiah Crudup, owned in 1869 by P. R. Davis, of Warrenton. She was by Regent. Idalia is a bay filly of almost faultless mould. She is 69 44-100ths Diomed blood, which is now the most popular known to turfmen. The filly cost $426, and will be put in training for the Fall races here. For the present she is at Wadsworth's stables.

The Statesville Boys

Made things lively around town last evening. By the way, the personnel of the club is unusually fine, and their appearance and bearing were subjects of general remark. It's a shabby chap who will "go back on his raising," and we are free to acknowledge that all our sympathies were with the Statesville boys in the game yesterday.

The Robeson Election Case Decided Against the Contestants.

We received the following telegram, last evening, from P. F. Duffy, Esq., editor of the Greensboro Patriot:

"The Robeson county case was argued to-day. Judge Settle decides that he has no jurisdiction, that the Conventions is the proper judge of the qualification of its members, and dismisses the case after free and full argument by counsel."

To Shelby.

The iron rails for laying the track to Shelby, have arrived at Wilmington, as we learn by telegraph from Col S L Frement, and will be sent forward immediately. The track to Shelby now promises to be completed within ten days.

Air-Line Railroad.

There have been the longest freight trains lately on the Air-Line we have ever seen. We are satisfied this important road is doing the heaviest business in travel and freight, and is the best managed road in the state. The authorities have procured some new engines, we learn, and extensive preparations are being made for the fall run. The business men throughout the south and west, who trade with eastern cities, will soon learn that this is their line. It is a good road, and is being liberally patronized. Cainesville (Ga) Eagle.

Will Perhaps be Needed.

The young lady friend who threatened to send a paper of pins to this scribe, that he may pin-back and find out how it goes, may be called upon yet to fulfill the threat. We shall remember it when the fashion of pin-back pantaloons reaches the South, and it is now raging in the North. We see from our exchanges that they are the latest novelty in Boston. We are told that "they brace a man up so that he cannot fall down if he wants to, and they supply a want that has long been felt by the tippling fraternity by preventing a man from doing the rail-fence specialty on his way home in the morning. The first man to wear a pair of them had an encounter with a banana peel, and although the treacherous fruit followed him for half a block, it could do no more than cause him to sway a little, and had finally to retire in disgust."

Don't Kill the Buzzards.

Providence sends many blessings in disguise. People often neglect sanitary measures and then complain of the spontaneous means which supply their place. Pigs, dogs and turkey buzzards are not ornaments to streets, but they often perform good service for man. In the Orient, parians, or owner-less dogs are a nuisance to all travelers, and the emblem of the lowest species of degradation to the natives, yet they are allowed to multiply as far as they can find means of subsistence, because they do the work of scavengers. So in Brazil vultures are the natural street cleaners, and it is an offense against the law to kill them. Buzzards were long, and may be still, tolerated for the same purpose in the streets of Charleston. Of late those unclean birds are seen hovering around this city, but whether they scent anything to attract them is a question, as some naturalists declare that they find their food by sight alone. "Boys, don't kill the birds." They may have work to do

What Constitutes a Chimney?

Properly speaking, a chimney consists of a flue so constructed as to be able to carry off both smoke and sparks from below. The chimney is of comparatively modern origin, as it was unknown, even to the most enlightened nations of the earth, until about the middle of the fourteenth century. The first chimneys that were constructed were built very thick and of enormous size, but in modern times the plan has been gradually changed until now chimneys seem to be of the other extreme, and are but a narrow shell of brick, of small size, and simply intended as a medium for conveying off the smoke generated by fires.

These remarks are suggested by the fact that there are many houses in this city which are constructed of a single thickness of brick, and flues are of corresponding thinness as to the sides. A blow of a hammer would break the shell, or an ignition of the gases from the fire below by sparks or otherwise would cause a disastrous conflagration. This is a matter that needs attention.

The Ball and Bat.

The match game of base ball between the Statesville Club and the K 9 of this city, was played on the Fair Grounds, yesterday afternoon. The game was very lengthy, and was called by the umpire before it was concluded, dark having come on. Some very fine plays were made on both sides, and at times the game was very exciting. It would not be just to give the score, since the game was incomplete. We make a summary of the game by venturing the assertion that there were never, on the American continent, so many runs made in so few innings. The scorers were kept busy scoring the runs, and the reporter could keep no notes, so busy was he in keeping from being run over by the players as they came home. We think both clubs will thank us for making no elaborate report. J P Burke, of Statesville was umpire and Richard Evans of Statesville and G M Phifer, of Charlotte, were scorers. Redwood, of the Statesville Club, was the most brilliant player on the grounds.

A Negro Buried Alive But Comes Out All Right.

Messrs Diffendal & Co., who are macadamizing the streets, have found in a high bank near the Carolina Central Depot, a strata of gravel, which they have been digging out for the purpose of putting over the rocks which have been broken up in the grading. The earth is not being dug down, but out, leaving a roof overhead. A negro, yesterday morning, drove a cart into this dug out place, and was shoveling up a cart load of dirt, when the dirt overhead caved in, burying him, cart and horse, completely over. Those near by who witnessed the caving in, went to work and removed the earth, and upon reaching the negro found him alive and safe and sound. The cart was smashed all to pieces. The horse was not much hurt. The negro was not as far under as the cart, else his fate would have been a very different one. As it was he soon remounted his cart and went again to work as if nothing had happened.

Superior Court Yesterday.

Upon the opening of Court, yesterday morning, the State Docket was resumed, and during the day was cleared of many of the cases on it. The following were the jury cases, which resulted in convictions:

State vs Frank Henderson, colored, for larceny. Found guilty, and sentenced to two years in the Penitentiary.

State vs Kenas Hunter, colored, for larceny. Found guilty, but not sentenced.

State vs Aleck Boyd, colored, for larceny, two cases. Found guilty, but not sentenced.

State vs Pinch Boyd, colored, for larceny, two cases. Found guilty and sentenced to ten years in the Penitentiary.

State vs W A Allen, colored, for larceny. Found guilty and sentenced to five years in the Penitentiary.

State vs Launey Blair, colored, for petty larceny. Found guilty but not sentenced.

State vs John Wilson, colored, for petty larceny. Found guilty and sentenced to two years in the Penitentiary.

A case which we failed to mention on Tuesday, was that of Robt Wilson, colored, who was convicted on Monday of larceny, and sentenced to ten years in the Penitentiary.

There are yet 15 or 16 prisoners in jail, for trial, and it is thought that there will be at least 15 convicts for the Penitentiary by the time the criminal docket is finished.

Gymnastics.

In all the prominent cities of the civilized world are to be found provisions for those of an athletic turn to practice their art. This is especially true in the cities of this country, save in Charlotte. Here, if the gymnasium of a private society is excepted, there is no such institution. There are dumb bell practice and base ball clubs, but no regular apparatus by which the young Charlottean can increase his muscular development.

Base ball is very well in its place, but it requires trained muscle to make it a success. Why is it, then, that a complete gymnasium can not be erected where the heroes of the bat and ball, and also the young men who do not care for these sports can go and train themselves up to the necessary standard of an active, healthy manhood? A boxing and a fencing class might also be added to the institution for the benefit of such as wish to practice those arts.

The expense of a good gymnasium would be inconsiderable, and the services of a first-class instructor might also be added by an outlay of not over two dollars per month per member, if a sufficient number would become interested in the movement.

Newspaper Enterprise.

We have a young journalistic friend in a not-far-distant county, whose enterprise is worthy of all commendation. He makes it pay, too; but a week or two ago he overshot himself. He went to a camp-meeting in the country, and stuck his big handbills: "Subscribe for the ——!" all over the trees on the camp-ground. He waited to see how this would take, and as nobody protested, he gained assurance, and the first thing anybody knew, he slapped a great bill "Subscribe for the ——!" upon the door of the church. This was the last straw, and it broke the camel's back. The preacher got red hot and commanded his orderly to pull down all the bills, and the last one disappeared from the church and the trees, just as our friend was walking up the aisle to stick one on the pulpit.

[COMMUNICATED.]

The Question of a City Park.

EDITORS OBSERVER:—

The growing importance and increasing population of our little city, makes a public park necessary to the health and well being of the larger part of our population, unable to obtain recreation by drives in the country.

A beautiful square on a central place could, I think be secured at present.

The necessity of a public Park will, I suppose, be apparent to everybody and if a feasible plan can be suggested for the purchase, would meet the approval of every enterprising citizen. If our city authorities would submit the question of the purchase of a Park to the people and on its being adopted provide for the issuance of twenty years eight per cent bonds, and make the coupons receivable for taxes, and provide at the same time that these bonds shall only be sold at par, I think a sufficient number of enterprising citizens could be found to take them. The question of the location or selection of this Park to be left to a committee of citizens to be appointed by the Board of Aldermen. I write this to direct attention to a matter of much public importance.

Respectfully,
TAX PAYER.

TO THE CREDITORS OF THE BANK OF MECKLENBURG.

I am gratified that I am able to present a statement of the condition of the Bank of Mecklenburg. This statement has been gotten up by Mr A G Brenizer, Cashier of the Commercial National Bank and submitted to and approved by M P Pegram, Cashier of the First National Bank of Charlotte. It will be seen at a glance that it has been a work of great labor and required time to perfect. This accounts for any apparent delay. It is due to the creditors to say that there are debts due the Bank, which are put down as doubtful or insolvent, which may be compromised or settled in such way as to realize something for the creditors. The large claim against the old firm of Tate & Dewey is already in the hands of energetic lawyers and will be pressed with vigor. Upon the statement of facts submitted every intelligent man can make an estimate of the value of his claims. I can only say that at present I have not larger sources of information than other persons. When a dividend can be declared, it is impossible in the present condition of things to tell.
