THE CITY.
CITY BULLETIN.
Only one arrest in police circles.
A few petty cases, but of no importance to the public.
Colored firemen paraded on the streets yesterday and practiced with their engine.
"God is great," is the way the "able and accomplished" corn doctor heads his circular.
Yesterday was dull—little cotton, produce or anything else—except the music of the irrepressible hand-organ.
Members of the Methodist Church who propose to contribute provisions for the Festival to-night are requested to send in their contributions early in the evening.
The new reading room of the Central Hotel has been finished. It is a part of what was lately Mr. Phillips' store and the entrance to it is through the door between this store and the office of the hotel.
Erwin-Avery.
Married, at the Presbyterian Church in Morganton, on the 20th inst., by the Rev R. B. Anderson, Capt. George Philp Erwin and Miss Cora Avery.
General Pemberton.
This distinguished gentleman, who was a Major General in the Confederate army, and commanded the garrison at Vicksburg, is in our city for a few days. He is now agent for some freight line.
The Churches.
Services were held in nearly all of the churches on Sunday, and the air being bright and balmy, the congregations at houses of worship were rather larger than usual.
Left for Missouri.
Ex-Gov Z. B. Vance left last night for St. Joseph, Mo., upon an invitation from the Jewish citizens of that place. He will deliver both of his celebrated lectures, "The Scattered Nation" and "The Demagogue," and will be absent about ten days.
Gen Jackson's Staff.
Capt J. G. Morrison who left yesterday for Richmond, informed us that all the surviving members of General Jackson's staff, Capt Webbourn of the signal corps (Georgia) excepted, will be present at the unveiling of his statue to-day. All are living except Col Pennington who was killed just before the close of the war.
A Public Example.
An amusing sight was presented upon the streets yesterday. A pious mother had a cross baby lying across her lap. The portion of the body upon which the young are usually punished, was exposed. Every time the hand descended, it left a blushing print. The parent was sitting in a wagon in the middle of Trade Street. It was her offspring an Boone galsayed either her right, or the propriety of thus correcting it.

The Courts.
The Superior Court for Lincoln county began yesterday, and continues two weeks. Gaston Superior Court opens on Monday, 8th of November, and will also continue two weeks, if business requires.
After Gaston Court, Mecklenburg and Cabarrus follows, two weeks each, which ends the Fall Circuit of Judge Schenck the 18th of December at Cabarrus Court.
Escort for Mrs Jackson.
Whatever Virginia, and especially the city of Richmond, undertakes to do, she does in the handsomest manner. We are reminded of this in the arrangements for unweaving the Jackson statue. Not satisfied with making arrangements for entertaining the widow and daughter of the great soldier, the committee of arrangements must send a gentleman to escort them to Richmond, which though unnecessary, will be highly appreciated by Mrs. Jackson and her friends. Mr. Jno W. Booker, of Richmond, who was assigned to this agreeable duty, arrived in Charlotte Sunday morning and left yesterday morning with his charge.
The Observer on the A. T. & O. Railroad.
The Statesville Landmark says:
"The Charlotte Observer is now delivered to its subscribers along the line of the A. T. & O. R. R. by the 'fast mail train.' It is not so magnificent in its proportions as the New York Herald's achievements in the same direction, but is duly appreciated by numerous readers, who, under the present management, receive their paper 12 hours earlier. The papers are transmitted through Capt Myers, and its readers are indebted to him. There are few young men whom a 'little brief authority' does not make fools. Capt Myers is one of the rare exceptions, we infer."

The Dumb Speaks.
Dr DeBoit, a chiropodist, who has visited Charlotte annually for the past four years, who is well known among those who are affected with corns and bunions, appeared yesterday evening in a new role. Having business among the workmen in the shoe establishment of Messrs Sample & Alexander, he encountered a man named Flow, who had been dumb from childhood. Under the scientific manipulations of the corn doctor, Flow was actually taught to speak several words—the first he ever spoke—verily there is nothing new under the sun.
Mysterious Disappearance.
A young man could not learn his name, camped Saturday night in the vacant lot adjoining the Mint, and after feeding his horses took out his camp chest in order to prepare his breakfast. It was just before six and it was then nearly broad day-light. He was sitting in the wagon for some purpose, and only remained inside for a short time; but after coming out, he looked around; his chest could neither see nor hear tell of it, far nor near. It probably contained something valuable, and like riches, had taken the wings of morning and flown away.

Postponed.
The singing that usually takes place every Tuesday night at the Baptist Church, is postponed to to-night in view of the fact that the ladies of the Methodist congregation will hold a festival in the basement of their church on Tryon street.
The Mass Troupe.
Failed to fulfill its engagement in this city last night. It seems that the agent of the troupe billed them for Salisbury, Charlotte, and some point in Virginia the same night. We have heard of fellows seeing double, but that agent appears to see treble.
Church Festival To Night.
Remember that the ladies of Tryon Street Methodist Episcopal Church will have an oyster supper and festival in the basement of the church to-night. The proceeds are to be devoted to church purposes, and we hope the citizens will patronize it liberally. Let those turn out who never turned out before.
Attention.
We respectfully call the attention of the Street Commissioner to the obnoxious smells that pervade the atmosphere in the region around about the old Wilke's foundry. Whether they arise from an uncovered portion of the sewer leading from the Central Hotel, or from badly kept slaughter pens in the vicinity, we are unable to tell. At all events the atmosphere needs purifying.
Arson at Shoe Heel.
On last Friday night about 9 o'clock, a house belonging to ex-Mayor Frank Henderson, at Shoe Heel, on the Carolina Central Railroad, was discovered to be on fire, and eventually burned to the ground, nothing being saved. Loss about five hundred dollars. On Saturday the town Constable arrested a negro named McLeod, who was found in possession of several articles taken from the house, and on Saturday night he was tried before a Magistrate for arson, and the case being very clear against him, he was sent to jail to await trial at the next term of Robeson Court.

Worth Hunting For.
The forests near Charlotte are now more attractive for sportsmen than ever known before. There is a mania at present among the young ladies for collecting the thousand varieties of leaves that render the autumnal woods so gaudy and charming. The foliage thus gathered, either is varnished for picture frames or used for adorning the parlor vases. They all vie with each other in displaying to their admiring beaux, the number and variety of their rain bow tinted treasures. If you want to see sights, beautiful and interesting beyond description, steal along the sequestered avenues of the forests just outside of the city and watch the young ladies climbing the trees. If you want to catch, it is an easy matter to see game worth having.
Electric Magazine.
The Electric for November contains as a frontispiece a fine portrait of Holmes Hunt, the famous English painter; and this is accompanied in the letter press with a brief sketch of his life and art theories.
The number leads off with a notable and highly interesting article on Napoleon Bonaparte, based on the recently published Memoirs of the Count de Segur. Other attractive articles are:
The Arabs in Palestine; An American's Impression of England, by Horace White, late editor of the Chicago Tribune; Birds of Passage; Asking; Tennyson's Queen Mary; Ocean-Circulation, by Dr. W. B. Carpenter; Not to Be; and an amusing paper, entitled Skylock the Jockey. Mrs. Alexander's Her Dearest Foe, and Miss Fraser-Tyler's Jonathan, both striking stories, are continued; and the editorial departments are well filled, as usual.
P. R. Felton, publisher, 25 Bond Street, N. Y. Price, $5 per year; Two copies, $9; Single numbers, 45 cents.
She Saw Him.
It was up in Iredeil, and it was at a colored camp meeting. The excitement was at its climax. Many were weeping, shouting and proclaiming in joyous tones, how sweet was the salvation they had found. The preachers were walking around and begging in piteous accents, sinners to flee from from the wrath to come—while they exhorted penitents never to turn back; but to pray on until death and hell were robbed of all their terrors. There was present an aged negro woman; for many moments she had been furiously clapping her hands and calling on "de Good man for to cum down; she was ruined, wretched, lost and without hope." All at once her voice arose high and clear above the din and uproar and excitement. "My christian brethren I am happy! my sins is washed away; de blindness is taken from my kivered eyes; de spees of salvation is now put on dem and I see de Ram, I see de Ram, in all his glory! You mean de Lamb, said one of the exhorters! "Can't help it, I wasn't sartin—I knowed it was some kind of a sheep—I see him—I see him—Halleluyah! Halleluyah!"
Lovers Gazing at the Gate Post.
No one but a close observer of human nature has noticed that lovers always bite the top of the gate pickets as they stand to say a few words more before separating. Exchange.
Since reading the foregoing a few days ago, a reporter of the Observer went out to interview all the gate pickets around the dwellings of marriageable young ladies in this city, and finds the tops of all such fearfully masticated. On the top of one he found an old tooth, which he had seen before. He did not say much about it, but remarked that he put it in his pocket to keep the dogs from stepping on it. What if some other fellow now tackled that old tooth, supposing it to remain there, (revenge is sweet). The old fashioned way of expressing it, but we prefer the latest style. "We gnawed at the same gate posts."

Richmond.
What the Observer's Local Picked Up During Sunday Afternoon and Evening.
RICHMOND, VA.,
Sunday Night, Oct. 24th.
DEAR OBSERVER:—
I arrived here this afternoon about 4 o'clock. The train was delayed and I was too late to attend the funeral of Gen Geo E Pickett, which took place at Hollywood Cemetery, the ceremonies beginning about 3 o'clock. I regretted this very much, as my chief object in leaving home on Saturday night, was to get here in time for this ceremony. I have been able to learn from spectators, however, that it was by far the largest and most imposing funeral that ever took place in this city. It being Sunday, almost all the citizens, irrespective of age, color or class, turned out, and these, together with the large number of visitors already here, formed a procession quite two miles in length, a great part of the crowd being eight abreast at that.
The escort of honor consisted of all the military companies of Richmond, both white and colored, Knights Templar, Knights of Pythias, and all the Masonic and Odd Fellow Lodges, and other secret societies. Two bands of music formed a part of the procession, and these played solemn marches on the way to and from the city. The first of the procession was the "Old Virginia First Regiment," next Gov Kemper, then a cannon wagon on the top of which was the casket containing the remains of the hero of Gettysburg; after these followed the lamented warrior's war horse, with the General's saddle and boots thrown across his back; the horse walked all alone behind the cannon wagon. After this the most striking feature of the display followed the military, the societies and citizens riding and on foot.
A large number of the business houses and private residences were draped in mourning, and the scene and surroundings, as the vast multitude moved through the streets, are described as having been highly impressive. At the grave short addresses were delivered, and after the remains had been deposited and the grave filled, three volleys were fired in honor of the lamented dead, after which the crowd returned to the city, the last arriving about dark. We neglected to state in the proper place, that the artillery wagon was covered with crape, and that the coffin was wrapped in flags of the late Confederacy. It will be remembered that, at the time of Gen Pickett's death, the remains were deposited in a vault in Norfolk. They were disinterred on yesterday, with imposing ceremonies, and brought to Richmond, where they laid in state at the Capitol during a part of Saturday and last night.
Day after to-morrow will be one of the greatest days that Virginia ever knew. Richmond is already well filled with strangers, and hotel men tell me that by to-morrow night their houses will be chock full. They have been receiving letters and telegrams for a month past from persons from abroad, desiring to engage rooms in advance for this occasion. The statue of Jackson is in the lower part of the Capitol building, boxed up as it was received from England. The rope and tackle have been prepared, to move it from its present position, and the pedestal upon which it will be placed, has been completed; this is situated near the northern entrance to the Capital grounds.
I spent the time after my arrival this afternoon, in strolling around the Capitol and through the principal portion of the city. The magnificent equestrian statue of Washington, is wreathed with cedar and other evergreens, in preparation for the event of Tuesday, and is more than usually grand and beautiful. It is worth a trip to the "City on the James," at any time, to see this splendid specimen of art.
As yet Mr R S Gray and myself are the only Charlotteans here; a number of others will arrive this evening. It is fortunate that we are here in time, otherwise we would have had difficulty in securing quarters. As it is, I am very comfortably situated at the Exchange and Ballard Hotel.
As it is late Sunday night, I will cut this letter short here. I am aware that it is a dull one, and shall endeavor to make my next more interesting.
Yours, &c.,
C.

Personal.
We were pleased to receive a call last night from Mr. N. Night editor of the Wadesboro Argus, one of the most reliable weeklies in the State. After Mr Evans of the Milton Chronicle, Mr Night is probably the oldest man in the newspaper business in the State but he looks as if he had at least forty years of usefulness in him yet.
Geo H. Snow, a prominent young lawyer of Raleigh is in the city for a few days.
W. H. Hartsin, the genial gentleman and popular representative of Darby & Co. of Baltimore is registered at the Central.

Our Readers Along the Line of the A. T. & O. R. R.
We were informed last night that the Sunday morning's issue of the OBSERVER was not handed Capt Myers on Monday morning, as was also the case the Monday preceding. This is the first intimation we had of any irregularity in the prompt delivery of the papers and will remedy the seeming neglect in the future.
A Thing Needful to Charlotte.
For the past six months there has been many and important improvements constantly going on in our city. The ring of the trowel on the brick walls, the familiar call for mortar and the monotonous clink of pickaxes upon the pavements throughout the summer and fall, proves conclusively that Charlotte is thoroughly alive and progressive. The streets are now sound and solid. Brother Yates says when the macadamizing is going on, that gold sparkles from the rocks—so when the farmer comes with his produce and cotton, his wagon travels upon the firm, hard-money oasis of good roads. We are second only to Atlanta in railroads as the shrill whistle of the engines throughout the day and night testify. We have railways which stretch their long iron arms to the four winds of the heavens and bring the trade and commerce of every section to our midst. But we are deficient in passable dirt roads leading into this commercial centre. We are gifted with a soil peculiarly adapted to the formation of mud, which renders the thoroughfares for vehicles almost impassable. Now the plan we suggest would improve Charlotte, we think, more than any other that could be adopted and in a much shorter period of time. There are many idle criminal vagabonds who serve out their sentences in the calaboose and jail at heavy expense to the taxpayers and to the impoverishment of the town. Let them be put to work in macadamizing the four principle roads leading from Charlotte. Even though they should not accomplish more than half a mile a year each way, still that would be of immense benefit to the place. Splendid dwellings would be erected with the extensions, stores would spring up, property in the out skirts would increase in value, and after awhile tracks for street cars would be laid so as to conduct men living at a distance to their business. The cause of humanity and religion as well as that of interest, demands that some action of this sort should be inaugurated. The drivers would swear less, the beasts of burden would receive less abuse and cruelty, and a great gain made by the farmers in the saving of time and the wear and tear of wagons and vehicles of transportation. Let our enterprising Mayor and Board of Aldermen think it over.

A Capricious William Goat.
It was on the outskirts town beyond the corporate limits, and the boys were amusing themselves with the antics of a pugnacious goat. One urchin more fortunate than the rest, had overcome an indulgent parent with the argument in favor of inflation, and had thereby purchased a whole pack of fire crackers. The goat's tail seemed the most natural place to put them, and on the goat's tail they were tied. A match was applied to the fuse, off the crackers—so did the goat. With bliant voice, and fiery eyes and leaps that measured many yards in length, he passed over blocks of real estate with an agility that would have reflected credit upon a race horse. Like Lot, he looked neither to the right nor left, nor to see the scorching fire behind. He could not escape the mistakes that played upon his rear, but he was determined that no object should harass his front. A dog tried it and that dog is now numbered with the dead. A small lady was going his way though not with the same rapidity. Her pin-back received a severe and violent shock. A low heavy gentleman gifted with a fine, protuberant bay window, came in contact with the resistless head. He doubled himself up in a manner inconsistent with his corpulent dignity, sat down in the dust and mournfully regarding the broken panes his damaged window had sustained. After his collision with the wounded gentleman, he overtook a darkey boy, carrying a basket of eggs, elevated him for a moment on his horns, quickly laid him on the road side and left for parts unknown.

DIED.
In this city, on Sunday afternoon, 24th inst., Essie, daughter of Wm M and Sallie A Wilson, aged 9 years. The funeral took place yesterday evening at 3 o'clock, at the First Presbyterian Church.
