CITY BULLETIN.

The streets didn't look very rioty, yesterday.

The new advertisements are interesting this morning. Read them carefully.

The Commercial National Bank has declared a dividend of five per cent.

Josh Billings is to lecture at the Opera House in this city on the evening of February 14th.

The masonic fraternity of this city did not celebrate St. John's Day by any unusual demonstration.

Messrs T J Patrick & Son have their presses in working order, and are ready to proceed to business.

The recent heavy rains have delayed the trains on nearly all the roads, particularly the freight trains.

Quite a number of houses are advertised for rent in this morning's paper. Rents ought to come down.

The sportingly inclined amused themselves during the Christmas times by a few chicken disputes.

The interest coupons of the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad will be paid on and after January 1, 1876. See advertisement.

J S M Davidson has removed his family grocery to two doors East of Burwell's corner, on Trade street. See his card in another column.

There were never before so many reserved seats taken so far ahead, as have been for "The Old Curiosity Shop" to-morrow night. All the choicest seats have already been sold.

Hungry for the OBSERVER are you? Well here it is, bright and new as ever. It starts out on its career for '76, this morning, full of hope and encouragement from its many and valuable readers.

Mr B N Smith is moving his stock of groceries to the stand lately occupied by J S M Davidson, on Trade street, near the Market House, where he will henceforth conduct business.

A Masonic Lodge was instituted yesterday, at Mt Mourne, on the A. T. & O. Railroad, and officers were elected. Some of the brethren were present from this city, and returned home last evening.

A telegram from Wilmington announces that the Neptune Fire Company of this city, took the premium in the contest of colored firemen at the fair of colored people, in that city on Tuesday.

The riot of last Saturday is still upon all lips, and remains the principal topic of conversation. Hundreds of little incidents are related in connection with it, and almost everybody has some addition to make to the general story.

The Traders' National Bank, (Late the Farmers' Savings), has been moved into its new quarters, in the new banking house next to Burwell's drug store on Trade Street. The bank has just declared a semi annual dividend of five per cent, and the stockholders will have their annual meeting on the 11th of January.

Messrs Sciple & Sons, Atlanta, Ga., Under the head of "Special Notices," this firm, of Atlanta, Ga., offers special inducements to buyers of coal and lime, among our readers. Atlanta claims to be able to furnish us both coal and lime cheaper than any other market. If this is so, these gentlemen ought to be able to build up a good business, and we predict it for them.

Personal. W B Wilson, of York, S. C., with his bride, Mrs. Miller, both having many friends in this city, registered at the Central on last evening.

We had a call last evening, from Mr C A H Hatch, agent of the Widman Comedy Company. He says the company may appear here last of next week or the first of the week after.

The Courts. Excepting the cases of the white man and negro who were committed to jail for participation in the Christmas riot, there were no trials in any of the courts, on yesterday, which are worthy mention. An important case was brought before Justice McIninch, but was postponed. It will excite interest when it comes to trial, as it involves very grave charges.

One of the Wounded. We understand that on Saturday night last, a party of negroes carried one of their color to the place of Dr. John Hunter, near Sardis Church, about six miles from the city, the negro having been shot during the riot in this city on that day. Assistance was called for, and a son of Dr. Hunter having examined the negro, found a bullet lodged in his leg. He removed this with his knife, and the wounded man, we suppose, will recover.

Charlotte at the Wilmington Colored Fair. The following is from the Wilmington Star, of Tuesday, The Wilmington Colored Fair, of Charlotte, numbering some 40 members, arrived by special train on the Central Railway about 12 o'clock this morning, and proceeded under the escort of the Committee of the Cape Fear Steam Fire Engine Company of this city, preceded by music, to the engine house of the latter company, where they will be entertained.

The special train also brought nine carloads of visitors to the colored Industrial Fair now being held in this city, from Charlotte and other points on the line.

The Weather.

Is horrible. Rain has been falling almost incessantly ever since Monday night, and everything is flooded. Still there is no indication of any letting up. It is to be hoped that, with the end of the rainy spell, we will have also an end of the warm spell. The weather is very unseasonable, and everybody feels the effects of it.

Change of Schedule.

Another change of schedule, and one more satisfactory to the general public, goes into effect on the Charlotte and Statesville Railroad on Friday next. On and after that day, the train will leave Statesville at 6 a. m., and arrive Charlotte at 10 a. m.; returning leave Charlotte at 3 p. m., arrive Statesville at 7 p. m.

The Hop To-Night.

This is the night for the holiday hop of the Charlotte Dance Club. It will be held in the special dining room of the Central Hotel, and will be largely attended. Quite a number of visiting young ladies are in the city, and these will add great color to the occasion. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, omnibuses will call for ladies at their residences, to convey them to the hotel.

The Reason Why.

Col. John B Palmer, President of the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad, informs the Augusta Constitutionalist that it was not his desire to take off the day train on his road, but that he was compelled to do so on account of the discontinuance of the day train on the Richmond and Danville Railroad; that his road was never doing a better business than now, and that the day train would be resumed as soon as he could get a train on the other end to connect with.

The Carriers and Their Addresses.

On behalf of the carriers of the OBSERVER, we return their thanks to the city subscribers of the paper, for the Christmas with which they were greeted on Christmas Day. Their success was quite as good as they had expected, and the receipts from them added materially to the amount of their Christmas money. They made from $3 to $12 each, and the total amount realized by them, reached nearly $60.

Changed Hands.

Mrs H F Daniels has retired from the management of the restaurant under the shoe store of Smith & Forbes, and it has been leased by Mr. M O Teasdale, who is fitting it up in excellent style. It will be called the Commercial Dining Room. Mr. Teasdale comes to our city well recommended. He has secured the services of Mr. O W Badger who will assist him in the management of the restaurant and who will, as everybody knows, do his part well.

The Hymeneal Torch.

Another one of our fellow-townsmen has enlisted in the large and ever increasing army of Benedict. Mr. W A Lucas, of this city, was married on Wednesday, the 22nd inst., at the residence of the bride, to Miss Rebecca Cureton, of Camden, S. C., and has reached home with his bride. Quite a number of friends attended a reception given on Tuesday afternoon, and extended their congratulations and expressed their good wishes to the newly married pair. May peace, long life and unalloyed happiness be theirs.

John T. Raymond.

The advance agent of the great comedian has visited Charlotte and billed it; the advertisement appears under the proper heading of "Amusements," in our advertising columns this morning. Raymond, as "Col Murr Berry Sellers," will be here on Monday evening next. We need hardly say more. He is one of the greatest of all living comedians, and his fame is as wide as this continent. He has immortalized both himself and Col Sellers. He is to Sellers what Joe Jefferson is to Rip Van Winkle. It is his specialty and has already made his fortune. He has packed houses night after night in New York and other of the great cities, and his reputation is growing with each day. No one who can find room in the Opera House, should fail to be there on Monday night. A gentleman living here, who saw the great actor not long ago, remarked the other day that "if he had money enough he would buy Charlotte a ticket when Raymond came."

Innocent's Day.

This festival occurred day before yesterday. It is variously styled Innocent's Day, the Holy Innocent's Day and Childermas Day or Childermas, and has been observed from an early period in the history of the church as a commemoration of the barbarous massacre of children in Bethlehem, ordered by King Herod, with the view of destroying among them the infant Saviour, as recorded in the Gospel of St. Matthew. It is one of those anniversaries which were retained in the ritual of the English Church at the reformation. In consequence, probably, of the feeling of horror attached to such an act of atrocity, Innocent's Day used to be reckoned the most unlucky throughout the year, and in former times no one who could possibly avoid it began any work or entered on any undertaking on this anniversary. To marry on Childermas Day was especially inauspicious.

The Holidays.

After a suspension of three issues, we resume our publication this morning, feeling more vigorous than ever, and better prepared by recreation for the resumption of our labors. During the time of our suspension, a very exciting and unfortunate event has occurred in the city, and is detailed elsewhere. Aside from this, there has been no unusual event in the city. The Christmas season has been an unusually dull one. Since Friday night last, when a portion of the young people engaged in a masquerade ball, there has been no kind of general amusement, and even the fire-works being lacking, there was nothing save the large number of people on the streets and the closed business places, to indicate that the Christmas season was on hand. It will be marked in the history of Charlotte for years to come, as a day of riot, drunkenness and bloodshed, but aside from this one event, as one of the dull and least joyous Christmas Days, that the place ever knew.

BLOODY RIOT ON CHRISTMAS!

One Negro Killed and Six or Eight Wounded.

Several Whites also Slightly Wounded.

Whiskey Cause!

The Christmas of 1875 will long be remembered in Charlotte as an occasion of riot and bloodshed. Many remarked in the morning that the day was an unusually quiet and dull one. Most of the stores were closed and there was a total absence of the accustomed display of fire works and other amusements, characteristic of the annual festivities. The mob of both races paraded the streets early, visiting the bar-rooms and shouting in their drunken orgies; yet all seemed peaceably disposed until noon, when several fights of minor importance took place. No bad blood was, however exhibited until a countryman, by the name of Thos Wilson, got into a fight with several negroes. That was the commencement of the trouble. There are many conflicting reports as to the one who originated it, but the supposition is that Wilson while riding a mule, was followed and ridiculed by the negroes, and when he attempted to use a stick upon his tormentors, he was pulled off and roughly handled. The whites seeing him thus imposed upon, came to his assistance. Then commenced an indiscriminate throwing of brick-bats and firing of pistols. A panic arose and the innocent as well as the guilty were set upon. The colored troops as well as the whites, as a general thing, fought nobly. In all it is estimated that there were about fifty shots fired. Many discharged their pistols into the ground and air in hope of quieting the riot, but with no effect.

Whiskey Cause!

Mr C H Elms, in passing along the street at the time, was attacked by a number of negroes, the first of whom was Shepherd Johnson, who was afterwards killed. Mr Elms was uninjured.

Whiskey Cause!

A Kentucky horse drover, by the name of John Farris, was riding along the street, when the negroes fired upon him wounding his horse in several places. He is described as having acted with great fortitude and coolness. He drew out a large six-shooter and, raising in his excited horse, took deliberate aim at his assailants and fired until the last barrel was emptied. A negro caught him by the leg, but received a powerful blow from the pistol across the head, which felled him to the earth, and the Kentuckian in the same cool manner left the field of battle.

Whiskey Cause!

It was difficult to tell which was the more dangerous to fight or to flee. Flight seemed to be a conclusive evidence of guilt, and several found that their legs were unable to fly faster than the stones and other missiles sent to overtake them.

Whiskey Cause!

A peaceably disposed negro named Ike McDowell, received a right lively castigation for his desertion of the fracas of which he was an unwitting witness.

Whiskey Cause!

The negro Shepherd Johnson, fought stubbornly, and cursed the whites until a bullet pierced his heart and he fell dead in his tracks. Three or four whites received slight contusions, and seven or eight negroes were wounded, none we believe mortally. Many whites and blacks both, when the pickets commenced to pepper, hid themselves in the most convenient corner. One negro lay close to the wall of a building and shut himself up in a manner like a pocket-knife while both races took refuge behind a safe in the streets, that was being moved into the new building of the Traders' National Bank. Many now believe, who never thought so before, that these safe was not only fire proof, but a life saving institution as well. There was nothing of a political nature about the trouble. It took its origin from drunkenness, and much regret is felt by all good people at the serious and unfortunate affair. Some drunken negroes are still making threats of vengeance, but we think that the ruling spirit among them will frown and discourage anything so unwise and suicidal on the part of the blacks.

Whiskey Cause!

The city authorities, being apprehensive of trouble, put a heavy special police force on duty on Saturday night, but there were no further disturbances of any kind.

Whiskey Cause!

On Sunday morning, Coroner Alexander summoned a jury of inquest, consisting of B J Shannhouse, I Simpson, W F Outhbertson, C M Query, J K Purefoy, W H Lindsay, W H Farrior, R E McDonald, J Hollis, J P Shelton, J A Young, Jr., and J W Wadsworth, and proceeded with it to Market Hall, where the remains of Shepherd Johnson had been placed, and there held an inquest. A number of witnesses were examined, and the investigation was continued over to Monday, when further testimony was taken. About 20 witnesses were examined, and all the evidence being in, the jury returned that, "being charged and sworn to inquire how and in what manner the said Shepherd Johnson by his death came, upon their oaths do say that on the 25th day of December, by a pistol shot in the right breast, by the hand of some person to us unknown, in a general riot."

Whiskey Cause!

Though the result of the investigation was not such as to fix the fatal shooting upon any one in particular, enough was adduced to warrant the arrest of the following persons: Green McAnay, Bob J Smith and Thos Wilson, white, and Richard Johnson and Jim McFather, colored. Smith and Johnson were committed to jail on yesterday; the others gave bond for their appearance. Smith is a fellow who made his first appearance in the city on Friday, and the impression prevails very generally that he is responsible in a large degree for the riot. He it was who, in the commencement of the trouble between Wilson and the negroes, sided with the latter and urged them on, telling them that he was a Northern man; that he had fought for them once and would do so again; that he believed in fair play and would stand by them.

Whiskey Cause!

It is strange that, among so many shots, so few took effect. This shows that the whites were either very much excited or else that they did not shoot to kill; the latter explanation is the more probable. Some of the balls lodged in the third story of the Central Hotel, and some passed through the windows of the third story of Brem, Brown & Co's hardware store.

This riot has been very much exaggerated in places distant from Charlotte, and hence it is all the more important that an accurate account be given of its origin and extent. This, we think, is done above.

A Robber Captured.

The Atlanta papers of Tuesday, chronicle the capture in that city on the day previous, of a young man, A M Alderman, who had for some time past been running as an agent of Wooden's Express, between this city and Wilmington. When he arrived in Atlanta, he was observed to have a large amount of money, in the use of which he was very lavish, and a detective soon settled down upon him as a robber. He arrived in Atlanta on Sunday morning, and was closely watched from that time until the next day when he was observed driving in a carriage to car shed, just before the time for the train on the Georgia State Road to leave. He was accompanied by a woman who had promised to go West with him, to Arizona or Utah, and when the carriage stopped, the young man went into a restaurant near by to get some baggage which he had left there. It was at this time that the police swooped down on him and claimed him as their prisoner. He first attempted to draw a pistol, and being disarmed, then offered the officer a bribe to release him. He was carried to the guard house, and there gave his name first as Jno W Benbo, of Boston, then as James Green, of Chicago, and finally as A M Alderman, of Wilmington, N. C. Upon his person was found $1,190.75, which was taken charge of and put in a safe.

A Robber Captured.

He was detained until a telegram was received from Mr Love, Superintendent of Wooden's Express, asking that he be held, and stating that the money which he had was a stolen package of $1500, for Rockingham, N. C.

A Robber Captured.

Alderman has a brother who is a conductor on the Carolina Central Railroad, and as soon as he heard of this affair, he left for Atlanta to investigate it. It is probable that he and his brother will both arrive in Charlotte this morning, the latter in charge of an officer, and that he will be carried on to Wilmington.

A Robber Captured.

Mr J M Leak, the agent in this city of Wooden's Express, informs us that Alderman left the express office on Saturday morning last with his freight, and started to the depot; that he (Mr L) thought he had gone out on the train, until some time up in the day when he heard that Alderman was in the city. He searched for him then, but failed to find him. He left here on the Air-Line train that night.

A Robber Captured.

The young man's connections are highly respectable, and on their account the affair is to be deplored.

Katie Putnam.

The Charlotte favorite appears at our Opera House to-morrow evening, for an engagement of two evenings and a matinee. The popular rejoicing at her re-appearance here, is very great, and there is now every indication that the Opera House will be jammed. To-morrow evening she gives us "The Old Curiosity Shop," which is the equal of any of Dickens' other creations; and how well Miss Putnam will take the parts of Little Nell and the Marchioness, need not be told those who saw her when she was here last. We believe it is conceded that in these characters she has no equal on the American stage. We are informed by Mr Calhoun, that she has a strong company this season, and that Mr Sullivan, the leading heavy man, makes a very excellent Swivel. If her company is even passable we will have a delightful entertainment, for Katie herself will cover a multitude of short comings. We would be glad to have Miss Putnam receive the same ovation with which she met here last season, and we have no doubt that she will.
