

Protracted Meeting.

The interest in the services at Tryon Street M E Church, is growing with each meeting. The spacious church was filled last night, and deep interest was manifested in the exercises. Presiding Elder Bobbitt preached a strong semon, which had a marked effect upon the congregation. The number of penitents has been steadily on the increase ever since the meeting began, and last night there were 10 or 12 at the altar. Rev W W Duncan, of Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C., is expected to preach to-night.

MILLINERY,

The executive, legislative and judicial appropriation bill was up in the lower house of Congress a few days ago, but nothing has yet been heard here regarding it. There was a faint hope that, in the appropriation providing for a certain number of mints, an amendment might be tacked on providing for the re-equipment of the Branch Mint here, but this was a forlorn hope for the future of the Mint, and it is probable that even if the amendment was offered, it was killed. We fear that it is all over with the Charlotte Branch of the United States Mint.

STOCK,

We were glad when we saw it stated in the papers, the other day, that calico dresses are coming in vogue for street wear. Tell you, sir, nothing beats a pretty little figure in a yellow calico dress, pinned back and fastened in a knot on top of a bastle, with a check apton with arm-holes in it, low quartered shoes and woolen stockings, the stock-ings held up by a piece of clothes line, a chip hat on the back of her head and a buggy umbrefis, low-neck and short sleeves, with a tiltereen hoop skirt, the whole toilet surmounted with a life-size photograph of an angel in the form of a breast-pin, and her GOODS, mouth colored with blackberry pie. That's the girl for our young affections, education, he begins life with excellent prospects, and has every reason to hope that he will one day attain to distinction in journalism. There is something in the stock from which he springs, and he will not prove unworthy of his lineage. Our right hand is extended to him, and our best wishes are with him. Mr. Chambers was in the city yesterday, on business for the Landmark.

Capt. J. C. Luck retires from our contemporary, the Danville (Va.) News, of which paper he was one of the founders, and is succeeded by Messrs. Manning Bros., who assame entire control, and to whom we wish continued prosperity.

The Lecture To-Night.

We wish to impress upon the public mind the fact that Prof Tripp lectures to-night at hima. the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Chapel, having for his subject, Lamartine, the poet, orator and statesman. The lecture is said to be one of the strongest of the course. Certainly the subject furnishes a fine field. and we cannot doubt that the lecture will be in every way worthy of it. We sincerely trust that the room will be crowded, as it will be an occasion from which a vast amount of pleasure and profit can be derived. In order to give our readers an idea of the lecture, we re-produce here what was said of it by the National Republican, when it was delivered in Washington City :

"Lamartine and all of the famous career of the eventful life of this great poet-statesemblematical of the Persian Triads. man, was beautifully and richly described to a select and intelligent audience last night, at the Methodist Protestant Church, by Prof Tripp. This was the closing lecture of the course, and each one of his delighted audience regretted that it was the last. The Mr Robert Tate to Miss Mary A., daughter of Mr George Strayhorn deceased. All of Professor has given a series of lectures marked with an elegance of diction and Orange county. beauty of delineation which has placed him in the hearts of his hearers as a learned and polished scholar and an eloquent orator."

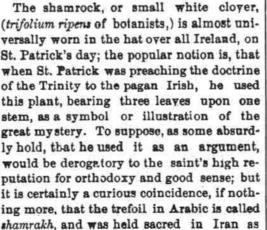

The Courts,

At the Asylum in Raleigh, Feb 29th, 1876, Mrs Margaret M Turrentine, consort of the late James C Tarrentine. In her 64th year. There was nothing of a reportable nature before any of the courts on yesterday, excepting the cases of the yagrants against

A popular legend relates that the saint and For his followers found themselves, one cold morning, on a mountain, without a fire to cook their breakfast, or warm their frozen limbs. Unheeding their complaints, Patrick direct, them to collect a pile of ice and snow balls; which having been done, he breathed upon it, and it instantaneously became a pleasant fire. The greatest of St. Patrick's miracles was that of driving the venomous reptiles out of Ireland, and rendering the Irish soil, for ever after, so obnoxious to the serpent race, that they instantaneously die on touching it.

As the birthplace of St. Patrick has been disputed, so has that of his burial. But the general evidence indicates that he was buried at Down-patrick, and the remains of St. Columb and St. Bridget were laid beside
