Kilbourne Will Submit to the House -No Recommendation for Pardon for the Crooked Men Received-The Senate Discussing Rules-The W U Swallows Up the S& A.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1.-The World says the firm of Kilbourne & Latta have decided, it is understood, to address the Speaker of the House, announcing their willingness to submit all testimony in their possession, including their books and papers, relating to the real estate pool, to the committee examining that subject; also that on Sunday, if not to-morrow. a resolution of Mr. Tarbox, to investigate the Union Pacific scandal with which Mr. Blaine's name has been connected, will be adopted.

The Republican says that District Attorney Dyer has not forwarded from St. Louis any recommendation about the pardon of ex Collector Maguire, but private advices say that he will not approve the petition to the President for his release. It is understood here that Dyer's declaration is based upon political considerations. The same answer will be made in regard to the application for the pardon of McKee. The Senate is discussing the proposed amendment to the rules governing impeachment trials, so as to provide that the deliberations of the Senate on the questions submitted shall be in over. Sherman, of Ohio, called up the House joint bill, explanatory of the law allowing the Commsssioner of Internal Revenue to issue special tax stamps to persons carrying on the business of retail dealers in liquors, tobacco, &c., upon railroad trains and steamboats. He sent to the clerk's desk and had read, a message from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, stating that such licenses expired to-day, and it was necessary to have the joint resolution passed before renewing them. Sherman said the only object of the resolution was to relieve persons engaged in such traffic from penalties which might be imposed under title 35 of the revised statutes. The joint resolution was passed.

Impeachment: Pending McDonald's motion to rescind the order allowing the respondent the close of argument, Blair, by unanimous consent, spoke against the motion to reseind.
