THE CENTENNIAL.

The Opening Lay-Immense Crowd Present-Imposing Ceremonials-Opening Address by the President-Distinguished Personages, &c., &c.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10 .- It is a legal holiday. All business is suspended. The Centennial gates were opened at 9 o'clock. The sky was clouless. The foreign commissioners and other distinguished visitors had a special entrance and were seated without confusion. Full fifty thousand were on the grounds. The ceremonies opened with the airs of all nations, under the direction of Theodore Thomas, prayer by Right Rev Bishop Simpson, a hymn by John Greenleaf Whittier, the Presentation of the buildings to the United States Centennial Commission by Centennial Commissioner John Welsh, cantata by Sidney Lanier, of Georgia presentation of the exhibition to the President of the United States, by Jos. R Hawley, and the proclamation of the opening of the International Exhibition, of 1876, by the President, as

"MY COUNTRYMEN: It has been thought appropriate upon this Centennial occasion, to bring together in Philadelphia for popular inspection, specimens of our attainments in the industrial and fine arts and in literature, science and philosophy, as well as in the great business of agriculture and of commerce. That we may the more thoroughly appreciate the excellencies and deficiencies of our achievements, and also give emphatic expression to our earnest desire to cultivate the friendship of our fellowmembers of this great family of nations, the enlighted agricultural, commercial and manufacturing people of the world have been invited to send in friendly competition with our own. To this invitation they have generously responded, for so doing we render them our hearty thanks. The beauty and utility of the contributions will this day be submitted to your inspection by the managers of this exhibition.

We are glad to know that a view of the specimens of the skill of all nations as well as yield to you a valuable prac-tical knowledge of so many of the remarkable results of the wonderful ton. skill existing in enlightened communities. One hundred years ago our country was new and but partially settled, our necessities have compelled us to chiefly expend our means and time in felling forests, subduing prairies, building dwellings, factories, ships, docks, warehouses, roads, canals, machinery, etc. Most of our schools, churches, libraries and asylums, have been established within an hundred years. Burthened by these great primeaval works of necessity, which could not be delayed, we yet have done what this exhibition will show in the direction of rivaling older and more advanced nations, in law, medicine and theology, in science, literature, philosophy, and the fine arts. Whilst proud of what we have er will prevail. done, we regret that we have not done more. Our achievements have been great enough, however, to make it easy for our people to acknowledge superior merit wherever found; and now, fellow-citizens, I hope a careful examination of what is about to be exhibited to you, will not only inspire you with a profound respect for the skil and taste of our friends from other nations, but also satisfy you with the attainments made by our own people during the past one hundred years. I invoke your generous co-operation with the worthy Commissioners, to secure a brilliant success to this International Exhibition and make the stay of our foreign visitors, to whom we extend a hearty welcome, both pro-fitable and pleasant to them. I declare the International Exhibition now

At 10.30 A. M., Dom Pedro was escorted to a seat by Gen Hawley, followed by Gen Phillip Sheridan and wife. They passed over from the building to the stand in front of memorial hall, during the rendition of national airs, greeted with great applause, and closely followed by Hon J G Blaine, Senator Jones, of Nevada, and wife. The President entered through memorial hall and was conducted [to a seat on the front of the platform. Gov. Hartranft. Gen Hawley and Hon D J Morrill, occupied seats on his left, while Messrs Jno Welsh and Goshorn were on his right. Fred Douglass, by some mischance, worked his way through the crowd and was helped over the ropes by the officers and conducted to a seat on the platform. He was greeted with cheers. At 11.03 the "Wagner Centennial Inauguration March" was performed by the orchestra, under the direction of Theodore prayer, during the rendering of which the majority of the vast assemblage stood with uncovered heads.

All a Mistake About Buckner.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 10.-Bearing on an extract telegraphed from the Star, information is furnished to the effect that Buckner, the Collector at Louisville, is not a defaulter but was robbed by his cashier, who afterwards committed suicide; that a petition is before Congress, endorsed by persons of all parties in Kentucky, for Buckner's relief, and that the late Mr. Miles is not among Buckner's bondsmen.

Consuls Beat to Death by Musselmen -History of the Outrage-Castellar Favors Liberty of Conscience.

PARIS, May 10 .- The Correspondence Universelle says the foreign governments have forwarded the following account of the origin of the disturbance at Salonica to their legations at Paris: The American Consul was at a railway station when his attention was attracted by the cries of a christian girl. She was surrounded by a score of musselmen, who wanted to take her forcibly to the Mosque. The Consul took the girl under his protection. While he was seeking information as to her nationality, the German and French Consuls were separately informed that a woman belonging to their separate nations had been dragged into the Mosque. They consequently repaired to the Mosque where they were beaten to death. The Paris correspondent of the Times learns that the American Consul, fearing that the mob would succeed in forcing his house, sent the girl to the German Consulate. The mob in the Mosque compelled the German Consul to sign an order for her delivery, and then murdered him.

Clews Testimony on the Account Transfer-Indictments for Creoked

NEW YORK, May 10 .- Henry Clews was examined by the Naval Committee to-day. He testified that he knew the President was actuated infavor of remov ing government accounts from Baring Bros. & Co., by reason of the menacing attitude existing between the United States and Great Britian, in consequence of the Alabama Claims. The President considered it safest for the government business and secrets to be confined to faithful, patriotic citizens rather than to those who would be likely to join the enemy in case of hostilities.

The President was of opinion that the duty of the government gave all honorable advantages in its power to its own citizens in preference to foreigners. Clews' house was engaged in new railroad enterprises, but so was the Baring Bros.' Clews stated that he had paid no money to an officer of the government or any other person for their influence.

Several parties were indicted by the Grand Jury in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, on a charge of complicity in crooked whisky frauds.

Petitions for Pardons.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 10 .- A strong application has recently been made to the Attorney General and the President for the pardon of a large number of illicit distillers in the South, particularly in Gergia, but acting upon the views of the revenue officials, thus far no pardons have been granted. The applications seemed to be for a wholesale pardon of these prisons, the cases being those of comparatively slight of-
