COUNTRY BACON.

A FINE LOT OF NICE COUNTRY HAMS A SHIRT. STITT, WALKER & CO., jun17

Frederick William Robertson's posthumous volume contains this passage: "In the darkest hour through which a human soul can pass, whatever else is doubtful, this is at least certain. If there be no God and no future state, yet even then, it is better to be generous than selfish, better to be chaste than licentious, better to be true than false, better to be brave than to be a coward."

I have lately met with an ancient saying in respect to the development of a youth. "At five," the precept reads, "he was to study the Scriptures; at ten, the Mishna; at thirteen, the Talmud; at eighteen, to marry; at twenty, to attain riches; at thirty, strength; at forty, prudence, and so on to the end."
