delivered before the Convention :

Mr. President and Gentlemen: In accepting the honorable post to which you have called me, that of your standard bearer in the great struggle for reform, which you have begun, I do so with the most grate-LONDON, August 17 .- It is reported ful appreciation of your kindness and the most prefound sense of the high duties, the grave responsibilities pertaining to the position, in the better days of our country, when the surest passports to official station were found in the ability, the honesty and the integrity of her public servants, the most distinguished sons of South Carolina looked upon the chief majistracy of the State as the goal of their highest ambition and the best reward of their public services. If men of such deserved estimation the destinction of being thought worthy by their fellow citizens of the highest office in the gift of the State, in the days of her prosperity and peace, how much more highly should I esteem the honor you have done me, by calling me unanimously to lead you in this hour of gloom and peril. You are struggling for the highest stake for which a people ever contended; for you are striving to bring back to your prostrate State the mestimable blessings which can only follow orderly and regulated liberty, under free and good government. We believe that these blessings can only be secured by a complete change in the administration of our publicaffairs, national and State, and believing this our sympathies, and our interests lead us naturally and inevitably into alliance with the great party upon whose banners are inscribed the watchwords of Democracy, reform, good government, hard money and nome rule. You have endorsed and accepted the platform of the Democratic party adonted at St. Louis and planting yourselves firmly on that, you look forward hopefully and confidently to a victory in which you will not only share, but to which you will have contributed. The platform which you Berthaut, as General of a Division of have adopted here is so catholic in its spirit, so strong in its foundation, so broad in its construction that every man in South Carolina who honestly desires reform can find room to stand upon it. With such a platform when citizens of all parties and all races can stand assured of equal rights and full protection, you can surely bring back to our destracted state the great blessings of good government, For myself, should I be elected to the high position for which you have nominated me, my sole effort shall be to restore our state government to making no vindictive discriminations, holding the scales of justice with firm and impartial hands, seeing as far as in me lies that the laws are enforced in justice, tempered by mercy, protecting all classes alike, and devoting every effort to the restoration of prosperity and the re-establishment of nonest government, Thanking you, gentlemen, for the honorwone have conferred upon me, and invoking the blessing of God on your praiseworthy efforts to redeem our state. I hereby pledge myself to work with you in that sacred cause, with all the zeal all the energy, all the ability and all the constancy, of which I am capable. I am capable.
