Turco-Serbian War Aspect.—A continuation of the War Probable—English Preparations for the Safe Keeping of Fenian Prisoners.

London, Sept. 28.—The Times' Belgrade dispatch says: "There is much reason to fear that Prince Milan and his ministers are no longer their own masters in the question of peace. If the war continues and every thing points in that direction, it will be an ex-Russian war in Serbia, until it assumes something more definite. The only chance for peace lies in Turkey's prompt acceptance of all the conditions of the powers. Hundreds of Russians are arriving daily. The situation is most alarming for peace with Russia, and a delay of a single day may prove fatal to Turkey and peace."

Vienna, Sept. 28.—A correspondent of the Times declares that the decision of peace or war is in Tchernayeff's hands.

London, Sept. 28.—20,000 pounds worth of American eagles were withdrawn from the Bank England yesterday for shipment to the United States. The Daily Telegraph says that during the last few days, the sentinels at Chatham prison have been strengthened to prevent any surprise by the Fenian convicts. They are carefully watched and not allowed to mix with the other prisoners. Their actual place of confinement is known only to a few wardens.

YELLOW FEVER CONTRIBUTIONS.

MARYLAND.

Entertainment for the Benefit of Suffering Savannah.

Baltimore, Sept. 28.—The Academy of Music was crowded during a voluntary entertainment for the Savannah sufferers and French Benevolent Association. Col. Chas Long of Maryland, a soldier of the Khedive, lectured. Several pieces were sung by a Russian Prima Donna.

TENNESSEE.

Memphis Responds to the Cry of the Distressed.

Memphis, Sept. 28.—$4,000 was collected to-day by a committee and sent to the mayor of Brunswick.

VIRGINIA.

Norfolk Contributes $1200.

Norfolk, Sept. 28.—Twelve hundred dollars has been raised in this city by private subscription for Savannah. This makes $2500 sent from here.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Prominents Awarded at the Centennial.

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—The following awards were made to-day: "John F Taylor, Charleston, S. C. steam and hydrolic cotton press; Tappen & Neel, Petersburg, Busley's Power Balling press; D A Anderson, Richmond, photographs; Knoxville Marble Company, colored marbles; John C Meyer, New Orleans, badges, jewelry and gold work; F H Berk & Son, Mowing, West Virginia, oak sole leather; Madison County Pottery Company, Richmond Va., pottery; Wallace Bros, Statesville, N. C. indigenous plants, used in medicine; Mann & Valentine, Richmond, Valentines meat juices."

Mid-Night Dispatches.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 28.

For the South Atlantic States, East winds, warmer, partly cloudy weather and falling barometer will prevail with possibly local coast rains.

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—To-day having been set apart by Gov Hartant as Pennsylvania day at the Centennial exhibition, all business has been suspended, and the down town streets are nearly deserted. All places of business are draped in bunting, and the city wears the same appearance that it did on the tenth of May, the day on which the exhibition was opened. There were 180,000 cash admissions to-day.

WASHINGTON.

Washington Notes.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Eighty thousand Pacific Railroad bonds held secure. Notes withdrawn, four halves substituted.

$888,000 legal tenders has been destroyed.

Robeson returned.

Total amount of National Bank notes issued from January 14, 75 to September 23, 76, is nearly 17 million dollars, and legal tenders destroyed nearly 182 millions.

FOREIGN.

Death of a German Sculptor, &c.

London, Sept. 28.—Earnest Bendel, German sculptor, is dead.

Vienna, Sept. 28.—Count Terwaroff, aide-de-camp to the Czar, arrived here to-day. He had an interview with Francis Joseph.

Vigo, Sept. 28.—Hunt and Sands, who were with Tweed, sailed for Southampton to-day.

London, Sept. 28.—A deputation representing the Protestant Missionary and Bible Societies, had an interview with Earl Derby to-day in relation to intolerant regulations of the Spanish Government. Earl Derby after pointing out the difficulties in which the Spanish Government was placed by strength of the clerical party, and various of wording of the articles of constitution relative to religious toleration said: "Nothing in the article however justifies the closing of Protestant schools, and I do not think the government will so interpret it. Probably many cases of hardship are due to the over zeal of subordinate officials. I think with regard to the acts of intolerance which are clearly not sanctioned by the toleration clause of the constitution, that when the Cortes has formally proclaimed the freedom of worship subject to certain limitations, there can be no question that we have a right to interfere if their promise is violated, but a more difficult case is, when the question at issue is the proper construction of the law. I personally have no doubt but that it is an exceedingly forced and strained construction of the law to prohibit as an external manifestation and singing in church, or worshipping with the door open so that passers by may look in. I think we have a right to claim that the law should not be construed unfavorably to the rights of foreigners in Spain, because they undoubtedly have been encouraged to settle there upon the understanding that they should be free from this kind of annoyance. I suggest that where those affected think it worth while to remonstrate, they should send me their complaint, and an inquiry shall be made."

FLASHES.

New York, Sept. 28.—The disabled steamer England, which was towed into St Johns in a disabled condition, has arrived here.

London, Sept. 28.—The bark Maria Keedo, Belfast to Wilmington, ashore. Belfast Lough in a dangerous position.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—Miller Irish team 107, Menzies of Scotch 103, Slade Australian 108. Highest of respective teams in two days shooting.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 28.—The schooner Nollie Longdon from Darien, Ga., for Bridgeport, arrived here, reports gale seventeenth. She lost her sails and ten thousand feet cargo lumber; also lost the steward.

Savannah, Sept. 28.—Edward C. Anderson, Jr., a banker of this city, died last night at Garyton, Ga.

THE BEAUTIFUL HAND.—Three fair young girls were seated on a mossy bank by the borders of a rippling stream which flowed in silver beauty by their feet. It was a beautiful picture. The sun was gilding all things with a golden brightness and lighting up the features of the young and mirthful damsels who were merrily engaged in wreathing garlands of wild flowers, and decking each other with the garlands woven by their own fair fingers. By and by they began to compare the size and beauty of their hands, and each disputed with the other that hers were the loveliest of them all. One washed her hands in the limpid stream; another plucked the wild strawberries and stained her finger tips a ruddy pink; the third gathered sweet violets until her hands were redolent with their fragrance. An aged and haggard woman clad in the garb of meanest poverty, drew near, saying, "Give me of your charity; I am very poor." All three denied her but a fourth girl who sat close by, unwashed in the brook and unstained with fruit, unadorned with flowers, gave the poor woman a little gift and received her thanks. The daughter of poverty asked the subject of their dispute, and they told her, lifting up their beautiful hands, "Beautiful indeed!" said she. "But when they asked her which was the most beautiful she said, "It is not the hand that was washed in the stream, it is not the hand that is tipped with red, it is not the hand with the fragrance of flowers, but it is the hand that gives to the poor which is the most beautiful. The loving heart and the kindly hand," said she, "are always beautiful, and where these are not, there is no beauty."

"Right," said uncle Charlie; beauty is but skin deep, and I would much rather have the rough brown fist and iron hook of kind hearted Sailor Jack, than the fairest hand that ever wore diamonds, with a proud smiling heart behind it." The good Book tells of One whose hands were pierced with nails and whose visage was more marred than any man's; and yet He was the fairest among ten thousand and altogether lovely; and the more we aim to be like Him, however plain in feature, rude in form, or coarse in raiment, the more beautiful we are."

A little Swedish girl, while walking with her father on a starry night, became absorbed in contemplation of the skies. Being asked what she was thinking of she replied: "I was thinking if the wrong side of heaven is so glorious what must the right side be?" Exactly so. It glimmers that we catch here of the summer land unseen afford us such glory and joy what must it be to be there?"

At a meeting of the Secretaries of the State Granges.

At a meeting of the Secretaries of the State Granges, at the Centennial the other day, "one of the most important matters considered was the statistical returns of the order. It will be understood that the Secretaries have full knowledge of all progress or decline in the subordinate granges and therefore are constantly prepared to answer in figures not only in regard to the numerical strength of the order, but as to the life and activity manifested. It will be gratifying to the membership to receive the statement, that the order in every state represented, with a single exception, was shown by the returns to be in a healthy and prosperous condition. And in the exception there was no sign of a decline. The retarding cause was plainly seen in an imperfect organization of the state body a difficulty which will have correction in due season.

So far as the several States represented, with the exception stated, may be objects of solicitude to those without the pale of the order, who assert that its decay is far advanced it may be well to say that there are actual additions in every element of strength, for the statement was fully verified by the exhibits made at the meeting. Certain facilities for comparing the returns with similar ones in other orders were offered by several members whose immediate connection entitled them to such information. There was in the comparison additional proof of the sound condition of the order. The report of Husbandry has advanced in a period which must pass into history as the most trying in business affairs among all those marked "hard times."—Elmira (N. Y.) Husbandman.

Professor Huxley is of medium size and height. His form is somewhat bent. His face is thin and chisled with deep lines. He looks like a studious, dyspeptic oligarch who has tried to live on half a salary and failed in the attempt. The vigor and subtlety and force of his public lectures and essays, which abound in trenchant criticisms and defiant challenges to popular beliefs give the impression of an athletic and powerful personality and make the appearance of the rather slight, pale-faced student professor somewhat disappointing. The disappointment is increased by his speech. His voice is husky and badly managed.—Graphic.
