The old panic is renewed, and a most trustworthy gentleman has travelled with the utmost haste to Constantinople to inform the British ambassador that the Turks threaten new massacres, and have even appointed a day for the beginning of the slaughter.

A Vienna dispatch to the Times says: Not only from Constantinople but from all the provinces of European Turkey, is there news of the growing excitement among the Mohammedans of the conventicles held in the Mosques, and of the armaments. The ministry is divided against itself and and the Sultan is too experienced to take the leadership of affairs.

Thus the position is most favorable fos Russias diplomatic action.
