

Below we give the thrilling and eloquent editorial of the Indianapolis Sentinel upon the perilous condition of the country. For graphic description and burning, impressive eloquence, we have rarely ever seen it surpassed. It says: "The very latest advices from Washington leave no room for doubt or controversy. The United States of America are in the eye of a revolution. In South Carolina a decided effort was made by the Supreme Court to maintain a government of law against physical force. It has signally failed. Fraud has triumphed or will triumph. If military force can avail, Grant's order to sustain Chamberlain is conclusive. Chamberlain has issued his edict. He has crossed the Rubicon. The telegram that conveys the information is the death-knell of American liberty. The great heart of the nation ceases its pulsations while it reads and listens. If there ever was a demand for crime, now is the time. Let muffled drums beat the funeral march of liberty. Fraud—deep, premeditated and damning—is guarded by Federal bayonets. Courts are overthrown. Law lies prostrate beneath the iron heel of a despot. The time is now at hand for calm councils. If the country has patriots, let them come forth and speak. If liberty is not dead it should now stand up and be strong. If there are great and grand words to be spoken, in God's name let them be uttered now. This is not the time for vaporing. Every man in America should feel that he is an iron-clad patriot, a single turted monitor on a stormy sea, watching to give one broadside for freedom before she sinks forever out of sight. The country demands statesmanship now. Calm words, earnest words, that will sink down into the hearts of men like lead into still water—words that will germinate noble thoughts and great deeds, and such sacrifices as have distinguished all lands and all men worthy to be free. Grant believes that he owns the cemetery where he will bury American freedom out of sight. But rather than that, let "cremation" be the motto, though hell be the oven where its ashes are urned.

When a man expresses a desire to smoke, and his wife unlocks a chest and hands him a five-cent cigar, there can be no doubt that the average American husband is under proper subjection.

Grant says that the sword is mightier than the ballot. Grant's sword is made of steel and that is why he believes so strongly in its efficacy.

Chamberlain grows very pathetic about the close of his so-called inaugural address, and sheds crocodile tears as large as the average plantation horse apple. Catch them, somebody, in a hogshead until the instrument is full. Then put the carpet-bag conspirator in head foremost and mark the package to his home in Buzzard's Bay, Massachusetts, where he was raised. We will pay the freight.

What the South Carolinians think of our "Commons" is the editor of the Greenville News who has just returned from a trip to Columbia, proceeds to go for the illustrious trio made up of Bond, Dennis and Settle, without mercy. He says: "Why South Carolinians should be scourged with these men, only God knows; and we submit to His will, with the confidence that in His own good time, He will enlighten us."

We now stand in the midst of stormy and tempestuous times. The great ship of State that has successfully battled so many threatening storms, now leans upon her side in the trough of the sea, while the angry winds and raging elements seem to sing the dirge of "Is that so about Oregon?" We have to stop to explain Tilden's chances and the manner in which he now stands in the electoral college; we hope to finish the above editorial some time next week provided we get through giving the desired information about Oregon by that time.

Our friend Carl Schurz's "Proclama-tion" says that Schurz is a man of many idiosyncrasies, but nevertheless his head is level upon most of the exciting causes that are now fast merging this Republic into an absolute monarchy. For instance, he cannot reconcile himself to the sight of Federal bayonets gleaming in the Legislature halls of Southern States. Carl was raised in Germany and somehow a dragooned State is not exactly consistent with his idea of a free government. Carl generally says what he thinks and he cares very little whom it displeases. He is a Republican and supported Hayes, but he comes out in a strong letter protesting against the Radical policy of military interference.

Richard Rumbold remarked some two hundred years ago: "I never could believe that Providence had sent a few men into the world ready mounted and spurred to ride, and millions ready saddled and bridled to be ridden." Rumbold would be very much surprised if he could now witness the spectacle in this country of a few men booting and spurring millions to ride, and saddling and bridling millions to be ridden, without any assistance whatsoever from Providence.—Courier-Journal.

The New York Herald says: "The last annual message of President Grant is the emptiest document of the kind ever sent to Congress, but it has the merit of being short."

Who Dennis is. [Springfield Republican.] HARTFORD, Nov. 29.—It is singular how many Connecticut yankee "bummers" turn up in the Southern troubles. A few days ago I sent you a sketch of J. R. G. Pitkin, the Louisiana United States marshal. I notice now that "General" John B. Dennis turns up as United States marshal in South Carolina, charged with the duty of "seeing that none but republicans stand guard to-night." This Dennis is another carpet-bagger from Connecticut, who has gotten rich by plundering the "prostrate State." He is a North-boy, who went out in the Seventh Connecticut regiment as captain, and when the real work of the war began resigned and turned sutler. Having made money out of the soldiers during the war, he got a brevet as general for what the Lord only knows, but he was very poor at the close of the war, and since has been a prominent member of the republican ring in South Carolina. If Bob Pitkin and John Dennis are to elect our President, we might as well give up having any Presidents.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY. Session of 1876-'77. [Condensed from the Raleigh News.] SENATE. FOURTEENTH DAY. WEDNESDAY, Dec. 6. The Senate was called to order at 10 o'clock, President Robinson in the Chair.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES. Various reports were presented from standing committees. The following was presented by the Judiciary Committee: "The Judiciary Committee find that chapter 97, section 1, of Battle's Revised Statutes, prescribing that the joint committee on printing be directed and instructed on the part of the State of North Carolina, to make, execute and deliver a contract for the printing of the laws, and that such contract has been made, executed and delivered and due report made by said committee. The State is prohibited from passing any law impairing the obligation of a contract. The provisions of this bill would only apply to future contracts, and the committee see no necessity for its passage and ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the bill and accompanying memorials."

BILLS. By Senator Cunningham: To regulate the practice of dentistry in North Carolina. Referred. By Senator Liles: Bill to protect birds. Judiciary. By Senator Troy: A bill for the protection of paupers. Propositions and Grievances. By Senator Moore, of Mecklenburg: To amend chapter 15, laws of 1871-'72, and to re-enact chapter 273, section 1, laws of 1868-'69. Referred.

CALENDAR. Bill to prevent miscegenation. Indefinitely postponed. Bill to amend section 4, chapter 87, of Battle's Revised Statutes, so as to make an amendment on the part of a husband for three years without the consent of his wife, a sufficient cause for divorce, was passed over informally. Bill to commute and settle the State debt. Referred to joint committee on State Debt. Bill to extend the time of the sheriff of Iredell county, was indefinitely postponed. Resolution requiring Clerks of Courts to report to the public treasurer the amount of fines and forfeitures, for the past four years, was amended by the committee and passed its readings.

Bill for the relief of tax payers of North Carolina, given them until January 1st, 1878, to redeem lands sold for taxes indefinitely postponed. Senator Folk and Scales supported the proposition, and the rules being suspended, the bill passed its second and third readings, and was sent to the House without engrossment. Resolution in regard to the oppressiveness of the revenue laws, and urging our Senators and representatives in Congress to use their efforts to secure a modification of these laws, came up and was passed. By Senator Troy: A bill to incarcerate convicts in the penitentiary for the period of one year and more, until there shall be 450 convicts confined therein. Upon motion of Senator Troy, the rules were suspended and the Senate entertained the bill. Senator Moore, of New Hanover, offered an amendment. After some debate the previous question was called by Senator Stanford and the call was sustained. The amendment was put and failed. The question then recurred upon the original motion, and the bill passed its second reading.

AN AFFECTING EPISTLE.—A beautiful young lady who had allowed the tendrils of her heart to twine fondly around a strapping, great conductor of a horse-car, had her affectionate nature crushed by the discovery that he was taking fare from here and dead-heading another girl who lived in the same street. She did not eat pickles and pine away, but wrote him an affecting epistle, which read: "You want to knock down enoff stamps to buy me a prister shawl & a dolly yardin before Sunday, or I will put an avving over that girl's eye the next time I meet her in Society.—You hear me."

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES. Mr. Henderson, from the Committee on Privileges and Elections, submitted a report adverse to the claims of J. W. Dunham to a seat in the House of Representatives as a member from New Hanover county.

Both of the reports are long and elaborate and consumed much time in their reading. The minority report also contained a resolution declaring that J. W. Dunham was not entitled, and that the election for members of the House in New Hanover and Pender counties illegal and void.

Both reports were placed on the calendar. RESOLUTIONS AND BILLS. By Mr. Cooper. A resolution to require the President of the Western N. C. Railroad to report the progress of the claim against G. W. Swenson. Placed on the calendar.
