Further Evidence of Well's Rascality.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13-The Commission met at 11 o'clock. Clifford announced that two hours only should be allowed for each side, and that the Commission was ready to hear objections to the Hayes' Electors certificates. Senator McDonald opened, claiming that the Hayes' Electors were not | the laws of Louisiana to prove his state legally elected, quoting from the statutes of Louisiana, showing two sets of Electoral laws. Whether one law was repealed by the other, or whether they should run together, the proceedings of the Louisiana Returning Board were alike irregular and unlawful.

SENATE.-Mr Patterson of South Carolina presented the credentials of D T Corbin, claiming to have been elected United States Senator from the State of South Carolina for the term of six years from 4th of march, 1877. The credentials were signed by D H Chambertain as Governor of South Carolina. They were read and placed on file, no objection being made to their reception.

M. Donald and Jenks are making a strong case, and apparently a strong impression on the court. There is no change in the situation as indicated by the expressions of confidence by either side. Each asks the other: "Do you give it up?" and each answers, "NO!"

AFTERNOON SESSION. The House was engaged all day in debate on the reports of the Flerida Investigating Committee, the majority report declaring the Tilden Electors to have been fairly elected and the minority the Hayes Electors.

There was but little interest in the debate until Furman, of Florida, rose and censuring his party a-seciates in the North for the indifference which it had shown to the results of the election in the South, and for the blunder it had made in refusing to admit Pinchback into the United States Senate from Louisiana. He declared that though a staunch Republican he felt it his duty to say that the Tilden Electors had been duly elected in Florida, and he characterized the Canvassing Board of that State as a bold, unscrupulous, fraudulent body. His speech elicited much applause from the Democrats, who gathered around him and paid close attention to his remarks.

Mr Hurlbut, one of the objectors to cer ificate number 2, of the Tilden papers, after briefly reviewing the history of Loui-iana for several years since, claimed that the Kellogg government has been officially recognized by the A Republican Congressman Declares the President of the United States, and by both Houses of Congress. John Mc-Enery had not attempted to exercise the functions of Governor since 1874, and now comes forward and attempts to give certificates to the men who claim to have been elected Tilden elec tors. Mr Hurlbut read one of the cer tificates to show its peculiar phraseolo gy, and that McEnery did not sign him self as Governor, but used the great seal of the State. He had no seal, nor did he have any office.
