The Electoral Commission

We clip the following special telegram and items from the Atlanta Constitution:

Florida has gone glimmering .- Democratic indignation is fatigued, calm resignation has come. - The democrats now have no hope but Oregon, and that is exceedingly slim. Having stolen Fiorida, the returning board will not hesitate on a technicality. Plaisted, of Maine, a leading republican could see no possible way of getting sround LARDthrowing out one vote from Gregon. Blackburn, who was on the Louisiana committee, says this evening, that there are two inetigible republican electors in Louisiana certain, who will be thrown out under the ruling of the BUTTERboard. I dropped in at the Tilden headquarters to night and asked Mr. SUGARS. Coole what the outlook was! He replied: "We will whip the fight, there is no doubt of it. If you find a democrat weakening, give us his name and we will pay his way home. He has no Molasses business here," at which Mr. Chas. O'Conor laughed and exclaimed. "That's the way to talk !" A further talk showed several contigencies under which the Tilden men hope for victory but I must confess they are remote TEAchances. The radicals are determined Fishto hold their judges down to business. I am afraid Gov. Brown will have to MACKEREL. unwind his red bandana and get on a peace footing.

There doesn't seem to be any luck in odd numbers for the democrats. FLOUR-Seven is odd enough, but nine, in the present emergency, would be odder and luckier

The miner's sweetheart had jilled SHIRTINGShim. He loaded his six shooter and wrote his landlady this little missive: 'I am tired of life, and will blow out my brains in the cemetery to night. My rent is paid up to the 8th. I do this because life has become a burden to me.' He then set out for the cemetery which he had fixed upon as the scene of blood. On his way he took a short cut across a thick ranch and was attacked by a savage bull-dog. Thinking that he had enough in his six barrels for self and dog, he opened on the animal but in the twinkling of the eye the owner of the ranch covered him with a shot gun. He fell en his knees, begged for life and made his most object GINGHAMSapologies for his presence there. His life was spared Instead of hastening Linsersto the cemetery and blowing out his brains, he returned to the city, and lunching on beer and sandwiches told his landlady that he had changed his mind, and then took another girl to a Virginia City theatre,—N. Y Tribune.

It is related of Judge Davis that in Worstenthis circuit at Indinapolis a lawyer named Ketchum was ready when his case was called but his opponent had sent word that he could not arrive for for an hour or two. Ketchum insisted on proceeding at once. Judge Davis remonstrated in favor of the absent lawyer, but to no purpose. "Well," said he finally, "if you insist upon going on Mr. Ketchum, you have, of course, the technical right to do so, but if I were you, I wouldn't urge the WINESmatter. Over at Springfield the other day there was just such a case, the lawyer would insist upon going on with the trial, and so I had to look after the interest of the other party myself-and, do you know, curiously enough, Mr. Ketchum, we beat him! Mr. Ketchum decided to wait.

POOR WEAR WOMAN .- Miss Susan Nipper, who lived in a small tenement, a lone woman, was quite flustered the other morning by an early call from a bachelor neighbor. "What do you come here after?"

said Miss Nipper.

"I came to borrow matches," he meekly replied.

"Matches! That's a likely story. Why, don't you make a match? I know what you came for," said the exasperated old virgin as she backed the bachelor into a cornor. "You came here to hug and kiss me nearly to death! But you shan't without you
