Throughout the Empire of Morocco there are villages where the elder members of the adult population follow professionally the pursuit of fattening young ladies for the matrimonial market of Porton and professional professi monial market of Barbary. The Moors, like the Turks and most other Orientals, give a decided preference to "moon-faced" wives over lean ones, and are more solicitous as to the num-ber of pounds which their brides weigh than about the stock of accomplishments they possess. A girl is put under the process of fattening when she is about twelve years of age. Her hands are ned behind her, and she is seated on a carpet during so many hours every day, while her "papa" stands over her with a matraque, or big stick, and her mother from time to time pops into her mouth a ball of OPAT C MEDICINE COMPANY, 562 couscoussou, or stiff maize porridge, kneaded up with grease, and just large enough to be swallowed without the patient choking. If the unfortunate girl declines to be crammed she is compelled, so that ere long the poor girl resigns herself to the torture, and be beaten.

Some years ago, writes a contempo-rary, the "crack" linen draper's shop in the Grande Rue of Pera was kept by Tompkins & Marengo. Mrs. Tompkins was a Swiss, and sat behind the counter dispensing gloves and cosmetics to Turks, Greeks, Jews, Americans and other nationalities. By her side sat a pretty, light-haired Swiss girl, who had picked up a smattering of Turkish Pashas to the shop in quest of chain, is next, it being 6,672 feet she was disgracing herself by such an high, only 35 feet lower than Black alliance, and endeavored to lure her back to recollections of her native land by telling her how happy her lot would be as the bride of a tradesman in Berne or Lucerne.
