The Princess has been thought to take a philosophical-or sha'l I say royal?—view of these mat-ters. A remark is imputed to her Great Revival in the Southern Army during which, if she really made it, would confirm that theory. "Bertie," she is reported to have said, "has loved many women, but he has loved me best of all " And in truth, whatever else has been urged against the Prince, nobody ever accused him of the lesser domestic sins-of treating his wife coldly, or failing in all outward attentions or in constant kindness of manner. This is wretched gossip, and I don't see what entertainment the All the late papers and magazines. American people can find in it; if they like it, so much the worse for them.
