TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

A WESTERN ZEPHYR.

A Wind and Rain Storm Play Great Havoc in Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan.

CHICAGO, ILLS., June 25.—The Western Union Telegraph Company is in receipt of news that a terrific wind and rain storm, which apparently started in the vicinity of Kansas City, is now raging in northwestern Missouri, and over the entire State of Iowa, in a large portion of Illinois and sections of Michigan.

LATER.—About 1:20 p. m. the storm struck this city with great force, and during the twenty minutes that it lasted, a vast amount of rain fell, and considerable damage was done. The wind blew with great fury, overturning teams and buses, demolishing signs, breaking glass and doing other injury.

No More Indian Fighting—Movement of Troops.

LEWISTON, OREGON, June 25.—No further fighting is reported. Colonel Miller left Lapwai on Thursday evening for Mount Idaho with one hundred and fifty men, infantry and volunteers. General Howard left Lapwai last Friday with one hundred and twenty-five cavalry, a portion being volunteers.

Washington Notes and Appointments.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—An interesting interview between Colonel Keating, the editor of the Memphis Appeal, and the President, is published. It was statistical in its character. The President thought that the people of the South should encourage the immigration of vigorous and enterprising men of the North.

General Dockery, who has been in Washington some days, manifesting North Carolina affairs, unsuccessfully however, in the case of Hyman, left for home highly satisfied.

District Attorney Lusk, of North Carolina, has arrived with witnesses in Deputy Marshal Franks' fraudulent voucher cases. These cases are interesting as a test, the same loose practice having prevailed throughout the North.

Postmasters commissioned: Wallace, Yorkville, S. C.; Noble, Armonist, Ala.; Bogue, Gallatin, Tenn.

ANOTHER HOLOCAUST.

Immense Destruction of Property—No Loss of Life.

BOSTON, MASS., June 25.—A fire broke out in Marblehead at 2 o'clock this morning, and swept away nearly the entire business portion of the town.

It began in the stable of the Hathaway House, and is believed to be incendiary. All the large shoe manufactories, but three, are now in ruins. These were mostly large wooden buildings, filled with machinery, and furnishing employment to hundreds of men and women, who are thrown out of employment. The Eastern Railroad depot, seven passenger and a number of freight cars were burned. Over forty dwelling houses were consumed. The occupants saved but a small portion of their furniture, and only the clothes they had on. Seventy-two buildings in all, were consumed. The fire is now under control.

LATER.—The fire broke out in rear of the Marblehead Hotel, on Pleasant street, and from this small beginning spread until fifteen acres of buildings, including every shoe factory but five, in the town, were burned.

THE RUSSO-TURKISH WAR.

The War to be Continued A Pour-trance—Heavy Losses in the Turkish Army—How the Crossing of the Danube was Effected.

Beginning of Operations on the Danube.

The Prince of Montenegro Shot by his own Soldiers.

LONDON, June 25.—A dispatch to the Standard from Constantinople, via Athens, says: "The Chamber of Deputies in secret session has voted for the continuance of the war, a Pour-trance, even if all Europe combines against Turkey."

A telegram to the Standard from Constantinople direct, asserts that Dervish Pasha, on Saturday attacked the Russians, investing Batoum and drove them from the heights.

The Standard Vienna correspondent says that it is stated that notes have been exchanged between Austria and England as to the character and significance of the measures of preparation decided upon by these two States. The Times' Athens dispatch says: "The news of the passage of the Danube has strengthened the war party. A battery of mountain artillery have already left for Lunia on the frontier, and another will leave immediately for Kuraranser. There is a general movement of troops."

The Times' correspondent at Catinji telegraphs: "The Turkish losses are absolutely incalculable. All Sunday afternoon the artillery and rifles have been firing on the column as it moves down the valley. The pursuit will be kept up until the column reaches the protection of the guns of Spuz, while it still has to run the gauntlet of the Plamenatzs division at Murinit."

The Vienna correspondent of the Times says: "The Montenegrins are said to have lost almost one-seventh of their forces. Especially the insurgents appear to have suffered very severely. Numbers of the Montenegrins are beginning to cross over to Cotlaro and Budna, so that it has been thought advisable to strengthen the column along the frontier."

The Daily News' Ibrail correspondent telegraphing Friday, sends long details explaining how the crossing was effected. The Russians at Ibrail completed the bridge undisturbed by the Turks. "Every one understood on Thursday that the crossing was postponed, both on account of the delay in the Czar's arrival, and because a large force of Turkish troops had been discovered in ambush, not far from the bridge. However, Gen Zimmerman suddenly disappeared from Ibrail during the night. This morning a little after daybreak, the people of Ibrail were awakened by the sound of artillery and musketry on the other side of the river, showing that the Danube must have been crossed. Gen Zimmerman had gone to Galatz and crossed the Danube with two regiments of infantry, and a proportionate amount of artillery and cavalry, in a number of boats towed over by steam launches. The distance traversed in the boats seems to have been over three miles; the Turks seem to have made a very stubborn resistance."

The latest advices from the Danube show some bloody, but no serious or determined opposition to the crossing, either at Ibrail or Galatz. A special dispatch from Bucharest to the Times, dated Monday, says: "Preliminary operations on the Danube have commenced in earnest. The bombardment continues along the whole line to-day. The Turks are reported to be preparing to concentrate their forces on the lower Danube."

The fall of Tultcha and Sulina cannot be far distant, as the Turkish forces occupying these points are cut off from their lines of communication and reinforcements. A special dispatch from Vienna to the News confirms the foregoing. A Vienna dispatch also says the next crossing will probably be at Trenou-Magureli in a few days. Thus the Russians can outflank from two sides, at least two strong fortresses of the quadrilateral, besides cutting the connections of Shumla. A Vienna dispatch to the second edition of the Standard says it is reported that the Prince of Montenegro has been killed by his infuriated soldiers in consequence of the recent serious defeat. The report is unconfirmed, but Prince Nicholas' whereabouts have been unknown for a week.
