TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

THE LAST ECHOES.

WORKMEN GUARDED BY SOLDIERS.
 A Grand Jury Exculpate the Baltimore Regiment.
 BETHLEHEM, Pa., August 3.—No trains were allowed to pass the Pennsylvania Haven Junction on Wednesday. There are three hundred regulars with artillery in the vicinity, to support receiver Lathrop in working his road.
 CLEVELAND, August 3.—The train men of the Lake Shore road will resume work to-day. General Manager Newell made some technical concessions to the men. The shopmen and freight house hands continue the strike.
 CAIRO, ILL., August 3.—The levee negroes last night attempted to prevent the coaling of the low boat, Norfolk, and assailed the coalers with a shower of stones. Mr. Anderson, the mate, put them to flight by a few shots from a revolver, and the coaling proceeded without further interruption.
 WILKESBARRE, August 3.—Rumors are rife of trouble at Plymouth. Last night the railroad was blockaded by a crowd of men, women and boys. The telegraph wires between here and that place have been cut. Trains on the Valley Railroad have not yet been started. A freight train at Fairview, sixteen miles from here, was detained by the strikers. Superintendent Mitchell has called upon the sheriff to go to Fairview with a posse and disperse the strikers, but the sheriff has not yet acted. The military are waiting for the civil authorities to exhaust their powers.
 PITTSBURG, August 3.—An accident occurred at the Lucy Furnace Company's works this morning, resulting in the death of two men, and the injury of five others. Seven men were engaged in hitting a furnace, working on a scaffold supported by ropes. These ropes broke from the furnace, and the scaffold fell, precipitating the men into the furnace. Julius Harding and Michael Cusick were taken out dead. Five others were so badly burned that they are not expected to recover.
 SCRANTON, August 3.—Some four thousand troops are along the road. The trains are all guarded, and the feeling is very bitter with a large class of employees. The wires were cut at Plymouth. No resumption is possible, for several days.
 BALTIMORE, August 3.—The following is an extract from the verdict of the coroner's jury: "The said regiment was on duty under order of the authorities of the State of Maryland, when attacked by a great number of disorderly persons, and in danger of being killed. The soldiers should have acted as a body only under orders of the commanding officer in clearing the streets of a hostile mob, and in so far as are blameable as soldiers, in disobeying the orders not to fire; though, nevertheless, as no orders to fire were given, the soldiers were commended for their own protection to defend themselves individually as well as they could. Still, the jury are of the opinion that the soldiers being demoralized, a great deal of unnecessary firing was done on Baltimore street, especially west of Gay street. The responsibility for the killing of these persons rests entirely with the rioters who attacked the soldiers."

Miscellaneous Washington News.

WASHINGTON, August 3.—Hal Gasing, of Tennessee, has been tendered the Rotterdam consulate.
 The War Department has accounts of the movement of troops in various directions, but no reports of disturbances to-day.
 Ex-detective C. S. Bell, who was arrested last night on a requisition from the Governor of Texas, on a charge of murder, was released to-day by Judge Humphreys.
 An investigation of the charges against Collector Freeland, of Brooklyn, has been ordered. This is Beecher's friend.
 Collector Russell, of Richmond, has been sent for to make some explanations.
 It is stated positively that the Cabinet has decided not to open the charges against Russell, Collector at Richmond. These had already been investigated.
 Governor Drew, of Florida, is in Vermont, with Judge Bradley, who is hearing in chambers some very important railroad questions.
 Frank M. Isaac was appointed postmaster at Oxford, Ala., to-day.
 The Cabinet considered Utah matters in connection with the indictment of certain Mormon leaders.
 Sherman has called another ten millions of consuls of 1875.

To the Victors Belong the Spoils.

RICHMOND, Va., August 3.—Judge Hughes, of the United States District Court, decided that the gold from the Virginia treasury, which the State officials distributed among themselves on the evening of the evacuation of Richmond, was the property of the United States government, and that the action brought against the said officials by the United States government, can be maintained in his court. The amount involved is $25,000.

The Mississippi Democratic Platform.

JACKSON, Miss., August 3.—The Democratic platform favors the granting of such aid as may be extended without violation of the constitution of the United States, or departing from the established usage of the government, to the Texas Pacific Railroad, and for rebuilding and keeping in repair the levees of the Mississippi river.

THE RUSSO-TURKISH WAR.

The Turkish Force at Plevna.

The Result of the Plevna Battle Destroys the Hope of Ending the War this Year.

Report of a Second Battle Before Plevna.

LONDON, August 3.—The News in its detailed review of the battle of Plevna gives the Russian force as 32,000 infantry, one hundred and sixty field guns and three brigades of cavalry, and says that this defeat makes the Russian hold on Bulgaria extremely precarious and must compel the withdrawal of troops from some other point where they are nearly as badly needed, to beat the Turks at Plevna; beaten they must be, and that speedily, if the Russian army does not forthwith retire ingloriously into the principalities.

The News' Bucharest correspondent, telegraphing on Thursday, says: "The troops recently engaged at Plevna have retired behind the Oama river. The sixteenth division of the fourth corps is crossing at Simnitza, and will probably reinforce them. All the scattered Russian troops now in the principalities have been summoned into Bulgaria. I understand that the Turks are not advancing eastward from their Plevna position, but are passing strong forces from Plevna northward towards Loaca." Berlin papers consider that the battle puts an end to all hope of terminating the war this year and lessens the chance of intervention by Austria or England. The Times' Belgrade correspondent states that there are strong signs of the approaching mobilization of the Servian army.
 Several telegrams confirm the Turkish occupation of Eski Saghara.
 The Telegraph's special from Karaburnar says the Russians lost five guns at Eski Saghara.
 A Berlin dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette says: "The Russian Minister of War has issued orders directing the army corps not yet mobilized to furnish a division each to the fighting army, to be at once despatched to the Danube. The Russian journals deny that the Czar has sanctioned the decree calling the Landwehr to colors, because there is no Law providing that the Landwehr is not to be called out until the entire army is mobilized. All hitherto done consists in preparation for the mobilization of the Landwehr, whenever called out.
 The Daily Telegraph has a special dispatch purporting to give an account of another defeat of the Russians before Plevna on Wednesday.
 A Rome dispatch to the Times says the Pope continues his audiences.
 LONDON, August 3.—The Daily News' correspondent sends from Poreden, near Plevna, a graphic account of Tuesday's battle, the substantial facts of which, are as telegraphed to the United States yesterday. The following closing scenes give a vivid idea of the extent of the Russian disaster. (It will be noticed that the correspondent is with Prince Schackosky's command, and does not purport to give any account of the condition or losses of General Kuedenor's corps.): "And now all hope of success anywhere was dead.—nor did all once offer to make the best of the defeat. Prince Schackosky had not a man left to cover the retreat. The Turks struck without stint; they had the upper hand for once, and were determined to show that they knew how to make the most of it. They advanced in swarms through the dusk on their original first position, and captured the Russian cannons before the batteries could be withdrawn. Turkish shells began once more to whistle over the heads of the Russian troops, and into the village behind, now crammed with the wounded. The streams of wounded wending their painful way over the ridge were incessant. The badly wounded lay mostly where they fell. Later in the darkness a baleful sort of Krankekracker swarmed over the battle field in the shape of Bashi Bazouks who spared no pains in looting there on the ridge till the moon rose, the staff could bear from below on the still night air, cries of pain and entreaties for mercy, and the yells of blood-thirsty, fanatical triumph. It was indeed an hour to wring the sternest heart. We stayed there to learn, if it might be, what troops were coming out of the valley of the shadow of death below, were there indeed any at all to come. It did not seem to be the case. The Turks had our range before dark, and we could watch the flash of flames over against us, and the scream of the shell as it tore by us. The sound of rifle bullets was incessant, and the escort and retreating wounded were struck. As a detachment of Bashi Bazouks came straggling up, but it gave me an idea of the disorganization to say that when a company was told off to cover somewhat the wounded in Radishova, it had to be made up of men of several regiments. About 9 o'clock the staff quitted the ridge, leaving it littered with groaning men, and moving gently, lest we should tread on the prostrate wounded, we lost our way as we had lost our army. We could find no rest for the soles of our feet, by reason of the alarms of the Bashi Bazouks swarming in among the scattered and retiring Russians.
 At length, at 1 o'clock in the morning, having been in the saddle since 6 o'clock on the previous morning, and turned into a stubble field, and making beds of the reaped grain, your correspondent and Cosack alike rested under the stars; but we were not even then allowed to rest. Before 4 o'clock an alarm came that the Bashi Bazouks were upon us, and we had to rouse and tramp away. The only protection of the chief of what in the morning was a fine army, was now a handful of wearied Cosacks.
 Gen. Krudener sent word in the morning that he had lost severely, and could make no headway, and had resolved to fall back on the line of the river Oama. There had been talk—his troops being fresh—of resuming the attack to-day with his co-operation, but it is a plain statement of fact that we have no troops to attack with. The most moderate estimate is that we have
