Other means having failed, we suggest to Gen. Howard the propriety of bestowing upon chief Joseph "a coat of many colors." It might have the effect of making an enemy a friend; or possibly it might excite the jealousy of Joseph's brother chiefs, and cause them to sell him into bondage. Either result is desirable.

The agents of the Russian government in New York City, purchased about four thousand bales of cotton in the city last Saturday, and it will be exported to Russia as fast as possible. Since the outbreak of the war, trade in cotton on Russian account has involved thirty-five thousand bales, worth about two millions of dollars.

The newspapers are now devoting a good deal of space to comments upon Mr. Key's recent speech in Vermont, when he got down in the dirt and thanked the loyal North for the consideration with which it had treated its "erring Southern brethren," and by common consent, regardless of party, Mr. Key is pronounced a very large ass and a very despicable toad.

We are glad to see the press of the State turning its attention so generally to the need of a dog law, which need has for so long existed. If the newspapers would agree not to support for the Legislature any man who refuses to vote for a tax on dogs, it would be a long step in the direction of protecting sheep husbandry. The legislators are so much afraid of the owners of these miserable curs, that they will not vote to put a tax on them unless they are lashed into measures by the force of enlightened public opinion. In this work the press must bear its part. The State has suffered enough loss from the destruction of sheep by dogs, and should not suffer more.

The country is sitting with folded hands, as it were, waiting to see what the autumn has in store; and as the opening of the busy season draws nearer and nearer, the confidence that it will bring renewed prosperity grows continually stronger. The crop prospects are unprecedentedly good; in the South none of our staple products have failed this year or are likely to fail, and with the greatest abundance of everything in the land, why should not the dead-lock be unlocked? If absolute plenty of everything on which man and beast subsist, and a lavish production of the material which clothes the world, will not bring relief to a people who have suffered for four years from a monetary panic, then indeed it is difficult to imagine what would restore the country to its normal condition. With this condition of things the result predicted is almost sure to follow.

These heavy crops—surplus there will be in all lines—will find the country in a most satisfactory condition. For a number of years we have lived altogether too fast. Property of all kinds had had fictitious value; our operations of all kinds were upon an unsubstantial basis; the country, in other words, was financially debauched; men bought and went into debt, and a nation of debtors; the whole country was mortgaged, and it might have been expected that a crash would one day come. Come it has, and the evidences of the wreck are, on every hand. But with it has come more stability of business, more careful speculations and more jealous hoarding of earnings. The country has gotten down to "hard pan." Men have curtailed their top-heavy businesses, paid their debts and trimmed their sails for the first breeze which might arise. This, now, is the auspicious time. The calm is about to cease and traffic is about to resume its wonted channels at a steadier and yet a more certain pace. Money which has been hid away in bank vaults because the men who owned it were afraid to invest it, will again be brought to the light of day, and with plenty of means with which to move the heavy crops of all descriptions and put them upon the markets of the world, an immediate end will be brought to the prostration which has for so long been upon us. With our debts paid and with very little left, we will start again from the bottom and climb steadily up with no restraining causes. There will be no impulsiveness or sudden enthusiasm, no wildness of speculation or heedless venturing in the course of this recovery. The country has been too well sobered by affliction to make this possible again so early; but values will increase gradually, and when the country does again find its proper level, it will build there substantially.

Of course the condition of things pictured will be very much improved if the war in the East should close this fall or in the early winter. A cessation of hostilities between Russia and Turkey would necessarily result in greater activity in our export trade than can be hoped for otherwise; but even if the war should continue it will not, we think, put that check upon our exports which is apprehended in some quarters. The interruption of industry in the East during the present summer, and the destruction which has followed in the wake of the two mighty armies, will leave little grain to be exported by the countries which we have hitherto found our greatest rivals, while any event of a market will be found for our cotton since without it and the fabrics which are made from it England cannot buy food.

In the recuperation of the country much depends upon the action of Congress at its pending session. By a wise policy it can much facilitate our return to the old and better paths from which we have strayed. Prudence and judgment in the management of the financial question will do all for the country which the abundant crops may leave undone, and with such action we must of necessity start on our more upon the highway of prosperity.

ANOTHER IMMIGRATION MOVEMENT.

The Baltimore Gazette states that a number of the workmen of that city, despairing of getting remunerative employment in their respective callings, have determined to emigrate and become farmers. To this end they have formed a colonization society, and are making the necessary preliminary preparations. Their destination at present is Kansas, but there is some prospect of its being changed. The Raleigh Observer refers to the fact that "G. J. Vance, who is ever on the alert to do something for the good of the State has already written to Colonel Beasley formerly of this State, but now of Baltimore, to interest himself in presenting to the committee of the society charged with the duty of selecting a home for the colony the superior advantages of a home in North Carolina, and to assure the committee and the colonists that they will be most eagerly and warmly welcomed in our midst."

THE GOVERNOR'S LETTER, WHICH IS plain and timely, is as follows:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE OFFICE, RALEIGH, Aug. 18th, 1877. W. F. Beasley, Esq., DEAR SIR: Seeing in the paper that a number of the workmen of Baltimore design seeking homes in Kansas of the West. I write to you to represent the Agricultural Bureau of this State, and invite them to make their homes in North Carolina. The difference between the climate of this country and of Kansas is apparent, and lands can be secured here, in farms, large or small, or in great bodies for colonies quite as cheaply as in Kansas or anywhere in the West, outside of the unsold lands of the government. So great is the variety of land we have to offer, from the sea shore to the mountain tops, and so great are our resources in timber, minerals, water power, and all agricultural products, that I am sure we need fear no comparison with any new countries of the West.

Please endeavor to get the agents of these proposed emigrants to come to North Carolina and see for themselves our lands with their crops upon them. Every facility possible will be furnished them for a fair inspection, and their constituents will be heartily welcomed by all of our people should they come to live with us. It is the workingman that we want. Very truly yours, Z. B. VANCE.

The latest reliable news from Senator Morton, notwithstanding all the recent reassuring bulletins, leaves no room to doubt that he is a very sick man, and that his doctors are very anxious about him. "Still," as the New York Sun remarks, "he is a man of really phenomenal vitality, and may live to make Blaine's good deal of trouble in the Senate yet."

How to Start a National Bank.

The New York Mail gives the subjoined account of how the national banks were started. It says that an association of gentlemen in an Eastern State raised $200,000 in currency. They went to the office of the Register of the Treasury and exchanged their currency for three hundred thousand dollar in six per cent. bearing bonds. They then went to the office of the Comptroller of the Currency in the same building, organized a national bank, deposited their $200,000 in bonds and received for their bank $270,000 in national bank currency. They then let the government have $30,000 in currency more than they received for banking purposes, and had on deposit $200,000, on which they received as interest from the government $18,000 a year in gold (and exempt from taxation). This was pretty good financing for these banks to receive $18,000 a year in gold on the $200,000 in currency, which they had just loaned to the government. But this was not the end of the story. They had their bank made a public depository. They soon discovered that there was scarcely ever less than a million dollars of government money deposited within their vaults. They did not like to see this vast sum lie idle. They therefore took $1,000,000 of this government money and bought $1,000,000 of five-twenty bonds with it. In other words they loaned $1,000,000 of the government's own money to the government, and deposited the bonds received in the vaults of their bank, on which they received from the same government $80,000 a year in gold as interest. Thus for the $200,000 in currency which they originally loaned the government, they received annually in all $78,000 in gold.

A NEW HOME FOR NEGROES.—The

negroes of Cincinnati are not anxious to be packed off to Liberia by their Republican "friends." At a meeting held Monday in that city they resolved that, as the negro was not appreciated in either the North or the South, it was the duty of the race to form a colony in some western or south-western State. As to Liberia, they declared that they viewed the scheme "with sentiments of profound dissatisfaction, as ruinous to life and capital." Kansas would be a good State for these people to occupy, or perhaps Nebraska might suit them better, there being a large population of radical Republicans there, who should, according to their professions, share their houses and lands with the new-comers.—Courier-Journal.

Senator Morton is in a bad way, being as our readers know, stricken down for the second time with paralysis. This time his left arm is paralyzed. An exchange describing his condition says for years the lower part of his body has been paralyzed so that he could only drag himself around on crutches. In front of his seat in the Senate Chamber there is erected a bar upon which he can lean when he rises to speak, for he cannot stand without support. Usually, however, he remains seated while addressing the Senate, that privilege being accorded to him on account of his crippled condition. Probably if he should fall down he could not get up alone, for his legs are almost entirely useless. Now his arm is stricken, and he will be still more helpless.

ONE WOMAN'S SWIMMING.—As the Freepoint ferry was taking a load of passengers across the river, and when about half way over, the rope broke. None of the men could swim; the boat was drifting, there was nothing on which it could be pulled, and it length, a strong and healthy Canadian woman calmly took off her shoes and stockings. Modesty forbade the removal of much more. She caught a rope in her teeth, plunged into the muddy current, and swam for the shore. She reached the bank, she hauled the rope to the boat, and the men hauled the boat ashore.—Saratoga News.

Mr. Louis Wahl, a wealthy Chicago

manufacturer and local politician, proposes, by way of relieving distress among the poor of that city, to set them at work on the streets, not however, at public, but at private expense. He offers to give a large sum to pay for such labor at one dollar a day, and has found a second in Mr. B. P. Hutchison, who will pay for five thousand days' work at this rate.

INTEREST TO JUDGE BOOKS.—We learn

through a letter received in the city, that Judge Brooks has been the victim of a serious accident at Nag's Head, one day last week. He was walking on the pier-head, when one of the planks broke and he fell, striking his back so as to prevent his walking without assistance.—Raleigh News.

CASE POSTPONED.—The case of Shaw

against the Southern Express Company, which has been in progress before Justice Maguin for several days, was yesterday, by consent of counsel, postponed until the 1st of September.—Raleigh News, yesterday.

The removal of Mr. C. S. Winstead from his position as collector of internal revenue for the fifth district of North Carolina took place yesterday, his successor being Mr. W. H. Wheeler, of Salem, N. C.

The removal of Mr. Winstead is not intended as a reflection upon his integrity. On the contrary, he is a very respectable gentleman, wealthy and highly esteemed by all who know him, but Commissioner Raum, who is now an official of the strictest business habits himself, has long found fault with the management of Mr. Winstead's office, which unfortunately did not receive enough of Collector Winstead's personal attention, and was left to the control of subordinates. Many serious irregularities were the result.

The frauds on the revenue by the manufacturers of tobacco and the distillers of spirits multiplied with an alarming rapidity. The extent of the frauds may be imagined when it is stated that there are now under seizure no less than eighteen tobacco factories. In this deplorable condition of affairs Commissioner Raum urged upon the President the necessity of a change, and the latter, upon a presentation of the facts, ordered the removal of Mr. Winstead and the appointment of Mr. Wheeler. The new collector is recommended by the leading men in North Carolina. He served for many years in the Legislature, and was a candidate for State Auditor on the Republican ticket at the last election.—Washington Republican, 18th.

Dr. Wheeler, was the candidate on the Republican ticket for State Treasurer, not Auditor. Hon. Wm. M. Everts has eleven daughters, and in reference thereto a correspondent says: "When Mr. Everts travels with his family he carries a cart, but he declines to go to a sleeping-car, and says: 'Give me twelve lower berths and one upper,' because the agent always looks at him and asks if it is a theatrical troupe, and if they have arranged for special rates. So he chartered a sleeper and says nothing more about it. Of course, when Mr. Everts presents that pass for the Hon. Wm. Everts and the other members of the family, but he has learned to bear this with equanimity, and frowns down any giggling that may appear impending on the part of the conductor."

The collector of internal revenue in New Orleans has instituted proceedings against druggists and soda water dealers, who dispense soda flavored with liquor. The government claims that selling soda flavored with brandy or whiskey is retailing liquors, and requires a license. The officials insist that if keepers of soda fountains can evade the law by calling the liquor they dispose of "flavoring," then the bar rooms can evade their licenses by calling the liquors with which they make up drinks "flavoring."

The Channels of Exit

From the human system bear the same relation to it as sewers do to a city. They carry off the waste, the refuse which is essential to remove in order to prevent disease. One of the most salutary effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is to renew activity of the bowels, to remove all the dregs in their duty. The bilious and dyspeptic symptoms which accompany constipation are also remedied by this sterling and invigorating tonic, which can be relied upon to restore the system and its tonic influence is exhibited in an increase in vital power. It renews appetite, soothes the nerves, and restores the system to its normal condition. It is a first-rate remedy for dyspepsia.
