SOMETHING ABOUT FLOUR.

A few years ago there were but two grades of flour made superfine and extra. A standard was established, and all flour offered in the market was inspected. If the superfine was not up to grade it was branded as inferior and a deduction made in its price; the "extra" usually ruled about fifty cents above that of the "superfine."

Whether flour was made to conform to either of these grades it contained all the substances of the wheat, and made good nutritious fread fluche attention has been given to this subject, particularly about. Cincinnati, and the conclusions arrived at are that wheat is now manipulated too much, the result of which is, instead of good family flour, the production of very inferior brands on one side, not fit for inferior brands of th extra. Swimming the English Channel.

For a second time the "strip of silver ea" that parts England from France has been passed by a swimmer, with no other aid than bis own strength and bunyancy. This is a great achievement in an athletic sense, and beyond its mere athletic aspects it implies a wonderful wital power, for we have no doubt that the greatest obstacle to its successful, performance is not the fatigue, but the refrigerating influence of the sea operating for so many hours. The men who can endure that and have also the requisite skill as rewimnot numerous. Captain Webb's sucess in awimming the Channel brought him a rich reward from the admira-tion of his countrymen, and that fact can searcely remain out of sight in considering the motives of the present swimmer. In fact, unless a man can get upward of twenty thousand dol-lars, as Webb did, for swimming over, he had better go by the steamboat. But if people get in the habit of swim
