TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The President Meddling with Ohio Politics—The Presidential Party Moves— and His Effects—Social Science Convention.

Other Notes and News.

WASHINGTON, September 7.—The President has advised Prof. Langdon that his political speeches in Ohio are incompatible with his position as Minister to Hayti.

The workingmen of Baltimore have nominated a thriving blacksmith for mayor.

The cabinet have taken the papers in the Chicago collectorship case.

The Jones versus Smith decision was reserved.

The clerk of the Howard House, Baltimore, holds Owens' effects, including $42,000 in money and securities, subject to advice.

The social science convention at Saratoga discussed the South last night at great length.

R. H. Mason will be appointed surveyor of Montana.

Everts joins the presidential party at Cincinnati on the 15th.

McCrary has gone to Fortress Monroe instead of with the presidential party, which he will join at Dayton.

A sister of Senator Conkling has not been dropped from the pay roll of the New York Custom House.

The Post Office Department has advised that Senator Morton himself remarked to-day that he was feeling better.

FREE TRADE.

First Steps Toward Bringing it About—Organization of a Committee to Forward the Measure— Distinguished Men Members.

SARATOGA, N. Y., September 7.—The conference of free traders met to-day and was called to order by Nathan Appleton, of Boston, chairman of the provisional committee.

Resolved, That the present depression of the industrial, commercial and financial interests of this country are largely due to our inability, under the present law, to dispose of the surplus products of our industrial products which other countries want, and which, but for restriction and injurious legislation, the United States would to a great extent produce and sell better and cheaper than any other nation.

Resolved 2d, That this general depression has been caused mainly by the erroneous financial and commercial policy pursued by the Federal Government since the war, in forgetfulness of the economic axiom that "It is necessary to buy in order to sell," and that it is utterly impossible for us to dispose of the surplus products of our industry to other nations unless we are to accept in return the surplus products of their industry.

Resolved 3d, That by imposing taxes for purposes other than revenue, and by preventing us from cheaply building and buying ships, our shipping, which had become the second in the world, and was fast becoming the first, has been almost swept from the seas.

Resolved 4th, That in view of the fact that large and important interests have grown up under the erroneous fiscal policy which the United States have maintained during a period of sixteen years, due regard must be paid to the security and welfare of these goods; but seeing them prostrate and suffering, in common with others, we are persuaded that if protection has ever done any thing for them, it has done all it can, and that they, no less than others, need for their revival a hearty and healthy growth, a thorough revision of existing tariffs.

Resolved 5th, That as one means toward the revival of commerce and general prosperity, we ask concurrently the revision of our commercial treaties with foreign nations, many of which are unsuited to the present industrial and productive condition of this country, and we ask also that the negotiation of treaties of commerce with countries such as France and Spain, with which we have now no such agreement.

The resolutions were passed. On motion of B. P. Bowler it was Resolved, That Hon. David A. Wells be designated as chairman and Abraham L. Earle as the secretary of the council provided for, with power to nominate to the conference the remaining members, subject to its modification and ratification.

The committee appointed under the above resolution recommended these additional names, which were adopted: Nathan Appleton, Wm Downie, of Boston; O. H. Marshall, A. R. Stokes, F. C. French, W. R. Sperry, of New York; A. S. Riddle, of Philadelphia; A. B. Mason, of Chicago; W. L. Trenholm, of Charleston; G. W. Nichols, of Cincinnati; Charles Nordhoff, of New Jersey. The conference then adjourned.

Morton Worse.

New York, September 7.—A Richmond, Ind., special to the Herald says: "Senator Morton is no better, if indeed he is not worse than he was a week ago."

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

Removal of the Russian Headquarters—Meeting of Bismarck and Andrassy.

What a Victory Cost the Turks.

Movement of Troops.

VIENNA, September 7.—Andrassy and Bismarck met on September 12th or 15th, at Salsburg. It is maintained in ministerial circles that the meeting is a mere act of courtesy.

LONDON, September 7.—The Times Vienna correspondent says: "News has been received that the Russian headquarters have been moved from Gorny Studin to Bulgareni. This may indicate either an advance in the direction of Plevna or a retreat from the neighborhood of the Jantra line."

The Times Vienna correspondent telegraphs: "In spite of Russian subsidies hitherto received, Serbia can less afford to assemble a considerable portion of her male population and maintain them, than she could last year."

Reports from Hobart Pasha to the Porte represent that the new fortifications of Sebastopol are strong enough even without the addition of torpedoes in the harbor, to destroy the finest fleet afloat, which would venture to attack them.

The Times correspondent who was present at the capture of Lovatz, estimates the actual Russian attacking force at twenty-two thousand with one division in reserve. The capture seems to have been effected partly by surprise.

A dispatch to the Times dated Erzeroum, September 4th, says: "The battle of Kazelpepi, which resulted in the Russians being completely driven from their position at Kedarlar, cost the Turks four hundred and thirty in killed, and 1,400 wounded. Kizelpepi hill was held by five battalions of Russian infantry. The remainder having withdrawn to Kardecka on the 23rd of August, were attacked at 2 o'clock on the morning of the 24th by divisions under Ali Pasha, and Mehmet Bey. They were both wounded. The Russians, who were outnumbered by ten to one, fought bravely, but were driven off from their main camp. They came up about 9 o'clock and made three unsuccessful attempts to carry the hill by storm. These were most gallantly repulsed by the Turks who finally remained masters of the field, and have now strongly entrenched Kizelpepi hill."

A special from Constantinople, by way of Syra, to the Times, says: "Three thousand wounded from Suleiman Pasha's army have reached Adrianople. The English doctors report four thousand more at Kazanlek, and that at Schipka they lie all over the steep hillsides."

The uneasiness at Constantinople about the attitude of Greece has subsided, but there is still great distrust of Serbia.

A further issue of six million piastres of paper money has been determined on.

The correspondent of the Times after the capture of Lovatz, by the Russians, which he describes, finds himself at Poreidin, whence he telegraphs: "All messengers between here and Lovatz were accompanied by an escort of cavalry, as the Bashi Bazouks were in the intervening country. Prince Charles, of Roumania, is here in command of all the Russian line facing Plevna. Two divisions of Roumanian troops are here. The Turks showed themselves, yesterday afternoon, but retired into their works before Plevna without doing anything. We are expecting a close of the Plevna business very soon, and a Turkish Sedan as the result."

[NOTE.—This seems to dispose of the rumors of an attack on Plevna, which were current Monday.]

Col. R. Clay Crawford and Osman Pasha Identical.

BALTIMORE, September 6.—Col. R. Clay Crawford, said to be identified as Osman Pasha, of Constantinople, Kent county, in 1867, and published a paper there. He left suddenly about 1873. Marylanders in the Egyptian service wrote home of an American officer known as Osman Bey in the army of the Khedive, and a personal description tallies with that of Crawford, who was tall and stalwart, with a reckless bearing.

Terrific Storm.

MARtha's VINEYARD, MASS., September 7.—A terrible northeast storm began here last night and still continues, the surf breaking over both the high-land and oak bluff wharves. The vessels passing up the sound are running under bare poles.

Competition.

PHILADELPHIA, September 7.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company having been for five years within six miles of the Cumberland coal region in Maryland has decided to extend its track so as to compete with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Yellow Fever at Fernandina, Fla.

SAVANNAH, September 7.—A dispatch from the health officer of Fernandina, to the health officer of this city, acknowledges that the sickness in that city is yellow fever. All vessels and trains from that city will be quarantined.

Health of the Pope.

LONDON, September 7.—A Router dispatch, dated Rome to day, says: "The Pope last evening had a slight attack of weakness, but with no alarming symptoms. He rose late this evening and worked in his study, but he is still weak."

The Presidential Party at Marietta.

MARIETTA, O., September 7.—The Presidential party arrived safely, and was received with military, civil and social honors on an exaggerated scale.

THE NOVEL PRESIDENT.

His Honor Judge Cannon, was as much amused as the bar, jury and spectators, in the court room on Thursday of last week, when Dick Barnes, a sombre-brown African, convicted of larceny, was brought up for sentence.

"Mister Judge," says Dick, "will you allow me to speak a word."

"Certainly," responded the court, "let's hear you."

"Mister Judge, I clar fore God I never stole nothin' in my life, 'cepten' a pig-tail at hog killing time, from my ole missus, when I was a boy, an' Mister Judge, I shall never forgit my punishment. She sewed dat pig-tail to my breeches behind, an' when company would come she would make me come out and shake myself so dat tail would switch, and, Mister Judge, I felt so mean an' got so tired of dat pig-tail dat I never stole nothin' sense. Dat's a fac."
