WASHINGTON, Nov 22.—The Post's special says: "The President, in conversation with a prominent officer, within forty-eight hours, declared unhesitatingly that he would veto any silver bill which does not expressly except the public debt in its operations. He will not approve any measure that has the slightest tendency to impair the national credit or to cause holders of the national securities to think that | still in command on the Lom. they will be paid in currency of less value than gold."

The pressure is strong on the Sena torial question, and the impression prevails that should the question be forced early next week the result will be the seating of Butler, from South Carolina, and Kellogg, from Louisiana. It is known that Senator Conover, of Florida, will vote throughout for the seating of Butler, from South Carolina, and, as at present advised, will vote for seating Kellogg. Conover's friends say of him that his action in these cases is entirely of his own volition, and it must not be construed that he is going over to the Democrats. They claim for him that he has maintained a consistent record, and will be firm, notwithstanding the pressure brought to bear upon him, and, while a Republican, he has the honesty and courage to do that which his own judgment dictates as right. He believes Gen Butler to be entitled to his seat as duly elected, and will, therefore, vote for him as persists ently as he did for Pinchback. The motion to reconsider the vote of

B H DEMAREST.

THE CONFEDERATE ARCHIVES .- Gen D H Maury, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Historical Society, has lately addressed a letter to the New York Herald, in which he opposes the mean and narrow ruling which has hitherto under political influences prevailed, excluding students from access to the important papers Washington can be raised to all who seek historic truth, and when a policy which has denied to Robert E Lee and other Confederates access to their own reports can be abandoned. Such a policy cannot fail to keep alive section-al bitterness, or be explained in any other way than as a purpose to con-ceal or pervert the truth of history. Gen Maury contends that if public money is to be appropriated for the publication of the captuaed documents representative Confederates inals of their own reports before the publication of them, and that equal facilities for their examination should be accorded to all citizens. It is to be presumed that this reasonable suggestion will be urged upon the favorable notice of President Hayes by the Southern delegations.—Baltimore Sun.
